MAY FORCE CROMWELL TO QUIT OTTAWA POST$4,941,322 VOTED
BY COUNTY BOARD
FOR '40 EXPENSES1939 Operating Costs
Increased by $14,504;
North Avenue Underpass Fund Is Provided.

The Fulton county commissioners yesterday adopted a 1940 budget calling for expenditures totaling $4,941,322.60, of which $4,416,239.24 will go to pay the year's operating costs, and $525,083.36 to retire unpaid county warrants of prior years.

The budget is the first ever to be required by law, and was adopted without debate as presented by County Auditor James L. Respass.

The total budget for operating costs shows an increase of $14,504.70 over that actually paid out in 1939 for operating expenses. Included in the budget is an appropriation of $57,500 for the county's share in building the West North Avenue underpass, and $15,000 for construction of a branch library in Buckhead.

While the total budget discloses an increase in operating costs of only $14,504.70, a breakdown of the figures shows that most of the departments or divisions of the county government will get an increase in appropriations over what they paid out last year.

This was accomplished primarily by cutting $129,858.18 from other lawful charges, $52,748.83 from public works, and by reducing the amount set aside for paying off debts of previous years by approximately $95,000.

Court Budget Cut.
Other departments showing decreases in appropriations include the civil court of Fulton county, from $162,764.73 in 1939 to $161,690 in 1940; and public buildings from $102,603.36 to $100,905.

All other departments will receive appropriation increases under terms of the budget. Exclusive of relief, chief increases went to the county police department and the new county health department, both of which totaled approximately $33,500 each. County welfare department received an increase of $81,561.25. WPA sewing room $29,400, and alms house $4,382.48.

The budget shows that unpaid county warrants as of December 31, 1939, total $1,111,332.91. It anticipates that $525,083.36 of this amount will be paid off during the year.

However, the budget also anticipates that during the year $363,832.37 will be carried into 1941 as unpaid county warrants, thus making the total net reduction in outstanding obligations only $161,251.

To Cut Indebtedness.
Respass pointed out that by the end of the year the commission will have reduced its outstanding indebtedness from $1,111,332.91 to $950,081.92.

The estimated regular digest for 1940 will be $235,000,000, while the public service digest will be $35,500,000. These two digests, based on the county tax levy of 13½ mills, will produce a total of $3,638,250. From intangibles the auditor is anticipating $225,000.

Receipts other than taxes will produce $810,000, the auditor estimates, of which $240,000 will go to schools, leaving a balance for the county of $570,000.

From prior year taxes the auditor estimates the county will get during the year a total of $578,490.23.

Respass told the commissioners that his budget leaves the commissioners with but $331 under the total amount which they may appropriate under the new budget law.

Soloist for Sunrise Service

Mrs. Myrtis Trimble Pate, soloist at the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church and well-known concert artist, will be the featured soloist at Atlanta's first all-city Easter sunrise service to be held at 6:30 o'clock Sunday morning at Grant field. She will sing Handel's "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth."

LETTER DRAFTED
ON RELIEF LEVYCommissioners Write Their Interpretation of Juries' Presentments.

Fulton county commissioners yesterday released a letter addressed to The Constitution in which they gave their interpretation of what the county grand jurors meant when they fixed the relief levy for 1940 at 2.75 mills.

The letter was drafted to explain why the commission does not believe it can provide the revenue of a full half mill of the relief levy to go directly for "food, clothing, and shelter for the indigent poor of the county." The amount to be devoted to this purpose under the 1940 levy is derived from .36 mill.

The letter asserts that the commission is pledged to confine the levy for all forms of relief in Fulton county to 2.75 mills, and that this must include assistance to the aged, the blind, and dependent children, which in 1939 was included in a special .17 mill appropriation. The commissioners' letter said that "the January grand jury erroneously assumed that the increased levy would amount to .50 mill, whereas, as a matter of fact it amounts to .36 mill."

The letter further states that the foremen of the grand juries involved had confirmed that it was not the intention of the juries that 2.75 mills cover the entire relief load. Therefore, the statement set forth, since the 2.21 mills for direct relief in 1939 and the .17 mill which was provided for aged, blind, and dependent children totaled together 2.38 mills, the juries by their recommendations have authorized only a .36-mill increase in the relief levy.

The commission also explained that in addition to the $81,000 provided for direct relief by the .36-mill additional levy, it has provided from other funds $29,000 additional for WPA projects, and that "although this amount will not go for food, shelter and clothing, it nevertheless will afford needy women in the county facilities whereby they will be enabled to earn money which will provide them and their families with food, shelter and clothing."

(The text of the commission's statement will be found in Page 12.)

Song, Prayer
To Greet Dawn
Of Easter HereAtlanta Plans for First Annual Sunrise Service.

The soft, sweet notes of the soloist's "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" will float heavenward from Grant field at sunrise Easter morn as Atlantans by the tens of thousands offer their prayers of thanksgiving for an arisen Christ.

All Atlanta virtually is taking part in this, the city's first annual Easter sunrise service.

As the first rays of the early morning sun break over the Grant field bowl (about 6:30 o'clock), the multi-thousand congregation, standing and facing eastward toward the sun and a giant white cross, will open the morning of outdoor worship repeating the doxology—"Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

A 1,000-voice choir, numbering the picked voices of 150 Protestant churches, will swell the songs of prayer.

Around the theme of Handel's "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," to be sung by Mrs. Myrtis Trimble Pate, soloist of the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church, the Resurrection service of song and prayer for the devout will be interwoven.

The Easter morning sermon will be preached by the Rev. Ryland Knight, pastor of the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church.

Under the direction of Dr. Charles A. Sheldon Jr., city organist, the 1,000-voice choir will lead the mass congregation in singing the Easter hymns—Lowry's "Low in the Grave He Lay," Davidica's "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today," and "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," the coronation hymn.

Special buses will be operated from all the downtown intersections to Grant field with transfers being honored. The entire Easter sunrise service will be broadcast over radio station WGST.

The Boy Scouts' annual sunrise service atop Stone Mountain has been called off and the Scouts will serve as ushers for the Atlanta service.

JURY TO CLEAN UP
FLOGGING TERROR,
BOYKIN DECLARESCoups Staged to Overcome Fear of Victims and Witnesses to Testify; Melodrama in Probe

By WILLARD COPE.

Crackling melodrama—compounded of literally scores of tense situations—was staged yesterday and last night on the courthouse third floor in a carefully calculated legal blitzkrieg launched to blast wide open the long mystery of Fulton's county's numerous flogging outrages.

Suspects, victims and persons not easily classified were virtually thrown into each other's laps by a special session of the grand jury for which the groundwork had been laid, in secret, days and nights in advance.

Newspapers co-operated in maintaining the safeguard of anonymity for all witnesses.

Purpose of Coups.

The purpose of the coups, as admitted by the impresario, Solicitor-General John Boykin, his assistant, Daniel Duke, and Captain Frank Jordan, of the county police, was to overcome the unusual difficulties of the case arising from the fears of victims and other witnesses to testify.

Last night, at the end of a 10½-hour session, Boykin declared: "We have hardly scratched the surface. The day's results were so very encouraging that we shall be able to clean up this whole brutal situation."

Certain legal advantages derived by the prosecution, from withholding actual indictment until all essential information had been obtained, was understood authoritatively to be motivating delay.

Identity Guarded.

Victims and witnesses, including certain persons whose identity was more closely guarded than the others, were lodged in impromptu waiting rooms established in Boykin's and Duke's offices.

At intervals, Duke would appear briefly from the grand jury session, whisper a name to a waiting attendant and disappear. Soon a witness would be escorted from his secret haven into the meeting room. There, it was understood, he would stand at a point of vantage while the door was opened into the room where suspects sat restively.

Others were led directly into the waiting room and led around the group. Outside again, they gave the results of the survey to officers.

Rumors in the corridors dealt with the names of at least four officers and of an unofficial personality who had been named persistently as the leader of the East Point flogging band.

Man Gets Fine, Jail
On Usury Counts

Larkin Knight, operator of a salary buying concern under the name of Ford & Company, yesterday was ordered to pay a fine of $750 and serve 30 months on the public works by Judge Jesse Wood in Fulton criminal court.

Knight was found guilty by a jury Wednesday of charging usurious rates of interest and operating a small loan business without a license. Knight has filed $1,500 appeal bond.

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP)—Two darkened greyhounds representing a $45,000,000 investment and carrying 1,000 jaunty British tars raced through tranquil waters tonight in mysterious voyages expected to place them in troopship service between Australia and the Near East.

The $25,000,000 Queen Mary, 81,235-ton pride of the British merchant marine until the recent advent of the Queen Elizabeth, hoisted anchors early today to follow the 35,739-ton, $20,000,000 Mauretania in the troopship service.

SECRET PLANES
SOUGHT BY ALLIESWant to Buy Craft on Which Army and Navy
Can't Get Delivery Now.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(UP)—The Allied purchasing mission, which is pressing a $1,000,000,000 armament buying program in the United States, formally asked the federal government tonight to permit immediate sale of latest experimental and secret warplanes of the army and navy.

The mission made the request to a special interdepartmental committee to co-ordinate foreign purchases headed by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., and also including representatives of the army and navy.

The request came 36 hours after President Roosevelt had advocated mass sales of American planes abroad to build up production channels in this country, and had branded as bunk reports that military secrets would be disclosed.

The mission wants the latest model American warplanes, including secret bombers, interceptors and pursuit ships on which the armed forces have not yet begun to get delivery. The request was immediately referred to high-ranking army and navy officials, who will make recommendations to the co-ordination committee. The latter group, in turn, will submit the matter to Mr. Roosevelt for final decision.

It is understood that the mission, which is headed by Arthur P. Purvis, insisted that it be allowed to acquire the latest type planes, even if secret, on the theory that they cannot be delivered much before 1941, when hostilities with Germany may be raging full blast.

Called Dangerous.

"We have no desire to oppose the bond issue, but we feel that to use the school to defeat the voice of the people is dangerous," Miss Smith said.

After taking no action at the called meeting, the county commissioners yesterday afternoon appointed a co-ordinating committee to work with WPA officials in mapping a long range work relief program for the county. It will be comprised of county commissioners, county and city school board members and mayors of the various municipalities.

Hit Move For Early PrimaryCommissioners, School

Bond Issue.

The Atlanta League of Women Voters circled Fulton county with thousands of pamphlets yesterday, opposing an early primary and contending the politicians are attempting to ram the early balloting down the people's throat.

While these circulars were being distributed, the Fulton county commissioners were in conference with school board members and the mayors of various municipalities within the county, considering the advisability of an early primary for the school bond issue vote.

Action Withheld.

The commissioners took no action on the early primary after long discussion, in which Commissioners Ed L. Almand pointed out that if the bonds were voted immediately, then approximately $3,000,000—including the WPA funds, which can be obtained to match the $750,000 bond issue—would be available to put people on relief to work.

Major Clark Howell, vice chairman of the school board, told commissioners that the school board members were not interested in an early primary, that their sole interest as board members was to get the issue passed and the buildings which the bond money would erect.

He pointed out that the bond issue had a better chance of passing at an election in which there was some other very interesting question up for balloting.

Representing the League of Women Voters, at the meeting, Miss Christine Smith reiterated the league stand that the people of Fulton county voted for a late primary in 1938 and that "if the voice of the people is to be followed" there will be no early primary this year.

"We have no desire to oppose the bond issue, but we feel that to use the school to defeat the voice of the people is dangerous," Miss Smith said.

FRIENDS TESTIFY
FOR GAS PIPE LINEOpponents Declare Their

Proponents of a plan to construct a gasoline pipe line from Port St. Joe, Fla., through Georgia to the Tennessee line yesterday packed the house of representatives to voice their approval of the project at a hearing before the State Highway Board.

Virtually the entire crowd that filled the house almost to capacity was in favor of the pipe line, but attorneys for railroads and other interests opposing the project announced most of their witnesses were informed the hearing had been delayed because of injunction proceedings filed against the Highway Board, and asked that another date be set for hearing their side of the question.

Hearing Continued.
The board continued the hearing until 10 o'clock next Thursday morning.

The Highway Board originally scheduled the hearing to decide whether it would permit the Southeastern Pipe Line Company to lay its pipes beneath state roads. However, Wednesday, 71 citizens and taxpayers filed a petition in Paulding county asking that the board be enjoined from assuming jurisdiction in the matter. Later the injunction proceeding, which is to be heard April 2, was modified to permit yesterday's hearing.

Witnesses yesterday included delegations of citizens from many counties through which the pipe line, which already is under construction, will pass. Most of them told the board they regarded its construction as a progressive step and added they believed it would benefit their communities.

Dashed in Miami

MIAMI, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—The Miami Herald said tonight Mrs. Emory Callahan, who expected to become the mother of quintuplets, actually would give birth normally to only one child.

Mrs. Callahan said yesterday—and her physician confirmed her hopes—that she would bear five children about two months hence. They based their statements on x-rays which were believed to show five distinct heads.

The Herald said a physician arranged new x-rays today which showed only one embryo. The birth, in a normal manner, is expected some time in June.

PRO-ALLY SPEECH
CALLED HARMFUL
TO U. S. RELATIONSCongressional Tempest Whipped Up by Address Includes Demands for Recall of Minister.

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP)—James H. R. Cromwell, fledgling United States minister to Canada and husband of the "world's richest girl," was publicly rebuked by Secretary of State Hull tonight for a strong anti-German, pro-Ally speech.

(Veteran capital observers speculated that the rebuke would cause Cromwell to resign, the United Press said. Several veteran officials said it was the first time in their recollection that the State Department had rebuked an envoy publicly.)

Hull dispatched a telegram to Cromwell saying that the speech he made at Toronto Tuesday violated "standing instructions" and was likely to "disturb the relations between this and other governments." The secretary "asked" the minister not to do it again, and there were indications that if he did, stronger measures would be taken.

Cromwell, husband of the former Doris Duke, tobacco heiress, was at his New Jersey home, but Hull sent his telegram to the American legation at Ottawa, the minister's official residence.

A tempest of congressional criticism and demands for the "unneutral" minister's recall had followed the speech, which was an emphatic condemnation of the Nazis and an expression of desire for Allied victory as a boon to the world. Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, added his voice to the protests today, saying his views were expressed by a Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., professor, who wrote:

"Some pressure must be brought to bear to recall the minister, or Washington authorities must disavow his remarks."

Hull's Telegram.
The letter was presented to the senate foreign relations committee in the form of a petition by Walsh along with a protest from the Harvard University chapter of the American Independence League.

Hull's telegram to the young diplomat, who has been at his post only two months, said: "Public discussion of controversial policies of other governments, particularly with governments engaged in war, without the prior knowledge and permission of this government, is not in accord with such (standing) instructions."

Tinkham Demand.
Hull received today a letter from Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, demanding the recall of Cromwell as the only suitable action in the circumstances.

Cromwell, who has been at his post only two months, is reported in political circles to be sounding out political leaders in New Jersey to ascertain the prospects of his becoming a candidate for United States senator.

M'COY CONVICTED OF SLAYING WIFE, FACES EXECUTION

Butcher Will Receive Death Sentence This Morning; Jury Deliberates for Five Hours.

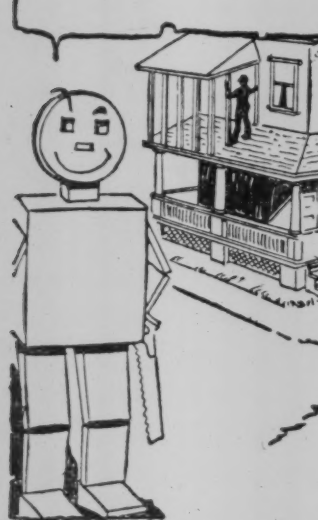

J. C. McCoy, Atlanta butcher, yesterday was found guilty of murder by a Fulton superior court jury which failed to recommend mercy. This makes the death sentence mandatory.

McCoy was charged with killing his wife, Katherine, in their Pine street apartment, last December 14. Testimony was submitted showing that McCoy, while drunk, shot at his father-in-law, J. L. Watson, with whom he had been quarreling, and then fired a bullet into his wife's head.

The jury deliberated about five hours. Assistant Solicitor Quincy Arnold presented the state's case. Judge Paul S. Etheridge will set the death date this morning.

They Fail To Disagree Over Male Being More Independent Than Female

It was surprising, indeed, yesterday when these Agnes Scott College students proved disloyal to their sex and stated positively that men could get along better without women than women could without men. Left to right, they are Miss Alice Inzer, of Gadsden, Ala.; Miss Annette Franklin, of Statesboro, and Miss Mary Reins, of College Park. When the question was put to them, they agreed instantly that men were better equipped to live in a world of one sex.

The only surprising element in the statements of these Emory University students was that they agreed with the women. Naturally, they said, men could live better than women could if the opposite sex was abolished. Left to right are George Eason, of Baxley, Merton Baker, of Orlando, Fla.; Jack Harris, of Rome, and James Joyner, of Reynolds. Both groups said that men possessed greater physical strength and better adaptability to new situations, which would be to their advantage.

U. S. Income Tax Collections Show $1,269,540 Rise

Federal income tax collections in Georgia for the first 20 days of March gained $1,269,540.88 over the corresponding period of 1939, Marion H. Allen, collector of internal revenue, reported yesterday.

The 1940 collections totaled $5,633,249.22, while 1939 receipts were $4,363,708.34. In addition to income taxes received, Georgia corporations also paid $17,867.39 in excess profit taxes during the period.

Officials pointed out that March collections are only a fraction of the total collection for the year since most large taxes are paid in quarterly installments. Total 1939 collections were approximately $17,000,000.

NORTHEAST FACES A CHILLY EASTER

Canadian Cold Wave Is Spreading to Midwest—U. S.

By The Associated Press.
A chill Easter, with weather suggesting earmuffs and mittens rather than gay bonnets and summer clothing, was forecast last night for a belt of northern states extending from the Great Lakes region east to New York and New England.

The mercury plummeted to nine degrees below zero in Minnesota yesterday, and freezing temperatures extended far south. Near polar conditions in Canada, which pushed into the United States, were blamed for the cold reception to the first day of spring.

Cold weather extended down the Atlantic seaboard, but tempered as it reached the Carolinas. The southeastern states enjoyed a typical spring day.

Agnes Scott Girls Agree Men Can Live Alone and Like It Fine

Emory Student Adds That He Thinks 'Maybe They Should.'

What had all the possibilities of being a good argument between Agnes Scott girls and Emory students fizzled out yesterday as representatives of both schools agreed that men could get along a lot better without women than women could without men.

The question, which isn't a very new one, was put to three girls from Agnes Scott and four men from Emory. It was a foregone conclusion that the men would contend their superior ability in existing in a world of one sex.

But when Annette Franklin, Mary Reins and Alice Inzer nodded their heads in unison and said, in effect, "Why, of course, men could get along better without women," that was an argument of a different kind.

DR. C. D. FULTON TO PREACH HERE
Rock Springs Presbyterians Plan Service.

Dr. C. Darby Fulton, of Nashville, will conduct a series of evangelistic meetings at 7:30 o'clock each night during the coming week at Rock Springs Presbyterian church.

Dr. Fulton is executive secretary of the foreign mission committee of the Presbyterian church in the United States, and chairman of the Foreign Missions Conference of North America, a body made up of more than 100 foreign mission boards.

Miss Eda Bartholomew, church organist, will be in charge of the music during the meetings, and Bill Beck will lead the congregational singing.

NLRB IS HIT AGAIN; FUNDS SLASH URGED

House Appropriations Body Declares Labor Board Is 'Overstaffed.'

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(P) The Labor Relations Board, already under fire in congress because of its administrative policies, was dealt another blow today when the house appropriations committee proposed a $337,000 cut in the $3,180,000 appropriation recommended for it by President Roosevelt.

The committee declared the board to be "overstaffed," recommended abolition of its economic research division headed by David Sapping, and indirectly accused it of poor personnel management by suggesting reductions in salaries for "employees promoted too rapidly."

Alleged radical views on the part of Sapping have figured in the current investigation of the board by a special house committee.

Some of his writings on economic matters were offered in evidence before the committee, but Sapping said they presented a summary of the views of others, not his own opinions.

The appropriations committee wielded a heavy economy ax all along the line in presenting to the house a $954,000,000 appropriation bill for the Labor Department, the Federal Security Agency and related organizations.

Asserting that the wage-hour law contained many ambiguities and that there was a consequent "confused administrative problem," the committee said that it would be "imprudent" for congress to approve a big increase in the administrative setup. So it proposed a 14 per cent cut in President Roosevelt's request for $7,486,400.

YOUNG EVANGELIST CHOPS AWAY HAND

Severs Right Finger Then Switches Over.

PITTSBURGH, March 21.—(P) Emmanuel Shapiro, 22-year-old evangelist, chopped off his left hand in the basement of a church today after severing a finger on his right hand in an apparent attempt to cut off that hand.

A janitor found him and rushed out to call police, but before they arrived Shapiro started for the home of his parents, more than a mile distant. Police picked him up two hours later and rushed him to a hospital. He refused to discuss his act.

Dave Garvin, the janitor, said the evangelist had fixed a butcher knife in a vice, laid his left wrist against the knife and hacked off the hand with a hatchet.

SMOKE IS CONDEMNED BY MERCHANTS' GROUP

Atlanta Retail Merchants Association, at their last meeting, adopted a resolution condemning the smoke nuisance in Atlanta and ordered copies sent to the mayor, members of city council, and the smoke inspector of the city, together with a letter congratulating them on the manner in which the problem is being attacked.

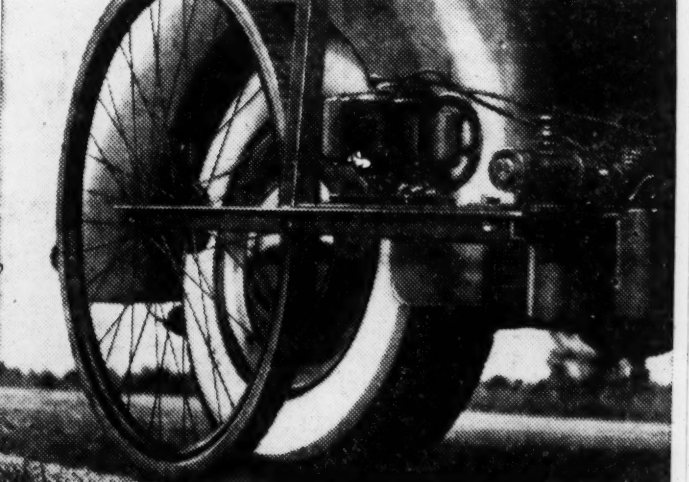

The resolution recommended the problem be solved by "definite rules and regulations with penalties for violation," rather than by persuasion and education.

GENTLE SPRING RAINS FORECAST

Temperatures Will Approximate Yesterday's.
Cloudy skies, occasional showers, and temperatures approximately the same as yesterday's have been forecast for Atlanta today by the United States Weather Bureau.

The rains, bureau officials conceded, will be in the gentle spring tradition, and not the blustery, cold downpours of winter. Yesterday's extremes were 67 and 45 degrees.

ARNALL UNAWARE OF GALLOGLY MOVE

Prisoner Says He Plans to Ask Freedom of Federal Court.

Attorney General Ellis Arnall said yesterday he "had not been informed" of the new move on the part of Dick Gallogly to escape being returned to Georgia to complete a life sentence for murder.

Gallogly, who is being held in the Dallas, Texas, county jail, told the Associated Press he planned to ask the federal court to grant him his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus.

"I have not been informed of any new legal move on the part of this prisoner," Arnall said. "No less than six legally constituted authorities of Texas have decreed that he must return to Georgia. We have had six legal fights with him in Texas and won them all."

Arnall said he understood that a police detail would be sent to Dallas next week to return the prisoner.

Sets Course for White House

Postmaster General Farley announced at Boston that his name would be presented to the Democratic national convention as a presidential candidate. He's shown with his daughter, Betty, Wellesley College student, to whose schoolmates he spoke. "That's that," he commented in announcing his political intentions.

FARLEY FINE MAN, ICKES DECLARES

Says None in Field Now Could Swing the Nomination.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(P) Secretary Ickes, who advocates a third term for President Roosevelt, said today that no Democratic presidential candidate now in the field could control enough delegates to win the nomination.

He included Vice President Garner, Federal Security Administrator McNutt and Postmaster General Farley.

Ickes made the one-sentence statement to his press conference in reply to a question, and declined to elaborate.

In reply to another question, he declined to give an opinion as to whether the Democratic national convention would draft President Roosevelt.

"You might want a girl to marry you," he parried, "but that is no assurance she would have you."

Ickes was questioned also regarding Farley's unreserved announcement of his candidacy yesterday.

"Every American citizen has that right," he said, "and Farley is a fine man."

He replied that "Jim can be depended on to do the right thing" when asked whether Farley, in view of his announcement, should resign as chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Ickes, who at one time said that McNutt could not get the support of the liberal element if he were the Democratic nominee, declined to comment in this respect about Farley.

MARCH 31 LIMIT SET FOR AAA FARM DATA

Conservation Program Work Sheets Must Be Filed This Month.

March 31 will be the last day to file work sheets for farms coming under the agricultural conservation program, Homer S. Durden, state AAA administrative officer, said this week.

"Farms which were not covered by work sheets in 1937, 1938 and 1939 must have them this year if their operators are to share in the 1940 agricultural conservation payments," Durden said.

The AAA official also said county offices have been notified of the closing date for accepting work sheets, and that farmers who have not filed them should do so at an early date.

The closing date for a farmer to file a request for reconstitution of a farm also is March 31. Durden said no requests for "combinations" or "splits" after that date will be acceptable.

BOARD TO ASSIGN STATE ROAD WORK

Three-County Letting Is Scheduled Thursday.

State Highway Board announced yesterday it would award contracts next Thursday on road projects in Chattooga, Gilmer and Early counties estimated to cost about $167,000.

Chief Engineer W. B. Brantley said the board would let other projects involving federal aid probably on April 12, but could not announce details yet.

The Thursday letting will be for the following strictly state aid projects: Chattooga—4.726 miles shaping base and surface treatment on Rome-Summerville road.

Gilmer—7.24 miles shaping base and surface treatment on Ellijay-Jasper road.

Early—8.06 miles stabilized road bed with surface treatment, also 2.75 miles surface treatment on the Blakely-Colquitt road.

DIRT ROAD DRIVING IS MORE EXPENSIVE

AMES, Ia., March 21.—(U. P.)—An automobile can be driven 15 miles on pavement for the same cost it can be driven for 12 miles on gravel or 11 miles on earth road if all operating costs are considered, a survey by the Iowa engineering experiment station reveals.

WHELCHER, JONES READY TO APPEAR FOR JURY TODAY

O. John Rogge Refuses
Comment on Inquiry; Is Also Silent on Possible Flogging Action.

Congressman B. Frank Whelcher, of Gainesville, and H. Grady Jones, Pickens county commissioner, will appear before the federal grand jury at 10 o'clock this morning when the jury resumes its inquiry into Whelcher's campaign expenses after a day's recess.

Whelcher and Jones will appear before the body at the request of W. Paul Carpenter, the congressman's attorney, and with the permission of United States Attorney Lawrence S. Camp. Both men will sign waivers of immunity before entering the jury room.

Here to aid in the investigation, O. John Rogge, assistant attorney general of the United States, refused to comment on the Whelcher inquiry, was noncommittal when asked whether or not the federal government would take a hard line in the flogging cases, and raised his eyebrows when asked whether or not any investigation would be made into Georgia Highway Board affairs.

Rogge did say, however, that Albert Arant, a civil liberties specialist of his staff, would remain in Atlanta for a short while to work with attaches of Lawrence Camp's office and that he was interested in the "possibilities that lie in the enforcement of federal criminal statutes to clean up unhealthy local situations."

As an example he pointed out Louisiana and the clean-up effected there, mainly through federal indictments.

Rogge asserted he was considering placing one experienced trial man from his Washington office in each of the ten federal judicial circuits to keep him informed of local conditions and act as liaison man between Washington and the circuit areas.

How Will She Vote This Fall?

Where will California stand in the coming presidential election? A special Gallup report on the state shows majority sentiment favorable to the Democrats at the present time. Above: the state capitol at Sacramento.

Gallup Poll Finds California Is Fairly Safe for Democrats

Majority Prefer for Same Party to Stay in Power; 51 Per Cent Would Vote for F. D. R.
for Third Term.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.
PRINCETON, N. J., March 21.—Despite a sizable defection in Democratic party strength in California since 1936, special studies of voting sentiment in the state indicate that California would have to be put down as reasonably safe for the Democrats at the present time. With the 1940 campaign only a few months off, a majority of the state's voters say they want the Democratic party to win the presidential election in November.

California's 22 electoral votes will be a rich political prize in the campaign and from present indications the Democratic party will need all the votes it can get in the west to offset Republican strength in the east, where New York and Pennsylvania are closely divided in sentiment between the major parties today.

The California situation is shown in the replies to the following question which was put to a cross-section of the state's voters: "Which party would you like to see win the presidential election this year?"

California Voters
Want Democrats to win 58%
Want Republicans to win 42%

Whereas the war in Europe brought a sharp rise in the popularity of the Democratic party and of President Roosevelt throughout the country, surprisingly enough, this trend has not been apparent in California. In fact, the Democratic party there is not so strong today as it was last July, before the war broke out.

An Institute study at that time found that 60 per cent wanted to see the Democrats win the election, as against 58 per cent today.

Third-term sentiment in California is evenly divided today, with a slight majority favorable. On the question, "If President Roosevelt were to run for a third term will you vote for him?" the vote divides as follows:

Would Vote For 51%
Would Vote Against 49%

POVERTY REDUCTION HELD NO. 1 PROBLEM

Fortune Survey of Public Opinion Reveals Striking Facts.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
NEW YORK, March 21.—The American people believe national security can best be served if the federal government spends more money for reducing poverty and unemployment than it spends for increasing armaments, for dealing with agricultural problems, or for public construction, the Fortune Survey reveals today.

The results of this latest scientific sampling of public opinion, which will be published next week in the April issue of Fortune, also disclose that:

1. In spending to reduce poverty and unemployment, the public thinks old-age pensions are more important than slum clearance and better housing, training skilled labor, or work relief.

2. The public believes the navy and air force should receive larger shares of armament expenditures than the army or the training of civilian pilots.

3. In spending for dealing with agricultural problems, the most favored projects are reforestation and soil conservation—and controlling farm production is the most unpopular.

4. In spending for public works, flood control far outranks big national highways, airports and federal power plants in public favor.

By scoring each first place mention of a proposed expenditure at 100; second place, 75; third place, 50; fourth place, 25; unimportant, 0; "don't do at all," minus 100, this is how the four groups of spending items ranked in public favor (100 points is the perfect score):

Score in Points.

Reducing poverty and unemployment 76

Increasing armaments 65

Dealing with agricultural problems 62

Public construction 42

Pensions Tops Relief.

And so the Fortune Survey asked this question: "Of these things having to do with reducing poverty and unemployment—providing work relief, providing old-age pensions, clearing slums and providing better housing, and training skilled labor—which do you think is, or might be, the most important on which to spend money in order to build up a better and stronger nation? Which second? third? fourth?"

Scoring the replies in the same manner, the public favored the individual projects in this order:

Score in Points.

Old-age pensions 60

Slum clearance and better housing 58

Training skilled labor 56

Work relief 52

"The class and occupational differences are fairly sharp," Fortune states, "with the upper income groups, the executives and the white collar workers giving first place to the training of skilled labor, and the poor and industrial labor giving preference to work relief. Age also is reflected strongly in the replies, and if you took only the votes of people under 30, the training of skilled labor would rank in first place, work relief next, housing third, and pensions last."

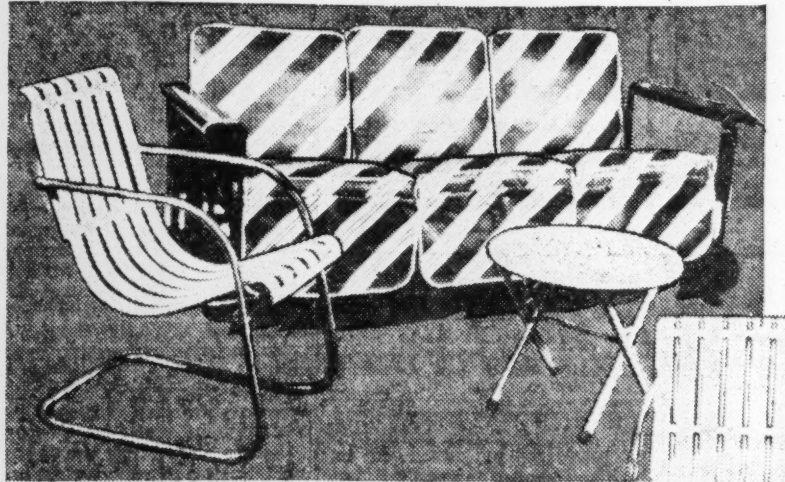

BULLET BACKFIRES IN BACKYARD GOLF

PASADENA, Cal., March 21.—(UP)—James R. Pharies, 26, has been practicing a novel sport, invented by himself. It consisted of "teeing" a 22-caliber cartridge off a tuft of grass with a golf club. If the club hit the primer and the cartridge exploded it was a good shot.

The bullets were aimed at a garden wall. But when his wife, for the first time, took a shot with a mashie, the cartridge backfired and the bullet entered her calf. Police advised Pharies to do his teeing hereafter with a golf ball.

RUSSIAN ATTACK ON NORDICS SEEN BY VATICAN PAPER

Aggression Will Follow Completion of Naval Base and Rail Lines, L'Osservatore Warns.

VATICAN CITY, March 21.—(AP)—The Vatican City newspaper L'Osservatore Romano today interpreted Soviet Russia's veto of the proposed Finnish-Norwegian-Swedish defense pact as evidence of further aggressive designs of the Soviet in that area.

L'Osservatore said it was not necessary to be a prophet to see the future course of events in that part of Europe.

"The conclusion is very simple," said the paper, "Russia recognizes herself as a typically aggressive country, since she considers automatically directed against her any defensive alliance which can only be directed against an aggressor precisely because it is defensive."

A statement of Tass, official Russian news agency, that the proposed alliance is directed against the Soviet, L'Osservatore said, "made clear that henceforth all defensive measures of Sweden and Norway may be considered 'provocations' by Russia."

"Consequently when Russia has adequately equipped her new naval base which she obtained in the Baltic (at Hanko), and obtained the new railway communications which Finland now is obligated to build before the end of 1940, then Moscow will draw the consequences from these 'systematic provocations' of the Scandinavian countries. It is not necessary to be a prophet to foresee this development of events."

GEORGIANS ELIGIBLE FOR 400 U. S. POSTS

Civil Service Positions, Open to State Residents, Are Unfilled.

More than 400 civil service positions open to residents of Georgia have yet to be filled, according to an announcement made in Washington yesterday by the United States Civil Service Commission.

"Although the apportioned classified civil service," the announcement said, "is by law located in Washington, D. C., it nevertheless includes only about half of the federal civilian positions in the District of Columbia."

"Positions in local post offices, customs districts and other field services outside of the District of Columbia, which are subject to the civil service act, are filled almost wholly by persons who are local residents of the general community in which the vacancy exists."

ELECTRIC COOKING URGED IN HOUSING

Unions Seek Installations at Projects Here.

A resolution urging the Atlanta Housing Authority to provide facilities for electric cooking in at least part of the local projects was adopted by Local Union No. 48, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, last week, and by the Local Union No. 613, I. B. E. W., at its meeting this week.

The local unions also plan to communicate with Danie W. Tracy, international president of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and urge him to use his efforts with the Federal Housing Authority toward procuring electrical facilities for the Atlanta projects.

The resolution set forth the advantages of electric cooking, and stated that several thousand persons in Atlanta and Georgia should be given the opportunity to work on an electric program at the housing projects.

Ship Headed for British Trade Is Partially Sunk

The steamer Panamanian, designed to provide the first direct service between Baltimore and England since passage of the neutrality act, is shown listing at a 10-degree angle in Baltimore harbor yesterday, her keel resting on the bottom. The vessel called for help, saying her engine room was flooded and that great quantities of water had been shipped in an unknown manner while the Panamanian lay at her pier.

WAR TRADE VESSEL FILLS WITH WATER

Steamer Panamanian Is Flooded at Baltimore; G-Men Silent.

BALTIMORE, March 21.—(AP)—The 27,000-ton steamer Panamanian, with which Arnold Bernstein, German-Jewish shipping magnate, plans to inaugurate direct freight service to England, lay helpless and partially filled with water in Baltimore harbor today.

The Panamanian, here to take on cargo, shipped great quantities of water in an unexplained manner last night while lying at her Locust Point pier. Today she listed at a 10-degree angle, her keel touching bottom.

Bernstein, a German-Jewish World War hero, once controlled two ship lines with 80,000 tons of shipping. In 1937 he was found guilty of violating the Nazi regime's stringent exchange laws, and was fined $400,000 and sent to jail for 30 months.

Ruined, he fled Germany after his imprisonment and came to New York to start life anew at 51. In three months he set up his own firm with four chartered ships.

The Panamanian was scheduled to take supplies to the foes of its fatherland.

There were reports that the vessel took on water through side ports while pumping oil, but agents here refused to confirm or deny this, or to comment on possible sabotage. The engine room and the after cargo holds were filled with water.

E. A. Souci, agent in charge of the Baltimore office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, declined comment on reports that the FBI was investigating possible sabotage.

EDUCATOR SCORES PARTY-TROTTER

Holds Universities Can't Be Social Clubs.

CLEVELAND, March 21.—(UP)—Too many party-trotting, academically incompetent students clutter up the halls of learning today, believes Dr. Howard L. Bevis, newly elected president of Ohio State University.

"You can't maintain universities as social clubs," the former Cincinnati law professor said in an address here pleading for more rigorous admission standards in American colleges and universities.

Dr. Bevis pointed out that he had no quarrel with social activities on campus, saying that they serve an important function. But he warned that colleges are designed as educational centers and have no business with the All-American prom-trotter too much in evidence on the campus at the present time.

Red Armies Quickly Improved After Early Defeats by Finns

'Russian Equipment Was as Good as Any Known'—Expert.

By JAMES ALDRIDGE

Released by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.

STOCKHOLM, March 21.—(By Wire)—The Russo-Finnish war has revealed more secrets of the Red army than the world, hungry for knowledge of it, had learned in the 20 years of its existence.

Untried except for small-time stuff in the Far East, the Red army had as its first real testing ground the hardest region it could have picked in Europe and for its first capable opponent probably the best individual fighters in the world.

Out of this terrific testing pit, the Red army has emerged totally different from the Red army that entered it. And in three months of fighting it has revealed secrets which were hitherto unknown.

Typical of any Red army division was the famous 44th division, which was destroyed between Suomussalmi and the Russian border in January. And what this revealed goes for the whole Red army.

Super-Mechanized.

What did this engagement reveal? Stretched along the road for five miles, each detail of this column gave away something. It was the most super-mechanized column of any army known to the world. Equipped with the world's largest number of units of lorries, tanks, cars and trucks, and almost all dependent on fuel and other supplies, the column developed into something cumbersome from the moment it got too far beyond its base.

The first secret revealed was that, for the Finnish type of fighting, the Red army was over-equipped. But all of the Red army's fighting will not be in Finland, so what was this equipment like? The best judges of this are the Finnish soldiers and experts themselves, who got close to the time any Russian equipment fell into their hands. Most of it was equipment such as they never had seen before and never dreamed they would possess.

Finns Prize Guns.

Time and time again the Finnish commanders would tell me jokingly, but really seriously, that the best equipment they had was that captured from the Russians. New weapons, like anti-tank rifles and machine pistols, were similar to those used by the Finns. The new type of revolver did not jam and was better than automatic pistols. All of it revealed secret numbers.

Tech Students Trip in Spelling; Professors Blame Bad Training

Tiny Words Likes 'Its' and 'Lose' Harass Engineers.

By CHARLES GILMORE.

The pair of words most frequently misspelled by students at Georgia Tech contain but three letters each. They are, according to English department faculty members, the words "too" and "its."

For some obscure reason, the professors say, engineering scholars have a tendency to drop one of the o's in "too" and with absolute abandon fling an apostrophe into "its" when an apostrophe is not needed, or leave it out when the situation calls for one.

In fact, several of the instructors claim the facility of students in English is falling off rapidly, that public schools today are not equipping their graduates for college English courses.

Although freshman English term papers are more interesting to read than, say, 10 years ago, the professors are finding more and more mistakes, and the students are having difficulty in composing readable paragraphs or even sentences.

Repeated Mistakes.

Dr. William G. Perry, head of the English department, says that the words misspelled most frequently are a small part of the vocabulary. In other words, he points out, the average student makes the same mistake again and again.

For example, the third most popular error is in the word "lose," which often takes on an additional "o" and sometimes another "s." The same student might make that mistake several times a year.

Other frequently misspelled ber two—that the Russian equipment was good, most of it was Russian made, and it showed that they had inventiveness for new weapons.

And yet, with all this excellent equipment and mechanization, Russian divisions were destroyed time and again. Why? The answer is in secret number 3—tactics and strategy. Militarists say that an army learns only as it goes along and that death is the best teacher of tactics. This goes for the Red army, which had learned about warfare in theory and had practiced it on a wide-open terrain. The moment that it got into a close-wooded country, its open-war tactics failed and it did not know except by experience what tactics ought to be used.

Russians Improved.

Did the Russian improve? Yes, they did and quickly. So quickly that on February 28 the Finnish command issued a statement that any reporting of Russian deficiencies by foreign correspondents in the future would not be allowed, because the Russians had been getting quick reports from the foreign press and were remedying their faults immediately. It was also forbidden to mention the Finns' tactics in fighting and in camouflage, etc., for the Russians also copied these in double time.

The Russians inevitably learned many lessons as they went along, not only from the foreign press, but from circumstances, and by the time the war ended they had reached a fighting form which surprised the Finns and finally resulted in the buckling up of the Finnish defense. They also adopted new methods, such as armored sleighs, three-story dugouts and dummy encampments to draw bombing planes to the anti-aircraft guns.

Three Months' Course.

In three months the Red army was different from the blundering mass that first entered Finland. But it never equalled the Finnish army. If the Finns had had themselves, who got close to the time any Russian equipment fell into their hands. Most of it was equipment such as they never had seen before and never dreamed they would possess.

Time and time again the Finnish commanders would tell me jokingly, but really seriously, that the best equipment they had was that captured from the Russians. New weapons, like anti-tank rifles and machine pistols, were similar to those used by the Finns. The new type of revolver did not jam and was better than automatic pistols. All of it revealed secret numbers.

HUGE GAME PRESERVE IS OFFERED TO UTAH

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 21.—(AP)—The American Mining and Smelting Company has offered the state at a rental price of $1 per acre a year, an 11,000-acre game preserve near Magna, together with the huge herds of elk and deer that have accumulated there.

It was originally bought to prevent over-grazing and floods. The state would be required to prevent poaching.

NO PHONE CALL COSTS $5.

OCEAN CITY, N. J., March 21.—(AP)—A five-cent telephone call he didn't make cost Harvey Dukes $5. Dukes was fined for disorderly conduct after pounding on the telephone company business office door and then scaling a fire escape to enter the operators' room. He said he wanted to make a telephone call.

school instruction. They point out that not only is spelling falling off, but also there seems to be more disregard for the simple rules of English.

One man, who doesn't want to be quoted, says that six years ago an average class could finish a theme in an hour, but today many of the students require two hours to get an idea down on paper.

Lloyd W. Chapin, chairman of the Freshman English department, claims that inattention and incorrect pronunciation are two basic causes for poor spelling, as well as other grammatical errors. He does not believe, however, that getting worse in their ability to write English.

About one-third of the students at Georgia Tech will have a spelling error in every written composition. But only one in 20 will have more than four misspellings.

Department spokesmen did not claim to know why spelling was getting worse or why it took students longer to prepare a paper; but, obviously, it's something in the preparatory training, they say.

Other members of the department place the blame on grammar

11 SHIPS DAMAGED IN NAZI ATTACKS

39 Lives Lost as Planes, Subs Harass British, Neutral Vessels.

By The Associated Press. A furious German air assault and sporadic submarine attacks hit 11 British and neutral ships and took at least 39 lives in the last two days, late British reports showed last night.

The 1,654-ton Danish motorship Algier was torpedoed in the Atlantic without warning and sank in three minutes, 20 survivors who reached shore after 10 hours in a lifeboat said. Four crew members and a woman passenger were lost. The extent of damage in a German air raid on a British convoy remained a mystery.

The admiralty said German claims of having sunk nine warships and merchantmen were "in excess"; that three ships first reported bombed "now are safe"; and that two others were damaged but reached port.

French Cabinet Issue.

The latter five vessels were listed respectively as: The Norwegian Svinna, 1,267 tons, and Tora Elise, 721 tons; the Swedish Utsjokan, 1,599 tons; the Norwegian Erling Lindoe, 1,281 tons, and the British Northern Coast, 1,211 tons.

France's brand-new wartime cabinet, a conglomerate but not complete array of political talent, was the big question mark in the international scene.

It was a question how long the untried government formed by Paul Reynaud would last and on it depended the immediate future of French moves in the war on Germany.

The Nazi press interpreted the formation of the new French government as a "battle notice" to Germany.

"War and Again War."

"Germany knows what it owes this cabinet war and again war," said the Berliner Lokal-Anzeiger. "It is the battle notice of Jewish and other high finance against National Socialist Germany."

The newspaper said the return of former Premier Daladier as defense minister in the Reynaud government was based on the fact that the French general staff "regards him as its representative."

Meanwhile, direct from the island of Sylt, the first eyewitness account of the effects of Britain's six-hour bombing raid of Tuesday night and Wednesday became available.

American correspondents, escorted to Hornum on the Nazi air base of Sylt, reported they saw no evidence of damage to the strategic Hindenburg dam or railway which feeds the island.

A building which the Germans described as an infirmary received a direct hit, and sand dunes at the southern end of the island were peppered by British bombs. The correspondents could see no sign that hangars had been hit directly.

WAR ADDS WORK FOR ICE PATROL

Ships Which Gave Information Now Will Keep Silent.

BOSTON, March 21.—(UP)—The international ice patrol faces its severest test in 26 years of operation this year because of the European war.

It is known that belligerent ships, which already have abolished weather reports, will not send out data of icebergs—and it is on these reports that the patrol relies to maintain its spotless record.

'War Committee' of Reynaud

Reynaud's 'Push-War' Cabinet Given Cold Reception in France

Daladier's Party Adopts Aloof Attitude Toward New Setup.

By JOHN LLOYD.

PARIS, March 21.—(AP)—The quickly created Paul Reynaud "push the war" cabinet of France headed immediately into trouble tonight, with some doubtful headshaking in French parliamentary quarters as to its chances of survival.

Acting rapidly to suit the demand that France be spared a lengthy period without a government, Reynaud, finance minister in Edouard Daladier's regime, put an end to the original cabinet crisis in a single day but fell short of satisfying the whole cross-section of French political opinion.

It was neither a small, compact government Reynaud produced nor a complete national union government to take in all parties from right to left.

22 Ministers.

The new cabinet has 22 ministers—three more than the Daladier government which resigned yesterday, and two powerful rightist groups are not co-operating. Much of the parliamentary furor that brought on the fall of the Daladier government was for a small, wily cabinet.

A possible sop to this demand was Reynaud's creation within the cabinet of a "war committee" made up of himself, Camille Chautemps, who retains the vice premiership he held in the previous cabinet; ex-Premier Edouard Daladier, who remains as minister of national defense; Georges Mandel, new minister of colonies; Lucien Lamoureux, new minister of finance; and Raoul Dautry, armaments minister.

The most mystifying development was a decision by Daladier's Radical Socialist party, which has seven ministers in the new cabinet, to hold its attitude in reserve pending action by the Reynaud government.

'HOOKED' FOR $20.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 21.—(AP)—Mrs. F. B. Myers wasn't fooling when she said somebody "hooked" $20 from her room. The thief straightened a wire coat hanger, reached through an open window and lifted the money from a dresser, she told police.

350,000 FAMILIES SHARE A BIRTHDAY

TODAY, as you read this advertisement, a fine old gentleman and his wife are basking in the sunshine of a little California town. They can afford to take things easy, for theirs is the security of Provident Mutual monthly income checks. They are two of the nearly 40,000 policy owners who, in the last 75 years, have received a total of 132 millions of dollars in their declining years from Provident Mutual Endowment policies.

Today in another city a young widow and her children face life bravely and fearlessly because punctually on the first of every month they receive a Provident Mutual income check, guaranteed as long as the mother lives. From the fulness of her heart she writes: "I don't know what I would do without it." She is only one of the 37,000 individuals to whom the Provident has paid 190 millions of dollars in death claims since its organization in 1865.

Today in an Eastern university a boy is poring over a chemistry text-book. He had not expected to go to college, for his Dad had been wiped out by the depression. But fortunately there were still the cash values of Dad's Provident policies—and a life-long ambition will become a reality for him as well as for many of the thousands to whom the Provident has paid 182 millions of dollars in cash values, annuities, and other values, not including dividends.

These stories, repeated many times over with countless variations, are the stories of the approximately 150,000 families who have already benefited from Provident Mutual service, and typify the aspirations of the nearly 200,000 families who today are banded together as owners of the Company on its 75th birthday. To them we extend our birthday greetings, and on this, our diamond anniversary, we take pride not so much in our millions of assets, nor in our nearly one billion of insurance in force, as in the homes which have been enriched through the magic miracle of life insurance.

A leading role in this every-day drama of living is played by the Provident Mutual agent, who through times of adversity as well as prosperity has helped to safeguard the future of his clients. The high esteem of the people he has protected is a tribute to his friendly service.

We invite you to send for a copy of Provident Mutual's 1939 Annual Report, including the balance sheet of assets and liabilities; the summary of income and disbursements; and the list of securities held by the Company for the benefit of its policy owners and beneficiaries.

Putting Out to Unknown Fate Beyond Horizon

Here's Britain's majestic Queen Mary, slipping out to sea from New York yesterday, presumably for troopship duty. The scene is the Hudson river, and the picture was taken from under a gun aboard another British ship, the Lancastria, which has just reached haven in America after crossing the Atlantic from Liverpool.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., March 21.—(P)—A redheaded bewitcher in a blue sarong and a blond beauty in a lace evening gown were tossed out of jail today and policemen went back to reading department regulations and other bulletin board notices in their rest room. For three months the glamour girls, who graced two "art calendars," held positions of honor on the bulletin board. Their winning smiles and casual attire often helped officers forget weary assignments. But then came a "cleanup campaign," and the objects of the policemen's affections were evicted. No one would say where the eviction order came from, but one officer let out a hint when he complained: "City officials are taking all the romance out of our business."

WASHED POTATOES
BRING TOP PRICES

ALLIANCE, Neb., March 21.—(P)—A success story of Nebraska "spuds" was the big topic today at Nebraska Potato Improvement Association sessions here. Howard M. McLean, area manager for the Nebraska Certified Potato Growers' Co-operative, told how growers cracked the Chicago market on a big scale, getting top prices by a simple new practice. They washed their potatoes and graded them in a uniform high quality pack. As a result, he said, an estimated 2,000 carloads of Nebraska "spuds" went to market this year as compared with about 50 in past seasons.

The treasurer's latest report shows a $101.34 reduction in the fund. The visitor's worthless check came back, and the bank charged $1.34 for handling it.

BRITISH MINORITY
FAVORS PEACE TALK

Some Groups Would Like Negotiations With Hitler To End War.

By COL. FREDERICK PALMER, For North American Newspaper Alliance. LONDON, March 21.—(By Cable)—Any person who had his ears open was soon apprised after the visit of Sumner Welles, Undersecretary of State, that there are certain undercurrents in Great Britain which favor conducting negotiations with Chancellor Hitler, without continuing the war for the elimination of Der Fuehrer and his regime as the only method of obtaining peace.

Publicly we know that Lloyd George is in favor of an exploration of the possibilities of such negotiations. Other Liberals and 170 Labor members and groups stand solidly behind the government, whose firm war policy faces no opposition except now and then that of a few peace-at-any-price pacifists and Mosley's fading British Union and the conscientious objectors. These dissidents are more or less out in the open.

Quiet About It. But no man of any standing would invite the storm of disapprobation by publicly announcing that he is in favor of a negotiation with Hitler.

All Britons would agree with him in wishing that England might be spared the cost in blood and treasure of a prolonged war, from which they see no escape. In talking with advocates of such a negotiation I put to them certain questions which they are accustomed to hear:

"What terms would be acceptable?" The consensus of extreme concessions was the re-establishment of smaller Polish and Bohemian states and some economic adjustment that would involve the return of the German colonies to Germany.

What Guarantees? "What guarantees of security are there that such a peace would not mean only a breathing spell for Hitler to prepare for further aggression?"

One answer was—disarmament. "How would it be enforced?" One plan was that the little neutral nations should act as inspectors.

What of France? "There was the rub. France would expect conscription in Britain to assure a large ready army as protection against a future German invasion."

LAGUARDIA SUGGESTS
'NEW YORKER' SKIRTS

NEW YORK, March 21.—(P)—Mayor LaGuardia believes women's styles should be "typical New Yorker." That's what he told 600 men and women stylists last night. "Extreme designs may go for a while, but you must remember you're designing for 2,000,000 people in New York City; they travel in buses and subways; they must walk—and they can't walk with dainty little steps. They have to stride out," the mayor said. "I hope to see the time come when people will be copying New York models."

WHISKY CONCEALED

GREENVILLE, Miss., March 21.—(P)—Sheriff's deputies late yesterday discovered a new hiding place for whisky—underneath a setting hen.

After two futile searches of suspected property a trio of county officers frightened a red hen off her nest of a half-dozen eggs and beneath the straw found a cache of 14 half-pints of whisky.

FISHERMAN'S HOPE

PORTLAND, Ore., March 21.—(P)—F. C. Reiter caught a 69-pound salmon and proudly took it home. Then he noticed valuable prizes were being offered in a fishing contest. Atlantan Just Doesn't Scare, Defies Threats Made by Phone Whoever are making those threatening phone calls to W. W. Mosley, operator of the Oakland City shoe repair shop at 1161 Lee street, aren't scaring him worth a cent, but are getting Mosley's Irish up no little.

And just in case his mysterious callers decide to take more drastic steps Mr. Mosley is ready with a .38 revolver lying close to his hand under the counter where he works.

A black-haired, square-jawed Irishman, Mr. Mosley is remembered by neighbors as the man who, despite a knife-slash on his arm, punched a would-be holdup man on the jaw not long ago, then came out from behind the counter to stamp all thoughts of larceny out of the thief.

The calls which Mr. Mosley has reported to police came Wednesday afternoon within a few minutes of each other.

The first two merely asked: "Do you know anybody who belongs to the Ku Klux Klan, out there?"

To which Mr. Mosley said "No," and hung up.

The third call asked the same question, and was followed by the query:

"You'd talk if anybody asked you, wouldn't you?" Before Mr. Mosley answered the voice went on.

"If something happened to that kid of yours you'd talk, wouldn't you?"

This got Mr. Mosley's dander up, for his son Walter, 12-year-old Joe Brown Junior High student, is the apple of his eye.

"They try to do anything to that boy," he said, "and there will be plenty of trouble."

FLOOD WORK URGED IN ROSSVILLE AREA

Tennessee Senators Seek Immediate Approval.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP) Immediate enactment of legislation to authorize a $13,500,000 flood control project for Chattanooga, Tenn., and Rossville, Ga., was urged today by Senators McKellar and Stewart, Democrats, Tennessee, before a senate commerce subcommittee.

Because of the absence of a quorum, no vote was taken, but Senators Clark, Democrat, Missouri, and Gibson, Democrat, Vermont, agreed to submit the bill to the full committee next Tuesday without recommendation.

The Tennessee senators said the flood control walls and levees recommended by army and TVA engineers would involve a cost to the government of $13,500,000. Annual damage to Chattanooga from floods, they said, amounted to $1,884,000.

Because of the absence of a quorum, no vote was taken, but Senators Clark, Democrat, Missouri, and Gibson, Democrat, Vermont, agreed to submit the bill to the full committee next Tuesday without recommendation.

'BOYS' HAVEN' SOUGHT AS AID TO JUVENILES

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

ROME, Ga., March 21.—The movement to establish a "boys' haven" here to aid in remedying the juvenile delinquency problem was off to a definite start today, following a meeting of prominent Romans, unofficially representing local civic and fraternal organizations.

Members from the Rome Exchange, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs and the Rome Elks' lodge took part in the general discussion, during which plans were outlined for the proposed institution.

The Rev. John W. Mellon, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was chosen as temporary chairman of the group, and it was decided that any organization be a city-wide project originated by civic and fraternal bodies, but not an affiliate of any existing organization.

DR. FAUST SPEAKS.

HOLLY SPRINGS, Ga., March 21.—Dr. W. H. Faust, secretary of evangelism of the Georgia Baptist Convention, will conclude a series of speaking engagements at Holly Springs Baptist church Friday night. He will speak at 11 o'clock Sunday morning at Milstead Baptist church.

200 ARE PRESENT AT COOKING SCHOOL

Sally Saver Conducts Class at John B. Gordon School.

More than 200 enthusiastic "students" of the culinary arts attended Sally Saver's weekly cooking school at the John B. Gordon school yesterday, which was held for the Gordon P.-T. A. and sponsored by The Constitution.

Miss Saver, accompanied her demonstration with a food discussion including buying, recipes, ingredients, cooking methods, and serving. All the dishes prepared by Miss Saver, and many products donated by local merchants, were given away to the class.

A bright vegetable salad of carrots, onions, chopped dates, cheese, french dressing, chile, and shredded interior of cabbage, was chilled and served in the cabbage heads with Worcestershire sauce.

The decorative dessert, Chateau russe, was made with milk, sugar, salt, gelatin, cold water, and whipping cream, and was served in sherbet glasses lined with lady fingers and garnished with bits of red cherries, tiny candies, bits of citron and unstemmed strawberries.

The bean salad was served in a wooden salad bowl, garnished with green peppers and lettuce. And one of the features of the program was the deep-well-cooker meal, cooked simultaneously and consisting of pot roast, carrots, onions, potatoes, and graham cracker pudding.

Other foods which Miss Saver prepared in her portable kitchen, set up on the stage of the school auditorium, were an Easter egg salad—of fresh fruits and vegetables, and a festively garnished with tiny jelly-beans; a one-meal dish of American chop-suey; a complementary dish of green peas to be served with a sweet potato soufflé and a baked ham that was decorated with pineapple flowers with red cherry centers.

Miss Saver's weekly spring cooking classes are designed to give readers in various communities the opportunity of discussing foods with her personally.

CLAY CAMP NAMED SHERIFF OF BARROW

Man Who Ejected Miller From Office Wins by Nearly 600 Votes.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

WINDER, Ga., March 21.—Although under sentence to go to jail for contempt of Judge W. R. Smith's court, H. Clay Camp, a member of the state capitol guard, who headed the detail which forcibly ejected W. L. Miller from his office as chairman of the State Highway Board, today had been elected by a majority of nearly 600 votes to the office of sheriff of his home county of Barrow.

Official returns showed Camp defeated the incumbent, Sheriff J. T. Williams, 1,559 to 988 votes.

Camp announced for the sheriff's post shortly after appealing a jail sentence handed him by Judge Smith at Nashville for his part in throwing Miller out of office.

Defendant With Grimes.

Camp and W. C. Grimes, also a member of the capitol guard, are defendants in one of the court actions filed by Miller, an injunction order which Governor Rivers has fastidiously refused to use of troops at the State Highway Department.

The sheriff-elect said today that his opponents made use of the Miller controversy in their effort to defeat him for sheriff.

Son of Ex-Sheriff.

Young Camp is a son of Chief Deputy Marshal H. O. Camp of the north Georgia federal district court. The elder Camp was sheriff of the county more than 30 years, resigning in 1933 to accept his present post.

Three other incumbents were nominated yesterday, and another was beaten.

School Superintendent E. V. Harris defeated J. O. McNeal by 10 votes, 1,273 to 1,263. Ordinary B. G. Hill was beaten by G. N. Bagwell, 1,402 to 1,157. Tax Receiver Henry W. Wall won over Mullen McElroy, 1,632 to 893.

Commissioner Tom G. Etheridge was renominated over R. H. Burell, 1,256 to 1,207.

A. G. Lamar defeated four other candidates for treasurer, and W. A. Farr was named coroner.

MARIJUANA EFFECT ON BRAIN SHOWN

Chemist, Using Dogs To Test, Finds Drug Throws
Them Off Balance.

By THOMAS R. HENRY,
For the North American Newspaper
Alliance, Inc.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The most potent extract of marijuana, a volatile oil comprising less than two-tenths of 1 per cent of the hemp plant, has almost precisely the same effect on dogs as removing entirely the cerebellum, or little brain, which controls co-ordination of movement and balance. The results of the first controlled experiment with one of the most publicized of narcotics have just been reported to the Bureau of Narcotics of the Treasury by Dr. S. Loewe, of Cornell University. He is one of a group of chemists, pharmacologists and oilmen scattered over the country which is engaged in a project sponsored by the Treasury of tearing marijuana apart to find what is responsible for its effects and whether it contains anything of medical value.

Dr. Loewe also reported finding that a derivative of one of the discarded fragments of marijuana, which has been appropriately called "affirmin," has a single weird effect—that of causing a dog to nod its head vigorously as though agreeing with something.

For the past two decades marijuana has been one of the most feared drugs, because of its supposed character-deteriorating effects and because it has been so easy to obtain. It is contained in the hemp plant, which furnishes fiber for ropes and can grow almost anywhere in the United States. The drug has been made use of chiefly by smoking dried leaves as cigarettes. So far as known it has no legitimate value.

Dr. Loewe's job was to test out the drug on dogs. He found that with minute injections of the most potent extract—about the amount a man would get out of a cigarette—the animals showed in an exaggerated degree some of the physical effects which have been reported from human marijuana addicts. They were unable to co-ordinate their limb movements. They swayed and staggered in a curious fashion and their movements in some ways were like those of a person who is very drunk.

DOCTORS stress remaining in bed until the body temperature is normal. You know how weak you feel after a cold. Colds play havoc in weakening the body. The story is well told in the blood picture. It is important to build back body strength right away to carry the load of work, worries, and loss of sleep. A weakened body may be more susceptible to relapse or long drawn out recovery.

PENITENTS RESUME WORSHIP AT MASS

Archbishop Absolves Members From Ban Imposed
After Revolt.

CLEVELAND, March 21.—(P)—Penitent members of Holy Redeemer Catholic parish jammed the little frame church today for the first services since Archbishop Joseph Schrembs placed the congregation under interdict February 18.

Dr. Achilles P. Ferreri, newly appointed parish administrator, and his assistant, the Rev. Stephen Towell, officiated at mass. Old and young, entire families received the Eucharist which the interdict denied them.

Archbishop Schrembs absolved them from the decree Tuesday at a meeting requested by the parishioners. The interdict was imposed after they forcibly prevented the Rev. Vincent Caruso from succeeding the late Rev. Martin Compagno. They wanted an assistant pastor.

JOBS CALLED ISSUE OF 1940 CAMPAIGN

William Allen White Says
G.O.P. Should Concentrate Attack There.

Issues that loom large in the 1940 presidential campaign and the problems that confront the national party conventions are discussed here by "The Sage of Emporia," an editor who has been a confidant of the nation's political and industrial chiefs.

By WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE,
For the North American Newspaper
Alliance, Inc.

EMPIRIA, Kan., March 21.—The trend of the next national platform of the Republican party will depend entirely upon two things: First, the control of the public convention, and second, who controls the Democratic convention.

Which is to say, there are two Republican crowds, the so-called liberals, or Progressives, on the one hand, and the conservatives and reactionaries on the other. Broadly speaking, it is the east against the west.

The Republican conservative crowd has the money, and with the money will go the south in the Republican convention. But the western crowd has the electoral votes necessary to elect a Republican President.

G. O. P. Liberals.

The western Republicans, whose few representatives in Congress survived the landslide of 1932 and 1936, had voted for most of the New Deal measures in principle. They would make unemployment the major issue. There they would differ deeply with the New Deal. They would attack unemployment from a new angle, the angle of returning prosperity.

On the other hand, the conservatives would denounce the New Deal from top to bottom.

Democratic Problem.

But now for the second alternative facing Republican platform writers. I mean the control of the Democratic convention.

If they should roar and rage at the New Deal and the third term, and at the last, Roosevelt should make the great renunciation, the conservatives writing the platform might step off the deep end of nowhere.

It is fairly obvious that whether Roosevelt or his enemies control the Democratic convention the moderate course of the western liberals would write a platform with a wider appeal than that which the eastern conservatives would write. For whether Roosevelt owns or controls the convention the unemployment issue may easily become the paramount domestic issue in the campaign.

And with Roosevelt on the ticket, of the ticket, controlling the ticket or defeated by the Democratic convention, it will be wise for the Republicans to raise that issue and adopt a definite constructive program.

Text of Fulton Board's Letter, Denying Jurors Were Ignored

Here is the text of the letter which Fulton county commissioners yesterday adopted as their interpretation of the relief levy authorized by two successive grand juries for 1940:

City Editor,
The Atlanta Constitution,
Atlanta, Georgia.

Dear Sir:
We believe that it is the policy of The Atlanta Constitution and its entire staff to treat everyone fairly and justly, and to present to the public without bias the facts and figures which have a direct relation to the relief situation in Fulton county, including Atlanta.

For that reason, and in the hopes of reconciling different viewpoints, we wish to take this opportunity of presenting to The Constitution the facts relating to the apparent misunderstanding with respect to the added 15-mill tax recommended by two consecutive grand juries for relief in Fulton county. This letter to you is written in answer to your article of March 17, "Figures Show Commissioners Are Ignoring Jurors on Relief."

As a matter of fact, the commissioners are following strictly the recommendations of the two consecutive grand juries, and the differences between us are merely in the points of view due to an inadequate knowledge of the application of the law. In 1939, the grand jury levied 2.21 mills plus for relief, and in addition 17 mills plus to match state and federal funds for old-age assistance, dependent children, and the blind, making a total levy in 1939 of 2.39 mills for relief. In 1940, the grand jury included hospitals, Community Chest agencies, and all additional relief for the poor and needy in the entire county.

The levy made by the county commissioners for old-age assistance, dependent children and the blind, as levied by the Fulton county department of public welfare, and is the county's 10 per cent contribution toward and support of these three classes of the needy. The state pays 40 per cent and the United States government pays 50 per cent.

2.75 MILLS REQUEST IS INTERPRETED
The Fulton county grand jury which met in January recommended that the levy to be made by the commissioners for 1940 be 2.75 mills, and that this levy for that amount include all relief, including hospitals, Community Chest agencies, direct relief and the blind, dependent children and old-age assistance.

The March grand jury concurred in this recommendation, and the commissioners are pledged to the grand juries to continue their levy for all forms of relief in Fulton county to 2.75 mills. It is apparent, therefore, that inasmuch as the levy for all forms of relief in 1939 was 2.39 mills, and the levy for 1940 will be 2.75 mills, that 50 mill is not available for providing only food, shelter and clothing for the needy in Fulton county, but that 36 mill is available, which means that there will be available in 1940, under the recommendations of the grand jury, $81,000 in excess of the amount that was available in 1939 for food, shelter and clothing.

However, permit us to say that in addition to the $81,000 increase which will be available for food, shelter and clothing, we are providing from other income $29,000 additional for WPA sewing projects, and although this amount will not go for food, shelter and clothing, it nevertheless will aid needy women in the county facilities whereby they will be enabled to earn money which will provide them and their families with food, shelter and clothing.

DECLARE NEW LEVY
SUPPLIES $81,000 MORE

This explanation makes it apparent that whereas 50 mill would provide approximately $135,000 for direct relief, 36 mill provides only $81,000, but whatever is available from the increased levy for relief will go 100 per cent to the Fulton county department of public welfare for the purpose of providing food, shelter and clothing for the indigent poor of the county.

We also want to call attention to the recommendation of the January grand jury to the effect that 100 per cent of the additional funds available on account of the increased levy go for food, shelter and clothing for the needy.

sent it to the public so as to correct the impression that you have created in the public's mind to the effect that the county commissioners are ignoring the recommendations of the two grand juries with respect to relief.

On the morning of the 18th Messrs. Milam and Weisiger, the foreman of the January and March grand juries, met with us and confirmed the fact that it was not the intention of both grand juries that 2.75 mills cover the entire relief load in Fulton county for 1940, which includes assistance for the aged, the blind and dependent children.

We know that The Constitution wants to deal fairly and justly with us, as we do with it. We are not asking any favors, but are trying to do a good job and want your co-operation and support, and on our part we will co-operate fully with all of the newspapers published in this county and with the grand jury.

Respectfully yours,

SOUTHERN ARTISTS TO MEET IN APRIL; WILL HOLD EXHIBIT

Skidmore Named Member of Jury That Is To Award Prizes at Convention in Charlotte.

Southern artists and art associations will hold their 20th annual convention and exhibit on April 4 and 5 in Charlotte, N. C., with headquarters at Hotel Charlotte and the exhibit in the Mint Museum of Art.

James Chillum Jr., of Houston, Texas, has appointed the following members to the jury, which will award prizes totaling $140: L. P. Skidmore, director of the High Museum of Art, Atlanta; Edward S. Shorter, Columbus, Ga., vice president of the league; Miss Lila May Chapman, Birmingham, Ala.; and Edward S. Benjamin, New Orleans, La. Miss Chapman is the donor of the purchase prize for an etching; Mr. Shorter, of the block print prize; and Mr. Benjamin, of the Blanche S. Benjamin prize.

President Chillum, Vice President Shorter, and Mrs. H. C. Dwyer, chairman of the convention committee and president of the Mint Museum, have completed plans for the convention and a reception will be held at the museum Thursday evening, April 4. Garden tours, luncheons, folk songs and dances by mountain children from the Crossnore school, and a performance of the Charlotte Symphony Orchestra are planned for the delegates.

Harmon Caldwell, president of the University of Georgia, will be the principal speaker at the opening session of the convention.

New officers, two vice presidents and the secretary-treasurer will be elected, and the jury will select oils, water colors, and graphics that will form the 17th Circuit Exhibition of the Southern States Art League. The oils will be shown in the Fort Worth Art Association's new gallery, and the Delgado Museum of Art in New Orleans. The water colors and graphics selected for the tour will be shown in the old state capitol, in Baton Rouge, La.

WILL ARRIVE TODAY*Film Star Appears on Stage
Here Tonight and Tomorrow.

Edward Everett Horton, ace comedian, will offer Atlantans one of their few remaining opportunities to witness good legitimate acting this season when he appears tonight and tomorrow at the Erhardt theater in "Springtime for Henry."

Horton and his company will arrive this morning from Montgomery, Ala., where they played last night.

Tonight's performance begins at 8:30 o'clock while tomorrow there will be a matinee at 2:30 o'clock and a third performance at 8:30 o'clock.

To Atlantans, Horton is best known for his fine work on the screen in "Lost Horizon," the "Gay Divorcee," and "Little Tough Guys in Society," to mention a few. But by no means is he one of the film stars who have never appeared before a real audience. Horton began in stock companies and worked from them to Broadway and the movies.

"Springtime for Henry" is a spicy, fast-moving and subtle, yet easily understood, comedy that Horton had done with his own stock company in Hollywood and San Francisco several years ago. It played summer theaters successfully, was a hit on Broadway and has been doing good business on the road since the tour began last October 19.

STATISTICIANS' ERROR PROVES THEY'RE GOOD

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 21.

(UP)—State Controller Harry Riley is willing to admit that his statisticians make mistakes, but not very big ones.

For example, last July, his office estimated the state government's receipts for the first seven months of the fiscal year would be approximately $94,205,000.

When the books were balanced, the actual receipts for the period came to $94,399,000, showing the prediction was correct within .02 of one per cent.

'30' CLUB TONIGHT*School Head Will Discuss Civic Center.

The Thirty Club of College Park will hear Jere Wells, superintendent of the Fulton county school system, at its monthly meeting at 7 o'clock tonight in the woman's clubhouse.

President Harry J. Looney said yesterday.

Mr. Wells will discuss the new College Park civic center, now under construction, and what it will mean to the community. Being erected under a $65,000 bond issue, the civic center will include a county high school, a municipal auditorium, and a joint library and city hall.

Also on the program will be Otis Barge, of the Barge-Thompson Company, contractors for the civic center. Music will be furnished by the Richardson High School Glee Club.

ENDS DEANSHIP.

SWARTHMORE, Pa., March 21. (UP)—The board of manager of Swarthmore College has decided to drop the position of dean. The new president, who will succeed Dr. Frank Aydelotte, who designed to become director of the institute for advanced learning at Princeton University, will assume the duties of the dean.

Easter Truce
For Belligerents

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP) Representative Shanley, Democrat, Connecticut, suggested in the house today that the world's warring nations adopt an idea of the Middle Ages and declare a truce over the Easter holidays.

Shanley said the "truce of God," originated in 1027 A. D., reached its highest development in the twelfth century when by religious war, Shanley said, "would be a decree war was outlawed for about three-fourths of each year. For either set of belligerents to ask the other to set aside Easter Sunday as a day of respite from the war, Shanley said, "would be a welcome interlude to a world harrowed by the contemplation of what the future holds."

PIPE LINES SAFE, ENGINEER ASSERTS AT GAS HEARING

Attorney Introduces Letters in Charging Railroads Have Organized to Resist Construction.

Testimony that gasoline pipe lines are not dangerous if they are constructed and operated "in conformity with the best practices," was offered yesterday afternoon by E. V. Foran, Texas, consulting engineer, at a hearing before the State Highway Board on the construction of a line through Georgia by the Southeastern Pipe Line Company.

He pointed out that if it were not for the pipe lines of Texas citizens of Georgia would be paying 5 cents per gallon more for their gasoline, and added that in his opinion the construction of the Georgia line would lower gasoline prices.

Opposed by Roads.
Opponents of the project are composed mainly of the railroads and labor organizations. The railroads were represented by Judge Arthur Powell and Philip H. Alston. A. Steve Clay represented the pipe line company.

Clay introduced letters signed by railroad executives in charging that the railroads organized to fight the pipe line construction.

One of the letters, headed "Southeastern Presidents' Conference," and addressed to a group of railroad heads, was signed by E. E. Norris, president of the Southern Railway. He was quoted as saying:

"The publicity side of the issue is being handled. The co-operation of the railroad employees has been secured. In addition to what has been done along this line I hope each of you may see fit to request the co-operation of the employees of your company."

"I have received individual advice from the major lines to the effect that if approached they will refuse to construct, and will resist in court any effort to condemn their property."

Another letter was signed by H. D. Pollard, receiver of the Central of Georgia Railway.

Delegations Appear.

Among those appearing for the pipe line company were a delegation from Bainbridge, one from Americus, headed by Mayor Thomas L. Bell, another from Dougherty county, led by Representative DeLacey Allen; another from Cobb county, headed by Representative James V. Carmichael, and one from Floyd county, headed by Representative Jack Rogers.

Replying to Savannah's Mayor Thomas Gamble, who opposed the pipe line, Allen asserted that "Savannah has one of the finest political machines outside of New York," and added that the "Tammany Hall boys" sometimes spend their winters there instead of going on to Miami.

Carrying his wit still further, he declared that from the time of prohibition to repeal Savannah served as the port of entry for most of the liquor that came to interior Georgia and added that "if all the liquor shipments came in through Savannah for 20 years they certainly ought to let us haul a little gasoline."

In a brief exchange of arguments with Judge Powell, Allen declared that "if the railroads would take out more watered stock and put in more rolling stock we'd all get along better."

Representative Carmichael contended that when the Georgia legislature passed a bill granting the pipe line company the right of "eminent domain," it settled the pipe line question. This right gives the company the right to condemn rights-of-way of individuals when there is a dispute over granting easement.

When asked by Attorney Alston how many county commissions had approved applications of the pipe line company to build beneath county roads, Clay replied that most of them had not been asked. He said he was not informed on how many commissions had taken action.

Savannah Mayor Opposes the Construction of a Pipe Line at Public Hearing

Mayor Thomas Gamble, of Savannah, yesterday appeared before the state highway board to oppose construction of a pipe line from Port St. Joe, Fla., through Georgia to the Tennessee line for the purpose of transporting gasoline. The municipal chief executive said he was against the project on the grounds that, among other things, it would adversely affect Savannah's commerce and intensify the unemployment situation.

A. Steve Clay, attorney for the Southeastern Pipe Line Company, stands to question a witness in the hearing yesterday before the state highway board. Sitting beside him is Wiley L. Moore, of Atlanta. Several hundred persons packed the house of representatives to hear the arguments on the construction of a gasoline pipe line through the state.

Special Music To Mark Service In Easter Dawn at Ft. Benning

Bands, 'Living Cross' and Vested Choir Will Take Part.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

FORT BENNING, Ga., March 21.—Eighty trumpeters proclaiming the Easter dawn at Fort Benning Sunday will inaugurate the infantry school's fourth consecutive observance of the day with outdoor sunrise services.

Also participating will be three army bands, hundreds of soldiers formed as a living cross, and the vested choir of the Fort Benning chapel.

Immediately preceding and following the sermon, which will be preached by Bishop John Lloyd Decell, of the Methodist church, Negro spirituals will be sung by a chorus from the 24th Infantry.

The invocation will be by Dr. Albert S. Trulock, of St. Luke's Methodist church in Columbus.

Lieutenant Colonel Perry C. Wilcox, chaplain of the First division, now encamped at Fort Benning, will read the scripture, and the benediction will be given by First Lieutenant Louis J. Beasley, chaplain of the 24th Infantry.

Lieutenant Colonel Ivan L. Bennett, infantry school chaplain, in announcing the program today, stated that plans have been made to accommodate more than 10,000 worshippers in the natural amphitheater where the services are to be held.

Based on experience of previous years, he predicted that, if fair weather prevails, thousands of civilians will journey to the post to join in the services.

A general invitation has been extended to the public by Brigadier General Asa L. Singleton, infantry school commandant.

Visitors entering the reservation by way of the hard-surfaced road (Benning boulevard), which branches off the Cusseta road (Highway No. 55), will be directed to parking lots near the amphitheater by military police.

After the services, early risers in attendance who feel the need of refreshments will find doughnuts and coffee available without charge. This service will be provided near the amphitheater by 24th Infantry personnel.

To Begin at 5:40.

The program will start at 5:40 o'clock, which is the time the newly rising sun is expected to top the Fort Benning horizon.

Fort Benning's military population is at present over 17,000. Its regular garrison of 9,000 is temporarily increased by the presence of thousands in outside units undergoing field training. Including civilian employees and dependents of officers and enlisted men resident on the reservation, its total population at present is approximately 20,000.

SUNRISE SERVICE PLANNED BY CADETS

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., March 21.—Plans for a sunrise devotional service Easter morning by cadets of the Georgia Military College were announced yesterday by Colonel J. H. Jenkins, president. The rites, to be held on Davenport field, are scheduled to begin about 6:40 o'clock, simultaneously with the rising of the sun.

About five minutes before the program begins, cadets housed in the barracks on the campus proper will march onto the field singing "Holy, Holy, Holy," and form a cross in front of the audience, which will sit on bleachers on the west side of the field, facing the rising sun.

In the center of the human cross will be cadets bearing three crosses. As soon as the formation is complete, the ranks form-

Richmond Medical Society Members Request Calling of State Primary.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., March 21.—Fifty-one members of the Richmond County Medical Society have signed a petition calling upon James L. Gillis, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, to fix the date for a presidential preferential primary in Georgia, it was announced today by Edgar B. Dunlap, who is chairman of the presidential primary committee.

The petition was sent by Dr. Peter B. Wright, of Augusta, who solicited the signatures, and wrote: "The inclosed petition has been signed by practically all members of the Richmond society. It might interest you to know that every one was glad of the opportunity to sign, and there have been no refusals."

JOAN FONTAINE BETTER.

HOLLYWOOD, March 21.—(P) Screen actress Joan Fontaine is making progress from an abdominal operation performed Saturday.

The foot of the figure will divide and the bearers of the crosses will march forward and plant them before the audience, which will stand during the presentation. Still standing, the audience will join with the cadets in singing the remaining stanzas of the hymn.

The program has been planned so that the rising sun will appear over the horizon while the ceremonies are in progress. The rites will be in the hands of the cadets almost exclusively, with the exception of a brief talk to be made by one of the officers, and a quartet from the faculty will sing "Christ Arose." The quartet will be composed of Colonel Jenkins, Major C. E. Florence, Major H. E. McGee and Major Ralph S. Bryant.

Atlanta Negro With Two Names Wants To Find Out Who He Is

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., March 21.—Mrs. L. D. Smith, Baldwin county tax collector, has a tough job on her hands. A man has written her, wanting to know his real name.

The unusual request came from an Atlanta Negro, a former resident of Baldwin county. The letter was signed by "Samuel Bearden," but the writer said he was known in this section as "Sam Gee," and he wanted to get it straight once and for all as to which is correct.

The letter, addressed to the "County Seat of Milledgeville," was turned over to Mrs. Smith because the writer asked for his name as it appeared on the county book when he worked the roads to pay his taxes. He said he worked the roads for the first time the year of the Charleston earthquake, which was 1887.

Mrs. Smith said the practice of working the roads for tax payments was discontinued many years ago, and that no records were kept because the work represented payment of road taxes under state and county levies.

The letter was as follows: "County Seats of Milledgeville: "Dear Sirs: "This is Samuel Bearden of Atlanta writing you to find out my full name on your county book at the time I worked the county roads to pay my tax. This was during the time of the earthquake in Charleston, S. C. That was my first year working the county roads. Some people here call me Samuel Bearden. Down there they call me Sam Gee. Now what I want to know is which one of these names is correct on your book."

He apparently is getting well up in years, she said, because he was old enough to pay taxes in 1887, which was 53 years ago.

Safety 'Artists' Labor in Vain; Job a Washout

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., March 21.—Three young Negroes, the oldest 13, let their enthusiasm for promoting safety in Milledgeville get them into a nice little job that involved scrubbing sidewalks with gasoline under police supervision.

The youngsters found a supply of paint in several discarded cans. When mixed, the colors resembled those of the rainbow.

Imbued with a desire to make traffic conditions safer, they set about inscribing two immense "stop" signs on the sidewalk on both sides of an alley.

Disaster arrived in the form of Patrolman D. M. Cox, who was definitely unimpressed by their efforts, and before long the three were back at work scrubbing the signs with gasoline.

The officer also let them scrub several splashes off the walls of two adjoining stores—the result of attempts to see if the paint was correctly mixed.

PIPELINE PERMISSION REFUSED BY SUMTER

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

AMERICUS, Ga., March 21.—The Sumter county board of roads and revenues has declined to grant the Southeastern Pipeline Company permission to pass over or under its roads or county property.

The board "indefinitely postponed" further action on the project "until the rights of said company, as well as its relations to the general public are judicially determined and finally fixed."

Resolutions by the board requested the State Highway Board to deny the pipeline company the right to construct any of its lines on state property.

SHERIFF STABBED IN ELECTION FIGHT

Lumpkin Officer Sent to Hospital, State Police Called; 10 Jailed.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

DAHLONEGA, Ga., March 21.—Sheriff Jack Gillespie, suffered stab wounds in the back and stomach, at least 10 men were arrested and all office holders with opposition met defeat in the Lumpkin county primary election yesterday.

State police were called last night after the sheriff, one of the officers to meet defeat, was stabbed while trying to disperse a crowd near the courthouse.

The wounded sheriff was taken to a Gainesville hospital, where his condition was reported today as "good."

Sergeant A. L. Bagley, of the state patrol, said the wounded sheriff requested that troopers go to Dahlonega after he arrived at the Gainesville hospital.

March on Jail.

"He said there had been a threat to march on the jail and release the prisoners," Bagley reported to Public Safety Commissioner Lon Sullivan in Atlanta.

"He asked us to remove two of them and place them in the Gainesville jail, which we did," Bagley said, one of the men brought to Gainesville was listed as Paul Lance, whom the sheriff said was implicated in the trouble. The other was not identified.

The sheriff's wife said her husband was stabbed shortly after 10 o'clock while attempting to disperse a crowd.

"Some of them were drunk," Mrs. Gillespie said. "The deputies rounded up 10 of them after the sheriff was stabbed."

All Quiet Again.

Mrs. Gillespie said there were five or six men in jail prior to last night's trouble. It was "all quiet" today, she said.

Present county officers losing to opponents in the election aside from the sheriff were the chairman of the board of roads and revenues, John H. Moore, defeated by Millard F. Shelton; the ordinary, clerk of court, tax commissioner and clerk of the county commission.

The following were nominated: Doyal Anderson, for clerk of superior court; Johnnie Rider, tax commissioner; C. C. Rider, ordinary; J. F. Davis, sheriff; Ernest Comer, surveyor; Billie Lipscomb, coroner; E. Trammell, C. O. Peck, Shelton and Guy Wimpy, commissioners of roads and revenues.

LABOR COMMITTEEMAN WANTS SCHOOLS PAID

Editor Constitution: During the year 1938 most of our legislators and representatives went into office pledging to the people they would carry out the plans laid down in Ed Rivers' platform. On January 4, 1939, the legislators met in Atlanta and with the exception of a few days, they served the people for 70 days. At the end of this session there had been no appropriation made for the purposes of paying the school teachers in Georgia.

This condition left the Governor with no money to pay the school teachers and old-age pensions in Georgia. The legislators refused to co-operate with the legislative committee of the AFL of Georgia. At a special meeting of our committee held at Hotel Ansley, Atlanta, on November 28 and 29, 1939, serious consideration was given to the plight of the schools of our state.

This committee represents 17 AFL crafts in Georgia and the Big Four membership of the train service employees. It passed a resolution that this co-operative labor legislative committee make demands upon the Governor and the general assembly to bring to an end this critical situation; and that this committee give its active and militant aid to bring about an immediate solution of this problem to the end that the children of Georgia may have open schools and the teachers of Georgia have their just compensation as provided in the seven-month school bill made mandatory by vote of the people on June 8, 1937, regardless of the wrangle between W. L. Miller, chairman of the highway department, and Ed

Rivers, the Governor of Georgia.

The Governor of Georgia is only carrying out the request made on him by the Federation of Labor in Georgia and the Big Four Brotherhood of railway employees. The Federation of Labor in Georgia has no ax to grind with the Governor yet.

WATSON STAFF TOO SMALL FOR BASE

Editor Constitution: It does not matter very much whether Tom Watson was right-handed, left-handed, or ambidextrous. It does matter, that the figure is altogether too small for the large plinth, or base. And Thomas E. Watson was too great a man to be made to look so small by the error in the judgment of the sculptor.

The raised arm of Watson, from some viewpoints, appears to go backward to a point of dislocation, but Watson may have been double-joined. Although apparently satisfactory to many people, few

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Events of Passion Week, according to the Scriptures, bring us now to Black Friday—the day on which they crucified the Son of God. He could have defended himself against the mock trial and the crucifixion, but it was for this purpose He had come—to give Himself a ransom for the sins of the world. Calvary was the climax of the most momentous career of history. The Christ of the Resurrection cannot be understood apart from the Christ of Calvary.

On the Friday preceding Easter, it is well for us to listen again to the words of Jesus, spoken from the Cross. Underlying each of His seven words from the cross is a whole chapter of poignant beauty and revelation, summing up the import of the Gospel. These seven words from the cross are among the brightest and loveliest jewels in the treasure store of His teachings. And now we look again at them:

Forgiveness: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

Freedom: "Today shalt thou be with Me in Paradise."

Family: "Woman, behold thy son. Son, behold thy mother."

Forsaken: "My God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?"

Faltering: "I thirst."

Finished: "It is finished."

Farewell: "Into Thy hands I commend My spirit."

Forgive whom? Forgive them all! The Son of God speaks here a shining word of love, even to those who had plotted and executed His death. Here is the atonement.

Freedom for whom? For all, who, like the thief beside Him, will ask for mercy.

Family life eternal and satisfying for whom? For all who will become the brothers of Christ through personal faith, thereby receiving inheritance in the Father's house of life.

Forsaken. Why? For that dark moment when He took the iniquity of us all upon Himself the face of God was turned away. God cannot look upon sin with the least degree of allowance.

Faltering. One trembles at the suggestion of the Son of God faltering. But let us remember that He had passed through the three hours of unspeakable night, and the physical part of Him was now exhausted, and He asked for something to quench His thirst. Thank to that soldier who flavored the sponge with the fragrant hyssop.

Finished. What was finished? The atonement. Through His atoning death a way of salvation had been brought high unto every soul.

Farewell! His work completed, Jesus commends His spirit to the Father.

ENGINEER PRAISES MACDOUGALL ARTICLE.

Editor Constitution: I read with keen interest the illustrated article of R. L. MacDougall entitled, "Can You Picture Atlanta in 1960?" This is an excellent article, and I have written Mr. MacDougall and commended him on the very fine way it has been prepared, and I want to take this opportunity to also commend The Constitution in handling it so well.

The rapid increase in the volume of traffic that moves over our city streets and main state highways has created a traffic problem that requires the best plans and ability that we have to solve it. The flow of traffic can be compared with the flow of a given volume of water in a ditch. If the ditch is wide, smooth, and straight, the water will flow along smoothly and quietly; but if the ditch is narrow, rough and crooked, the flow of the water will be rough and turbulent.

I trust that The Constitution in its usual vigorous way will continue to advocate the sound planning of our streets and state highways.

H. D. HUMPHRIES,
Atlanta. District Engineer.

LATE PRIMARY IS MAJORITY PREFERENCE

Editor, Constitution: Many of us hope The Constitution will join with us to help set the primary in the fall instead of in the spring. This has been the expressed preference of the majority of voters, since they voted overwhelmingly in favor of a late primary.

Knowing that The Constitution has always taken an interest in local affairs and the educating of the public to being better citizens, we know you will take an active part in this issue.

H. GRIFFITH EDWARDS,
Atlanta.

LATE PRIMARY VOTE WAS OVERWHELMING

Editor, Constitution: I noted with interest the news story in this morning's Constitution concerning the meeting of the Fulton county Democratic committee on next Tuesday, which is to fix the date of the primary, and of the various suggestions which have been made relative thereto. It seems strange to me that any group representing the voters of this county would give any consideration at all to following a course different from that recommended by the voters' referendum some time ago, in which an overwhelming preference for a late primary was expressed. The issue was clear-cut as between an early and a late primary. There was no suggestion of compromise by having one in the middle of the summer, as this morning's news article might indicate as in the minds of some people.

For one time it looks like those in authority over our political machine have a clear mandate from the voters, and a simple observation of the fundamental principles of representative government will not permit them to do anything other than set a late primary.

STATE IS INELIGIBLE FOR WILD LIFE AID

Georgia Cited as Lacking Law Permitting U. S. Fund Use.

Legislation enabling states to use federal funds made available through the federal aid to wild life act has been passed by all states except Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Montana and Nevada, according to Albert M. Day, of the United States Bureau of Biological Survey, Department of the Interior, in an address before the fifth North American Wild Life conference in Washington.

Mr. Day, chief of the division of federal aid in wild life restoration, and administrator of the federal funds, stated that the so-called Pittman-Robertson act is helping individual states solve their problems, and that the government is not attempting to dictate state hunting seasons and bag limits on lands purchased with federal funds.

'IDEAL' FISHING BOAT BUILT FOR $100,000

ROCKLAND, Me., March 21.—(U. P.)—The Snow shipyards have completed what is considered the ideal fishing boat of 1940.

Designed by Albert Condon of Fairhaven, Mass., the ship cost $100,000 and is powered by a 500-horsepower engine that produces a speed of 10 knots. She has a five-band radio, telephone and three guest staterooms.

Captain Clayton Coffin, of Quincy, is the commander of the ship, which is 110 feet long, 23 feet in beam and draws 11 feet two inches. The boat will be known as the St. George. Her deck house is steel, but the rest is oak. She is planked with Appalachian white oak and is decked with white pine.

White Finds German Laborers More Red Because of Naziism

By WILLIAM L. WHITE.

Special Correspondent.

COPENHAGEN.—(By Mail)—What does the German working class think of the treaty with Soviet Russia? My German is just pretty good; certainly not adequate for the Berlin patois, so I got in touch with a German who would go along as guide and do most of the talking and interpreting. Because I don't want to get him shot, I can't give you a particular picture of him except to say that he had been put in a concentration camp just for being a good, decent liberal who hadn't kept his mouth shut often enough, and I was able to check on him thoroughly before we started out. He took me to a big working-class beer hall near the district where the Nazi Saint, Horst Wessel, was killed. It is in the middle of the Berlin slum district.

Slums Terrible.

Until you've seen a German slum and the people in it under the Third Reich, you haven't seen anything. Americans who eat the good food in the Adlon and the Bristol, and listen to the well-fed party boys explaining over the Rhine wine glasses about how the Third Reich is really an egalitarian regime, with everybody really equal in the necessities of life, ought to go down to the Horst Wessel district and take a look before swallowing it whole along with their oysters at 35 cents per oyster.

We picked Friday because this is pay day in Germany, and the Berlin poor are able to have their one miserable night of relaxation by spending a few hours and a few pennings in a beer hall.

It was a big dingy room, low ceilinged and blue with the smoke of imitation tobacco, and fetid with the smell of human bodies and leaky plumbing from the adjoining washroom.

In this is also a curious porcelain receptacle, peculiar to Germany, for vomiting in case the beer and the food don't agree with you. Above it and on either side are two hang-grips you hold on to as you lean over the basin. It is an old fixture in low class German beer halls, but, my guide told me, in great use these days now that the diet of the poor is down to potatoes and cabbage, with a little tough meat and an occasional piece of bony fish. I had to use it twice in the course of that evening and found it most efficient.

One Hitler Picture.

We looked at the crowd over the tables. "You'll notice," said my guide, that there's only one picture of Hitler in this hall. That's because the law requires it. You'll also notice that the orchestra will play no patriotic airs—not even the new song about going out against England—until the very end. Just before the lights are turned out they'll play the Horst Wessel song once, also because the law requires it.

But I was interested in the Russo-German treaty.

"What are the politics of these people?"

"They used to be all Communists," said my guide.

"What are they now?"

"Keeping their papers in order," he said.

"The police go through this place two or three nights a week—snipe everyone produce their passports—hunting for criminals or political offenders."

"But if they were allowed to

3,031 PERSONS SEEK JOBLESS BENEFITS

Fulton and DeKalb Workers File for Unemployment Checks.

A total of 3,031 workers in Fulton and DeKalb counties filed claims for unemployment compensation benefits last week, the Atlanta office of the state employment service reported today. This number decreased from 3,237 claims made during the week of March 9.

A total of 494 initial claims, based on total unemployment, were received, 12 based on partial unemployment, and 2,525 on continued unemployment of workers in the two counties.

All unemployed workers are not eligible to draw these benefits, it was pointed out. Certain groups of workers such as domestics, agricultural workers, ships' crews, and some others, as well as those workers for concerns who employ less than eight persons during 20 separate calendar weeks of the year, do not come within the provisions of Georgia's unemployment compensation act.

Any person desiring information about benefits is invited to inquire at the nearest state employment office. All claims are received there after the worker has applied for employment.

TRAIL'S END

Jim Tells Anne That He Can't Let Russ Mosely Drive Him Out of Town

By William MacLeod Raine.

As Anne Eliot steps from the stage coach on Blanco's broad Main street there is a pistol shot. Jim Silcott's hat is whisked from his head, but he is not hurt. The "Powder Horn Sentinel" recovers it before running lightly to the doorway of an adobe house. Buck Sneve, a Hat T rider, levels his gun again but he drops dead an instant before the door closes behind Silcott. This gun play had followed Sneve's appearance in the Trail's End with his foreman, Jud Prentiss, and three other Hat T riders, Jud dragging with him Jesse Lamprey. Jud had accused Jesse of double-crossing Russell Mosely, his employer, in connection with the Armitio land-grant feud. Jesse's younger brother Phil had entered and refused to leave without Jesse and when Jud was about to hit him, Silcott waiting for a game of poker, asked if Mosely's orders included leaving up the boy. Jud warned Jim that he was courting trouble and turned to ply his quilted lasso till he dropped with the floor. The Hat T riders then left and lay Jim was for Silcott, editor of the "Sentinel," and it was after he was shot from ambush for opposing Mosely in the land-grant feud, that Silcott took over the job. Ma Russell, Anne's boarding-house keeper, gets Rufe Jelks to take Anne to the "Sentinel" office. As they walk she tells her that she inherited the "Sentinel" from Rogers, her uncle. Silcott had written her that Rogers had died, but when Rufe tells her he was murdered, she says Jim must leave the town and be responsible for his safety. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT VI.

Presently the door opened a few inches. "It's Rufe with a young lady to see you," the cowboy said.

They were let in and the door locked and bolted behind them. Through the darkness they followed the man to a small room in the rear lighted by a coal oil lamp.

A redheaded young man looked at Anne in astonishment, waiting for an explanation. There was a revolver in his hand. He had not yet thought to lay it down.

When Jim Silcott had disappeared from the doorway of the adobe house he found himself in the house of a hot tamale vendor known as Fatty. His wife Maria stopped her laundry work to stare at the intruder with a smoking revolver in his hand with big soft startled eyes.

"Pardon, senora," he explained. "I've been attacked and had to run for shelter. Don't be afraid. I'll just pass out of the back door if you'll allow me. Tell them I'm gone, and they won't hurt you."

Silcott cut across a vacant lot in the gathering darkness. He guessed there would be no immediate pursuit. The ambush set by the Hat T men had failed. By sheer luck he had escaped the trap and had wounded one of them. Just now they would have to look after Sneve. Presently, they would consider vengeance. They might first report to Mosely for orders. Or Prentiss might take the matter into his own hands and after some fast drinking range the town in search of him.

At a Chinese restaurant on a side street he had a ham sandwich wrapped up to take with him. Five minutes later he was in the frame building which held the equipment of the "Powder Horn Sentinel." Pixie greeted him with joyous barks and tail wagging. He had passed the presses and went into the small room he used as sleeping quarters.

Jim had friends in town to whom he could have gone, but he did not want to drag any of them into this. A good many in the Powder Horn district were unfriendly to the Hat T, but few of them were prepared to declare themselves publicly. The riders of the Hat T were too ruthless in punishment, and just now Russ Mosely was riding the top wave. He was the local political boss, and his influence extended to state and even national politics. He was so rich, powerful and shrewd that there were not many who dared to risk a malevolence that might easily ruin them. His only open enemies of importance were the settlers who claimed title under the Armitio grant and Jim Silcott.

The small cattlemen grouped against him he felt he could handle, but Silcott was as annoying as a mosquito. Not a week passed without some article in the "Sentinel" attacking the injustices or the tyranny of the Mosely regime. In time, unless the editor were stopped, an opposition party would set itself solidly against him. Secretly a good many citizens applauded Silcott's audacity, though they predicted the same end for him that had come to Rogers. Only devil-may-care rebels like Rufe Jelks defended Jim openly.

Silcott ate his sandwich and sat down at his desk to write. He drew up a will, to be signed later, and he wrote several letters. One of them was addressed to Miss Anne Eliot, Massillon, Ohio. He did not intend to be killed if he could help it, but it seemed best to have his affairs in order.

Jim was still writing when there came to him the hoot of an owl. It came a second time. That meant Rufe Jelks, unless it was a decoy. When they had been wild young cowboys together the owl hoot repeated had been a signal between them.

He rose, picking up the revolver from the desk where it lay within reach. He heard a woman's voice

As soon as he made sure the man was Jelks he let him and his companion into the building.

Into the office in the rear, Jim stared in surprise at the young woman. In the dust and disorder of that dingy room she bloomed like a cactus in the desert. The face was delicate and sensitive, with the lovely, long, distinguishing the less obvious beauty in women. There was a spirit in the poise of the slender graceful body that suggested a finely tempered blade.

Rufe Jelks said, "Miss Eliot, meet Jim Silcott," she said to the editor.

"My boss," He added, reproachfully, "you didn't tell me you were coming."

"No, I wanted to see how things were for myself."

"I'm afraid you'll find Blanco a little rough, but I suppose you don't expect to stay long."

That instant she discovered she had made up her mind. "Yes, I'm going to stay and run my paper." His blue eyes registered astonishment. Young women who looked and dressed like this one did not come to the frontier to run papers. But all he said was, "It's your paper, Miss Eliot."

She liked that in him. He was a man, she guessed, of reticence and reservations, not too easily understood. Also, she liked his appearance. She had not expected him to carry out in his looks the reputation he had earned as a wild and dangerous character.

But this young man, lean and steady, watching her with a cool, graceful regard, looked gentle, now that he had put down the gun. It was hard to believe that the strong brown hand that had for a moment held hers firmly had by a twitch of a finger sent a man to death an hour ago.

"I've been looking for you, Jim," Jelks said, in a veiled significance of his casual words.

"When did you get to town, Rufe?"

"This evening—after the fireworks." The cowboy gave further information. "Miss Eliot knows about the fight. She was there—just got in on the stage."

"Sorry," Jim said, he turned to Anne. "But anyhow you know now that this town is no place for a young lady."

"It's no place for you," she answered. "Now that you've killed one of their men—"

"Is Sneve dead?"

"Yes," his friend replied quietly. "His own fault."

"They took me by surprise," the editor agreed. "There was nothing else I could do. But his heart was heavy at having snuffed out a life."

"No," Anne said. "But there's something else you can do now. You can leave this part of the country."

He shook his head slowly, his gaze fixed on her. "I reckon I can't do that."

"Why can't you?"

"Because I live here. This is my home. I'm not going to let Russ Mosely drive me away."

"How many men has Mr. Mosely?" she asked.

"On the Hat T? I don't know. Maybe 40 or 50."

"How many have you?"

"Just now, two on my ranch."

"And you expect to fight 40?"

"Russ isn't calling all his men off the range to wipe out a two-bit editor. That's not the way he works. All I have to do is to be careful and not let myself be dry-gulched."

LITTLE RED TAPE IN NAZI CENSORING NEWSMAN AVERS

Believes German Method Is Quicker and More Elastic Than That Across Battle Lines.

The workings of German censorship are described here by a well-known American writer who has just returned to New York after spending four months in the third Reich. Mr. Stoddard has frequently visited Germany over a period of years and has interviewed many of its outstanding leaders.

By LOTHROP STODDARD.
Released by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.

NEW YORK, March 21.—One of the most interesting aspects of war-time Germany is the way the government controls the dispatches of foreign journalists. Having worked under the system for more than three months, I am well acquainted with it. I have no first-hand knowledge of how the British and French handle foreign correspondents, but from what I have heard, it seems to me that the German method is quicker and more elastic than those across the battle lines. Within well-defined limits, the foreign correspondent in Germany can get his stuff out with a minimum of red tape or unexpected delays. When a correspondent arrives in Germany, he must go to Berlin, there to be duly enrolled in the foreign press corps. He is under the guardianship of the propaganda ministry. The officials with whom he comes in contact there are specially chosen for their jobs. The American section, for instance, is staffed by men who have been long in America and understand us. This is likewise true of the American section of the foreign office.

After enrollment, the new arrival's first task is to get his cable or wireless permit, enabling him to file press dispatches. He does not have to submit his material in advance, and apparently the dispatches go through with, at most, a cursory scrutiny.

Warned to Mend.
Of course, if a dispatch, when published, contains matter which the German authorities consider untrue, unfair, or otherwise displeasing to them, the correspondent is called on the carpet and warned to mend his ways. If the offense is flagrant, he may be deprived of his official status. His professional usefulness is thus at an end, and he may as well leave the country even though he is not formally expelled.

The tacit "gentleman's agreement" between officials and foreign pressmen is especially obvious in the matter of interviews. When you interview an official personage, you are required to submit your manuscript to the propaganda ministry, which makes a German translation and lays it before the person interviewed for his approval. It often happens that changes have to be made before the final draft is O. K'd. Once that is given, there is no further check and you can file it like any press dispatch. Technically, there is nothing to prevent your sending the original version. But naturally, if the published interview does not tally with the draft agreed upon, it will be clear that you have broken faith, and confidence in your reliability is destroyed.

The same policy applies to foreign telephone service. Most Berlin correspondents of newspapers in European neutral countries get telephone permits. These enable the correspondent to telephone his dispatches directly from his Berlin office to his home paper. Of course, such telephone conversations may be subject to a double check by the German government—first by listening in, and secondly by taking down the conversation on a phonograph record. This is done apparently to catch obvious indiscretions such as discussion of military matters. I have never heard of a telephone conversation being broken into or stopped.

Here again the foreign correspondent is called to account only when a dispatch published in his home paper contains something which German officialdom considers a violation of the rules of the game. Indeed, the German government goes so far as to claim that "there is no censorship" for foreign correspondents. That claim is obviously too broad. The correspondent who took this statement literally would soon find himself in trouble. It does mean, however, that so long as he avoids certain dangerous topics, he is not delayed or penalized.

Ingenious Method.
The German government has evolved an ingenious method of expediting press stories sent by mail. All such material can be turned into a special section of the propaganda ministry with the understanding that the manuscript will be read and mailed within 24 hours unless something objectionable is discovered. Being mailed in a special envelope, it goes through without scrutiny by the regular censor. In case of objection, the correspondent is notified and changes or eliminations are suggested. Here, as elsewhere, objections are rarely made except for military reasons.

The correspondent has apparently a wide latitude in describing and discussing current conditions. German officialdom seems to have realized that it is no use trying to stop foreign correspondents from writing home about matters which are undeniable facts. Only when the correspondent has unearthed some strongly unpalatable information will he be told that such a dispatch, even though true, is dis-

TUGGLE ELECTED RULER OF ELKS

Last of Mortgage on Home Is Paid.

There was a jubilee at the Peachtree home of Atlanta Lodge of Elks last night. Jason A. Tuggle, chairman of the house committee, handed to the lodge a check for $1,000 and it was immediately applied to paying off the last dollar of a $50,000 mortgage on the Elks' home, corner Peachtree and Fourth streets. In addition, Mr. Tuggle was unanimously elected exalted ruler to succeed Dr. I. H. Etheridge, resigned.

Mr. Tuggle will serve as head of the lodge for three weeks, and then George B. Yancey will take charge as exalted ruler, having been recently elected, with a complete set of officers, for the coming year. Yancey will be installed April 4.

DR. PHELPS WANTS TO VIEW 'G.W.T.W.'

That's Vacation Ambition of Yale Professor, a Regular Georgia Visitor.

Dr. William Lyon Phelps, literary critic, author, lecturer, authority on Browning, golfer, hunter, grand old man of Yale and moving spirit of the old Conversation Club, is—among all these other things—a regular vacationer in Georgia.

As a matter of fact, Dr. Phelps is now wintering in Augusta. "This year I came south with but one new vacation ambition," he says. "I wanted to see 'Gone With the Wind.'"

"I first came to Georgia in 1910," he continued as he reminisced about his first visit and told why he has been coming back. "I came again in 1925, and I've been making it a habit ever since. It has been said that heaven has the best climate and hell the most interesting people. Well, I think Georgia has both."

While on the subject of interesting people, Dr. Phelps told of the informal social organization which was formed at a resort hotel back in 1925.

"In those days, many interesting men were at the hotel," he said. "Every morning, for two hours, the 25 members of the Conversation Club conversed. For three months, there was no cessation of good talk."

"We had no president. But we had a king—that royal golfer, Walter J. Travis. The prime minister was Sir Robert Borden, of Canada, and the secretary of state was Nicholas Murray Butler. Among the members were George Ade, Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Harvey Firestone and many other prominent persons."

At 75, "Billy" Phelps is still active, and full of the zest of life.

LABOR UNIT SEEKS OFFICE SPACE HERE
Conciliators To Be Stationed in City When Quarters Are Found.

The Labor Department's conciliation service still plans to establish a field office in Atlanta, Associated Press dispatches from Washington reported yesterday.

In testimony before an appropriations subcommittee of the house, Conciliation Director John R. Steelman said the service had encountered "a great deal of difficulty" in getting office space in Atlanta, after he had been asked by Representative Tarver why the plan to establish an office here had not been carried out.

"We have two men who are in and out of there," Steelman said, "but we have no definite place yet, and that is one of the cities where we are trying to make arrangements for an office."

Steelman said the field offices were not regional headquarters, but merely places "where the conciliator can be reached at least part of the time."

Atlanta government officials reported yesterday that both post office buildings were full, and that there was little space available in the Ten Forsyth Street building, under lease to the government.

'Miss Millie' Rutherford Picked As Subject for U. D. C. Essays

Was Noted Educator, Religious Worker, Writer and Lecturer.

By CAROLYN MCKENZIE.

"Miss Millie" is honored again. As hundreds of high school students pick up their pens and paper to write the annual U. D. C. essay, they will have added to their many cherished facts the accomplishments of one of Georgia's 11 most outstanding women—an educator, a religious worker, a writer, a lecturer, Miss Mildred Lewis Rutherford.

For the first time a woman has been selected as the subject of the annual contest. This woman is known and respected as a person who will live forever. She was a person with a sense of humor—one who thoroughly enjoyed a good joke. And she was a person of character, learning and accomplishments.

Early Education.

"Miss Millie's" early education came from small private schools in Athens, where Henry W. Grady and Judge Emory Speer were her classmates. Later she went to Lucy Cobb Institute under Madame Sosnoski and her daughter. Then she went to Atlanta as a public school teacher, only to remain a short time before climbing to the top of educational circles and returning to Athens as president of Lucy Cobb. "Miss Millie" held this position for 22 years.

A person who kept abreast with the times, one whose literary and creative work occupied a large portion of her time, she crossed the ocean 20 times with groups of girls—girls to whom she hoped to bring a broad, liberal education through travel and contacts.

Poise, Grace.

"Miss Millie" presided over the activities of a school which gave its students the training, poise and grace of a finishing school. She was the head of a school which was regarded by many persons as a private school for "rich" girls. But those persons did not know "Miss Millie's" charitable work and the girls whom she sent through the four years of education without any financial aid from their parents.

Many of her friends and relatives still live in Athens and in Georgia. They remember one girl to whom "Miss Millie" gave four years of college training without receiving one penny of money. Later the girl married a wealthy man and returned the money. "Miss Millie" accepted it after much protest.

"The girls loved her as a mother," "Miss Millie's" relatives recall. "And her religious influence has followed them through life."

Historical Writer.

The latter years of the colorful, efficient and beneficent life of this foremost Georgian were spent in historical writing. She went all over the United States delivering talks on "The Old South." This lecture went with her to Washington, New Orleans, Dallas, cities of this country and Mexico.

Toward the end of her life, this ever-just woman issued each month a pamphlet which she called "The Scrap Book," but which later appeared as "Historical Notes." A history of the south in various stages and lights, these pamphlets were intended to give children a clear concept of the "Old South." And thus the memory of one of Georgia's leading women lives on. Her ability, character, personality are constantly receiving tribute. "Miss Millie" is honored again.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Capital City Club Party To Repeat Social History

SHADES OF the "good old days"! Social history has repeated itself in the invitations issued by the management of the Capital City Club for the gala party to be given on April 22 in honor of the directors, officials and artists of the Metropolitan Opera Company and the members of the Atlanta Music Club.

This elaborate affair will follow "La Traviata," the opening performance of the Atlanta Music Club presentation of popular operas, to be sung by brilliant stars of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

The very wording of the invitations is interesting, and those prominent members of Atlanta society who have received them will remember a similar invitation issued some years ago. They read:

"The Capital City Club" requests the pleasure of your company Monday evening, April 22, at half after 11 o'clock to meet the directors, officials and artists of the Metropolitan Opera Company and the members of the Atlanta Music Club."

Exactly the same wording was used for the invitations issued in 1929 for an after-party on the same day, the same month and the same hour, except that then the Atlanta Music Club was known as the Atlanta Festival Association.

Another coincidence relates to the fact that in 1929 William Wardlaw Sr. was president of the Capital City Club, and that his son, William Wardlaw Jr., is now serving as a member of the governing board.

His fellow board members include Dr. J. L. Pittman, James R. Gray, Arthur A. Acklin, Robert Strickland, Frank Carter, Jack Adair, John K. Ottley Jr. and Hal S. Dumas.

The officers of the club are Baxter Maddox, president; R. Clyde Williams, vice president, and W. E. Perkerson, secretary. Gene Miller's nationally famous New York band will furnish the music for this brilliant occasion, when fashionable society will don its most gorgeous evening attire and handsome jewels in revival of those days when parties attendant upon opera week were the most thrilling events of the entire year.

This affair, however, will not be the only social high light during the three days of opera performances, for Atlanta's other fashionable clubs will also be the scenes of convivial gatherings, given both by the managements and prominent individuals.

SELECTING 5:30 as the hour when Atlantans in Miami Beach would either be coming from or going to another party, Mrs. William N. Massengale entertained informally Monday at a cocktail party at the Tower. Mrs. Humphrey Wagar, who has added more trophies to her famous collection since playing in the Hollywood bridge tournament, came in with her hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Spottswood Grant. Mrs. Harry L. English and Mrs. Alfred I. Barton came together. Mrs. Campbell McKenna and the Cason Callowses were together. Others at the party included Mrs. W. J. Weinman and daughter, Mrs. Frances Weinman Latimer, just from the airport.

where they said good-bye for a day to their guest, Louisa Robert; Mrs. R. Chamberlain Klugh, Mrs. Robert R. Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Howell Ross Hanson, Mrs. Oda Sperl, Mrs. J. Newton Lummus and Mrs. Raymond Edwards, who assisted.

THE SPACIOUS lawn at the home of "Son" and Catharine Norcross Richardson on Chatham road will be the scene of an Easter egg hunt Sunday morning.

The tiny honor guests for the occasion are Elizabeth Cassels, Catharine's small goddaughter; "Son's" godchild, Durand Williams, and Beverly Holliday, the four-year-old daughter of Caldwell and Frances Clarke Holliday, close friends of the hosts.

Elizabeth is the three-year-old daughter of Tom and Lena Knox Cassels and Durand is the daughter of Jim and Jane Morrow Williams.

The tiny guests, whose ages range from one to six years, will assemble at the Richardson home immediately after Sunday school. The parents of the honor guests will assist in entertaining.

THE PRESENCE here of Mrs. Wilson N. Felder, of Greenwich, Conn., will provide the inspiration for a number of informal get-togethers among her many friends.

She will be the guest of her sister, Mrs. James L. Riley, at her home on Habersham road and will remain for several weeks.

Mrs. Felder has been spending the winter months in Florida, where she was a popular visitor at various famous resorts.

ON SUNDAY afternoon at 4 o'clock baby Grace Middlebrooks Woods, the four-month-old daughter of Bill and Emma Middlebrooks Woods, will be baptized at the home of her parents on Habersham road. Dr. Lester Rumble, pastor of St. Mark Methodist church, will officiate in the presence of the immediate families.

For the occasion Grace will be

Miss Mary Littlejohn Weds 'Atlanta' Made Official Poem Of City by Council Resolution

Of widespread interest is the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Littlejohn of the marriage of their only daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Littlejohn, to John W. Hill Jr. The marriage of this popular couple was quietly solemnized in Marietta on December 17, 1939.

The bride attended school in New Orleans and later graduated from Girls' High school in this city. Her mother is the former Miss Camela Silva, of New Orleans, La. Her maternal grandparents are Andrew Englehart and the late Mrs. Englehart, also of New Orleans. Her paternal grandparents are the late Joseph Field Littlejohn and Mrs. Littlejohn, of New Orleans. Clarence Littlejohn, of Miami, Fla., is her only brother.

Mr. Hill is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Washington Hill. His mother was before her marriage Miss Nell Crockett. His paternal grandparents are the late J. M. Hill and Mrs. Georgia A. Hill. Cuthbert C. and Murphy A. Hill are his brothers.

The groom attended Boys' High and the Georgia Evening School, and is now connected with a prominent insurance company in this city, where the couple will reside.

Rich's Reflex Photo.
MRS. JOHN W. HILL JR.

Adopted by resolution of city council and approved by Mayor Hartfield, the poem, "Atlanta," by the late Charles W. Hubner, is now a sort of local "Star-Spangled Banner."

The author of the city's newly-adopted official poem was a native of Maryland, who served with the Confederate army during the War Between the States and who later adopted Atlanta as his home. He was acting as telegraph operator for the Confederate forces here at the time of the siege and battle. He moved to Atlanta for permanent residence in 1870.

He was made southern poet laureate by the Poetry Society of the South. He served on several Georgia newspapers and was a nationally prominent journalist. He also was outstanding in the fields of music and painting.

Believed to be the only poem which depicts the rebuilding and growth of the city, its adoption was sponsored by the Atlanta Pioneer Women's Society, through Mrs. W. M. Rapp Sr., president of the organization.

The resolution adopted by council was presented by Alderman Frank Reynolds. The first official reading of the poem was given in council by Clerk Joe L. Richardson.

The practice of adopting an official city poem is generally recognized throughout the United States.

The poem follows:

ATLANTA

By CHARLES W. HUBNER.

Majestic, beautiful, a shape of splendor,
With Beauty's magic cestus chastely zoned,
A Queen, to whom true hearts their homage render,
Upon her hills Atlanta sits enthroned;
How splendid is her smile! Like sunshine raying
Its iridescent glory after rain,
As she looks forth with sparkling eyes surveying
The panorama of her vast domain.

From mountains, which beneath the north star's beaming
Sublimely lift to heaven snow-crowned heads,
To where the ocean's opalescent gleaming
Illumes shell-jeweled shores, her empire spreads;
The bird that farthest cleaves, with daring pinion,
The azure spaces of empyrean air,
Looks down on no lordlier dominion,
No richer realm, no heritage more fair.

Our peerless Queen! Behold her calmly sitting,
Holding the reins of empire in her hand,
With comely grace and stately mien, befitting
The sovereign ruler of a mighty land;
With eagle eyes she scans the forward distance,
And reads her happy future in the stars—
To faith like hers, to such sublime insistence,
Fate yields, and with a smile her gate unbars.

Still live the men who, in her urban borders
Saw—where today they see a thousand spires—
The Cherokee, our state's primeval warders,
Chase the wild deer, and light their council fires;
They heard the panther yell, the eagle screaming,
The rattling snake, coiled 'round his deadly spring,
And now, with hosts of busy toilers teeming,
A mighty city's clamorous voices ring.

Out of the wilderness, a wildwood blossom,
Fair nursing of the sunshine and the dew,
Her dawning beauty brightening in her bosom,
Through peaceful years in strength and grace she grew;
But sudden came a sudden crash, a thunder
Burst into storm, the sky grew black with gloom,
And like the bolt which rends the oak asunder,
Destitution fell on her and wrought her doom.

Grim in their cave in Pluto's ghostly regions
Her life-throats spinning, sat the silent Fates,
Behold Bellona, charged with raging passions,
A sea of steel against Atlanta's gates;
The silent Fates spin on; the earthquake rumbling
Of bursting mines, the cannon's deafening sound,
Shake earth and sky; walls, towers and bastions tumbling,
Shell-shattered, strewn with smoking wreck, the ground.

But grim and silent still, their distaff holding With steady hand, the sister Fates spin on;
Life's drama, with its mystical unfolding,
'Tis theirs to watch till the last scene be done;
It was not in man's power to snap asunder
Atlanta's life-thread, guarded by the Fates,
Though she was smitten prone with bolts of thunder,
And level with the dust lay all her gates.

Out of the ruins, unto death defended
By men as brave as Greece or Rome e'er bore,
Behold our Queen arise, a vision splendid,
Her throne and scepter to resume once more;
Her star of hope in cloudless skies is burning,
No time or mood hath she for idle tears;
The night is past, and brightly dawns the morning—
To face the world and conquer it is hers!

The wreck, the dust, the smoldering ashes raking,
That darkly hide the reeking, blood-stained soil,
Hope and assurance for the future taking
From her great past, we see her delve and toil;
With victory-compelling, empire making,
Napoleonic genius, pluck and art,
Behold Atlanta once more grandly shaping,
In stone and gold, the vision of her heart!

She hath no time for retrospective dreamings—
Her life is with the future, not the past;
With victories of peace, with commerce schemings,
Her bosom burns, her pulse is beating fast;
But yet, methinks, with smiles she still remembers
Her humble cradle in the virgin wood,
Or drops her tears upon the dust and embers,
That mark her ordeal days of fire and blood.

Men of rare brain and brave were once her nurses,
And safely brought her through her infant years;
With pride the muse of history still rehearses
Their trials and their triumphs, hopes and fears;
Stern men of war, men of heroic fiber,
In her defense have stood and bled and died,
Till with her classic sister on the Tiber,
They hath in fame become identified.

And men of might who bravely from the nettle
Of danger oft have plucked its golden flower,
Men moulded out of nature's finest metal,
Still guide her steps along the paths of power;
These with their lives, as with a shield, would cover
Her life, her fame—like those who bled and died
For her in former days, or as a lover
Would shield the life and honor of his bride.

And still they come, her Paladin defenders!
Building a wall of hearts for her defense;
The living jewels in her crown of splendors,
The corner stone of her magnificence;
She cares but little what in rank or station,
In race or creed, or birth a man may be,
So he but lays his heart as an oblation,
Upon the altar of her destiny.

Brave, proud, omnipotent in the innateness
Of powers that know no death nor dull decay,
What bounds shall ever curb her growing greatness?
What adverse force resist her growing sway?
Although the past and present of her story
Seem like some fairy tale of Orient lands,
What brain can dream, what tongue portray her glory,
When on her future's summit crowned she stands?

Jean Dalrymple, Press Agent, Takes Honors for Varied Life

Has Publicized Everything from Refugees to Musicians.

By CARLOS J. VIDELA.

Released by North American Newspaper

NEW YORK, March 21.—"I happened to be fished out of the sea in Port of Spain after the plane got out of control and crashed into the bay," said Jean Dalrymple, "but that is no reflection on my ability as a flyer, because I was just the pilot's press agent. And the pilot happened to be one of the most gifted musicians of our time—Joe Turbi, a master at the piano keyboard, but perhaps not so distinguished as an aviator."

That this should have been the climax of five years of hectic flying around Latin America, as the Spanish musician's public relations counselor, did not come as a surprise to Jean Dalrymple, who now holds the portfolio of public enlightenment and propaganda for a miscellany of causes, ranging from Polish refugees to outstanding personalities of the stage.

For Miss Dalrymple, a petite blonde who hails from Morristown, N. J., holds several records for the unusual.

Gets Beauty Votes.

A few weeks ago, in a poll of newspapermen designed to prove that women can be beautiful and smart at the same time, Miss Dalrymple received a large number of votes. That, she said, was very gracious of the reporters.

Just out of high school and still in her teens, Miss Dalrymple undertook her first task of importance—beating Wall Street.

Having landed a stenographic job with a firm there, at the munificent salary of $12 a week, she found herself, six months later, making $35 a week as head of correspondence, meanwhile having learned such tricks of the trade as seemed worth while to her. A preliminary experience in the stock market netted her $480 the second week. Heck, she thought, if this is all there is to beating Wall Street, it isn't much. Then she proceeded in earnest.

After having built herself a nice bank account, she realized, she said, "that I had no education, that I was to do go back to school and really learn something."

The first product of her academic endeavors was a vaudeville sketch called "Just a Pal," which played for six years on the old Keith circuit. Miss Dalrymple played the leading part in it, meanwhile learning French and piano, taking a course in literature and incidentally becoming golf champion of the National Vaudeville Actors Association.

"Just a Pal" was not Miss Dalrymple's only effort in this branch of literature. Others followed, which she calls "my early sins" and does not expect to be included in any future anthology of Great American prose works. Among these one stands out in her memory (title forgotten) that she wrote in collaboration with two gentlemen—James Cagney and Archie Crashes Broadway.

The success achieved with these 15-minute two-shows-a-day masterpieces led the budding dramatist to aim at larger game. Eventually she bagged the John Golden Theater in New York, in the heart of Broadway, with "Salt Water," in which she also wanted to be the leading lady. But Mr. Golden had thought of Una Merkel for the role, and, affectionately patting Miss Dalrymple on the shoulder, he remarked paternally, "Now, now, you don't really want to be an actress, do you, Jean?"

That was how she was lost to the Thespian art and how press agency won another convert. When the impresario's minister of public enlightenment departed in 1931 he woke up one day to find himself with a feminine functionary in charge of that job.

Experience Varied.

Since then, save for a spell at Hollywood working on movie scripts, Miss Dalrymple has presaged a variety of causes, from the movie, "Maedchen in Uniform," to the European and South American tours of Jose Iturbi. Her work as music writer for the New York Herald-Tribune a few years ago has stood her in good stead, too.

But she has had enough of that. Now she has her own office in a Forty-second street skyscraper, complete with secretaries, multiple telephones and a list of impressive avers, and especially tough for a woman, with so many seasoned competitors in the byways of the Broadway jungle. However, what customers want is service, Miss Dalrymple says, and if you can give it to them they don't care whether you are a man or a woman.

After all, she says, press-agenting calls for cunning, foresight and strategy—besides good connections. And aren't those qualities essentially feminine?

MONTREAL SAVES ON SNOW.

DEKALB'S FARMERS TO HEAR SOIL PLANS

AAA Official Will Explain 1940 Program Throughout County.

Candler C. Miller, DeKalb county AAA administrative assistant, next week will begin a series of eight meetings designed to explain the 1940 soil practices program to the district's 3,000 farmers.

The meetings, Miller said, will be held at the Decatur court house and at the public school buildings of Lithonia, Candler, Redan, Stone Mountain, Tucker, Chamblee and Doraville.

Assistance also will be given the farmers in filling out individual farm plan sheets, an AAA innovation this year. The plan sheets, Miller said, are used in determining the amount of payments each farmer may receive through soil-building practices.

The county AAA office yesterday was completing a tabulation of the general soil depletion allotments, which include the special allotments made for wheat, cotton and tobacco.

Miller said the results of the tabulation, instructing each farmer how many acres may be used in depleting crops, will be announced at the series of meetings.

County Agent Edward P. McGee also said yesterday that DeKalb county crop planting was falling behind because of heavy rains. Many of the roads, he pointed out, were impassable, making it impossible for him to contact all farm units.

DECATUR TO STUDY COMMUNITY LIFE

Rev. McGeachy Will Direct Civic Survey.

A survey of Decatur, showing its industrial, civic and community life, will be undertaken April 4 and 5, it was announced yesterday by the Rev. D. P. McGeachy, pastor of the Decatur Presbyterian church and chairman of the local study.

The survey will include population trends in the community, industries, resources, institutions, health, schools, churches and civic organizations.

Co-operating with the Rev. Mr. McGeachy will be Earl B. Emory, president of the DeKalb County Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture; Wheat Williams, of the Citizens Club; Clyde Walker, of the Rotary Club; Eugene Sanders, of the Lions Club; Claud Smith, of the Harold Byrd Post, American Legion; Mrs. Chase Van Valkenburg, of the Junior Service League; Alfred Kuettner, of the DeKalb New Era; Mrs. W. H. Underwood, of the D. A. R.; Mrs. A. J. Woodruff, of the U. D. C.; Sheriff Jake Hall and Dr. Rufus Evans, of the DeKalb county medical clinic.

Montreal, March 21.—(U.P.) Unless the snowfall during March and April is double the average for the month, Montreal's snow removal bill will be $380,000 less than it was a year ago, according to city hall estimates.

Cracker Winning Streak Is Broken as Savannah Cops, 6 to 4

BEN HOGAN WINS PINEHURST OPEN WITH 277 TOTAL

White Plains Pro Takes 1st Major Victory, $1,000 Prize.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 21. (P)—Ben Hogan, Texas-born pro from White Plains, N. Y., scored the first major tournament victory of his golf career today when he captured the $1,000 first prize in the north-south open championship with a 72-hole score of 277.

Leader since the start of the competition, when he fired a six under par 66 in the first round to tie the competitive course record, Hogan came home in the last threesome before a gallery of 3,000.

His 277 gave him a new record for 72 holes of competition over Pinehurst's No. 2 course since the introduction of grass greens in 1934. Vic Ghezzi held the former mark of 279, set in 1938.

Sam Snead's 67, on top of a third-round 73, gave him second place with 280 and second money of $600. Third, at 286 on a closing 70, was national open champion Byron Nelson, who won here last year, while Johnny Revolta rallied for a par 72 and fourth place at 287.

Rookie Wears Shoes For Toe Protection

WAYCROSS, Ga., March 21.—(P)—Geagle Gruch, 214-pound, six-foot-three-inch Blount fisherman who wants a pitching job with Waycross, says there is nothing to that report about his playing without shoes.

Well, yes, he did catch and play the infield and outfield in semi-pro ranks for quite a spell without benefit of foot covering but when he took up pitching three years ago, he also put on shoes to keep the pitching slab from tearing his big toe off.

In fact, he was delayed in reaching the Bear camp because he had to await filling of a special order for a new pair of shoes big enough to fit his ample extremities.

Call in The Game

by Jack Troy

They're Foxy SAVANNAH, Ga., March 21.—Attention, Georgia fox hunters: The Jenkins County Fox Hunters' Club has a pack of only 15 hounds, but they claim it is the finest pack in all Georgia.

Reason? Well, the Jenkins county club, with headquarters at Millen, has been organized only a year.

But what a year that pack of 15 hounds has had! The pack has run down 140 fox.

I. O. Parker, a fine old gentleman who has been hunting fox all his life, is president of the Jenkins club.

And Mr. Parker insists their pack of 15 hounds will outrun any other pack of 50 in the state.

He may have something there. After all, when 15 fox hounds can bat 140 during the season, they rate pretty high in the Reynard league.

The Jenkins club staged a great hunt at Millen today. One hundred fox hounds, which necessarily included 75 visiting hounds, were released in two groups.

Part of the pack was released at 5 o'clock in the morning and the rest at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

And they had sly old Reynard in high from morning until night.

Charles J. Wadsworth, linotype operator on the Millen News, couldn't get off for his favorite sport, but joined the gang at a noon-barbecue.

Great Prospects Lamar (Skeeter) Newsome, Columbus, Ga., boy who played in the majors for years and at present is holding forth at short for the Baltimore Orioles, is highly impressed with the Crackers.

"They look like a winner in the Southern league," Newsome observed following the Orioles' third straight defeat in the spring series.

"You don't often see a club that hustles and hits like that," he added.

Man for man, despite the extreme youth of some of the Crackers, the Atlanta club looks like a better team than the Orioles.

Many of the boys, of course, lack the experience of fellows like Newsome, Howell, Graham, Nagel, etc., but they are real up-and-coming prospects, whereas the aforementioned fellows have been places and are on the way back.

The Crackers should, but they might not, lose a game to the Orioles in the entire series.

They have more hustle and look like a better hitting and fielding team than their Double-A rivals.

Connie Ryan has been playing with laryngitis, and still he continues to shine afield. He made a magnificent back-hand stop in back of second base at Millen and threw the runner out. And on a double play which Anderson started, completed it like a master.

And it's pretty hard to beat a ball club which has men coming up all the time who are liable to pound the baseball right out of the park.

Fast One Joe Sosby Jr., son of Millen's city manager, had a real idea Wednesday. Joe wanted an autographed baseball but didn't know how to get one.

He expressed his desires in the presence of Bobby LaMotte, former Cracker, and Shag Bowden, who used to be a good ball player himself.

They told Joe to approach Umpire Patterson between innings and ask him for an autographed ball.

And so midway of the Cracker-Oriole game, Joe picked his spot and ran up to Patterson.

"Sure, Sonny," Patterson replied, "I'll be glad to give you an autographed ball if you will bring one and a pen out here."

LaMotte and Bowden then proceeded to heckle Patterson for not giving the kid a ball out of his coat pocket.

Attractions Two great attractions are being arranged for Atlanta fans when the Crackers return home to play the remainder of their exhibition games.

President Earl Mann has requested Cy Slapnicka, Cleveland.

LAWSON, MARSH, WATTIGNY FACE CRAX SATURDAY

Waycross Pilot To Send Ex-Cracker at Old Teammates.

WAYCROSS, Ga., March 21.—Manager Al Leitz will send two full-grown Bears and a baby Bear to the mound Saturday when the Waycross Georgia-Florida League Bruins meet the Atlanta Crackers on Ralph Newton Field here.

It will be the first competition of the season for the Leitzmen, and the Waycross skipper will face Cracker batters with some of their own former property—Elwood Lawson, left-hander who was claimed by the Crackers from Waycross at the end of the past season and then returned to the south Georgia club; big Jim Marsh, who was sent to Waycross last year by the Crackers; and Ulysses Wattigny, New Orleans youngster who was in camp with the Crackers during the latter part of the past season and was sent here for seasoning during the 1940 season.

"I'll give those boys a chance to see what Southern League batting is like," Leitz comments.

Young Wattigny, lanky right-hander, who is 6 feet, 6 1/2 inches in the air, has been impressive during workouts of the past two weeks.

The Bears have shown considerable promise during the past week, Skipper Leitz already having whacked a dozen performers from the roster. Batters have been in training for two weeks, and the rest of the squad for one week.

Under a working agreement with the Crackers, a fair measure of help for infield, outfield and hurling departments is expected with another few days from the Cracker training camp in Savannah.

THOMAS LAUDS SOPH HALFBACK

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 21. (P)—Coach Frank Thomas expects his 1940 Alabama football team to be "the most interesting one we have had at the university since 1931."

Thomas, speaking before a Birmingham alumni group, said his squad had shown great spirit in spring workouts and he hoped inexperience would not prove too much of a handicap for a "fairly successful" season.

"I think the most pleasant surprise we have had in spring practice has been the showing of Dave Brown, sophomore right half-back," he said. "By his senior year, Brown should be one of the best backs in the history of Alabama football. He is rugged, a fine ball carrier and likes football."

The Alabama coach said Tommy Borders, a substitute tackle last year, had shown well and "will play a lot of tackle for us this fall."

"We will have a team with speed and one that will be interesting to follow," Thomas said. "The youngsters will make some mistakes, but they will make some yardage."

Alabama has only eight letter-men on the spring squad of 70-old players.

EX-BOXER SENTENCED.

NEW YORK, March 21.—(P)—Solly Seeman, one-time contender for the world's lightweight boxing title and alleged co-leader of a $1,000,000 nation-wide stolen bond ring, was sentenced to two years in prison today by Federal Judge John C. Knox.

Greek George Refuses To Play for Montreal

SAVANNAH, March 21.—Charley (Greek) George, former Oglethorpe athlete and a native of Brunswick, is here and has no intentions of reporting to Montreal if he can help it.

The Greek, a catcher, said today: "I don't like the idea of taking half of the money they offer in Canadian dough. In the second place, I'd rather not play up there."

GILBERT WANTS HIM.

Asked if it were not true that Larry Gilbert is trying to get him for the Nashville club, George replied, with a grin: "You know he's always trying to get me."

George has caught for Gilbert at New Orleans and Nashville. He was sold by Brooklyn to Montreal last season.

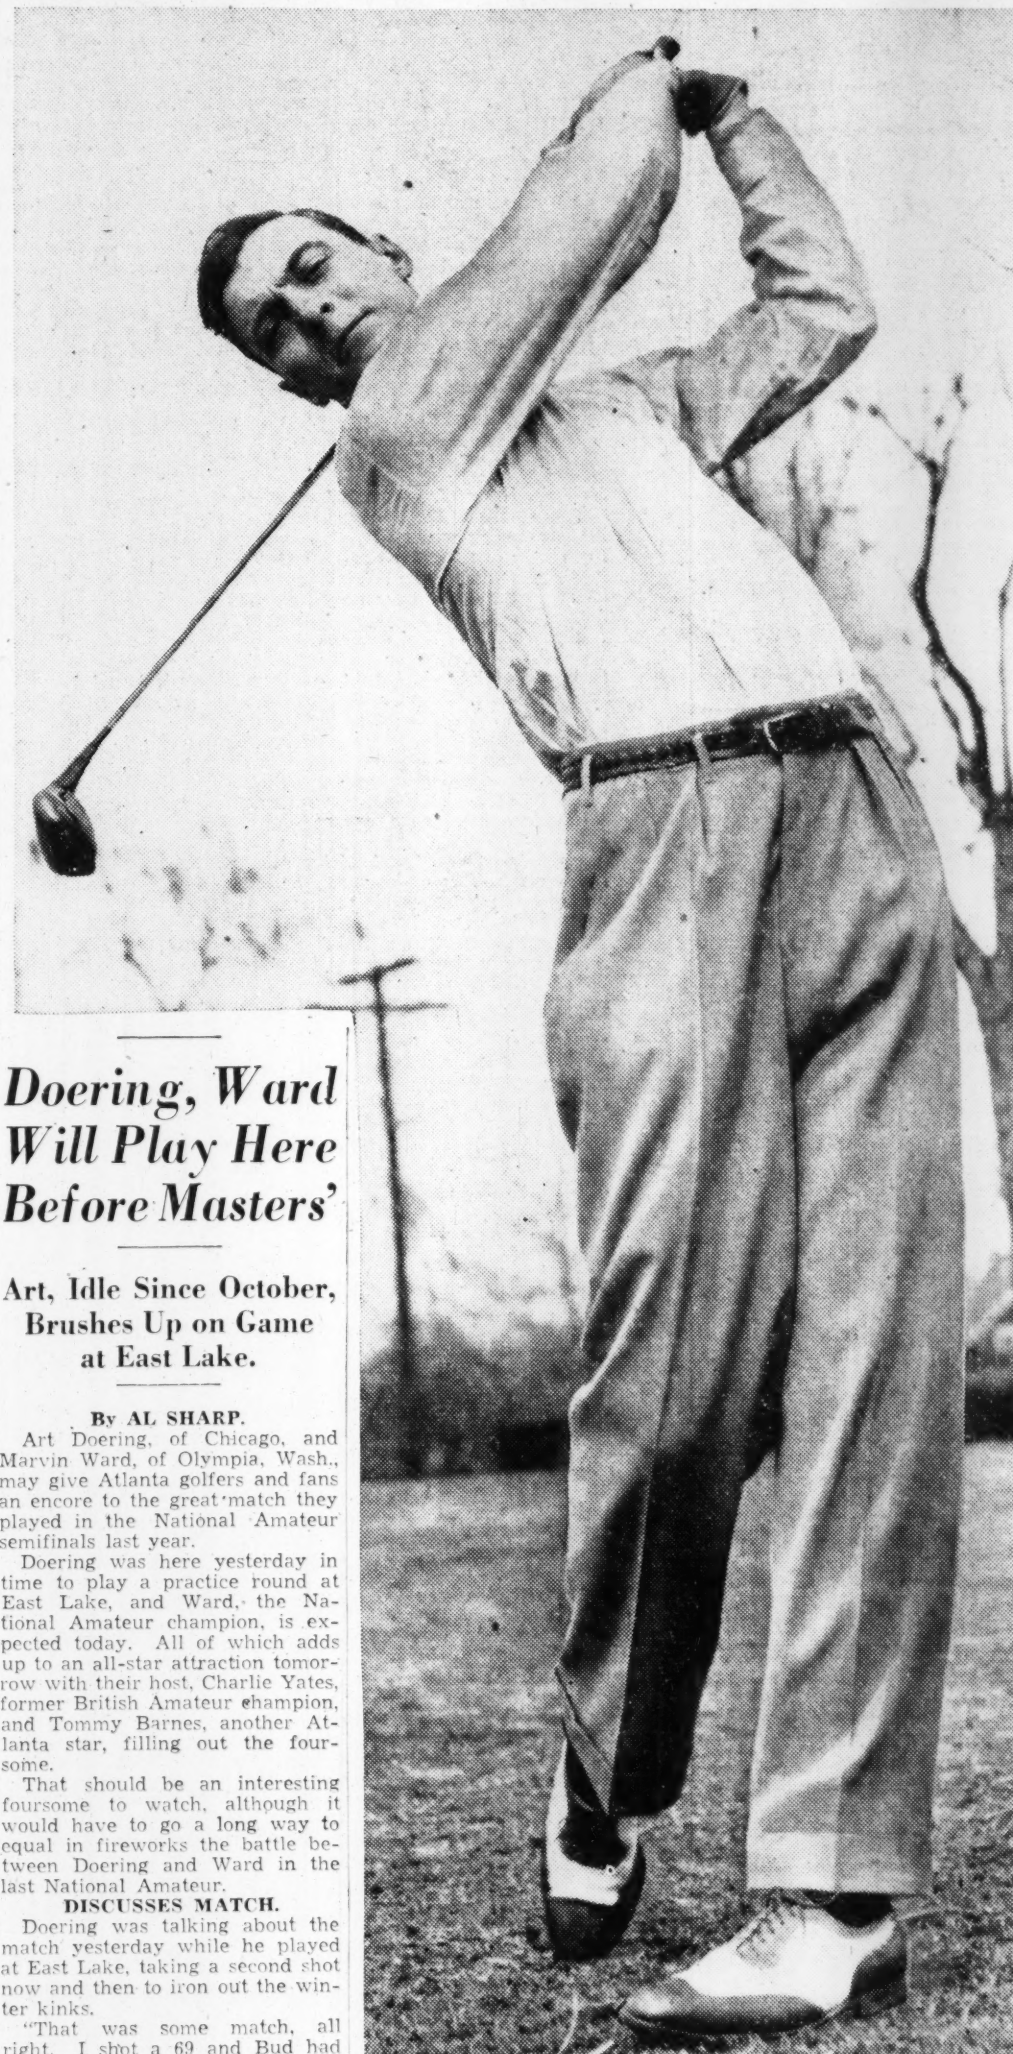

The only manager ever to handle George satisfactorily has been Gilbert—and the odds are that he winds up catching for old Larry again.

FAR AWAY.

Montreal is training at Lake Wales, Fla., and the Greek, a far piece away, hopes to be farther away when the Royals return to Canada.

He enjoyed a holdout's holiday today, watching the crackers and Savannah play.

George's home is at Brunswick and he will go there from here to await developments which he

Gracyn Wheeler Wins Bermuda Tennis Title

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 21.—(P)—Playing brilliant and nearly faultless tennis, Gracyn Wheeler, of Santa Monica, Cal., defeated Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fab-yan, of Boston, 10-8, 6-3 today in the finals of the women's singles in the Coral Beach Invitation tournament.

In the men's singles Elwood Cooke, of Portland, Ore., and Don McNeill, of Oklahoma City, pre-tournament favorites, won their way to the finals in a pair of gruelling four-set contests.

ATLANTA TEAM ERRATIC AFIELD WITH 4 ERRORS

Harris, Kerkiseck Pitch for Crackers; Petroskey Is Star.

By JACK TROY.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 21.—The Savannah Indians slipped out of their tepees under the error of 'og today and scalped 11 visiting Crackers. The 6-4 setback was the Atlanta club's first loss of the season.

The Indians stormed the Citadel and carried the rampant against what largely was a rookie Cracker outfit after the early innings.

Luman Harris made his first start of the season and gave up four hits and five runs in four innings. Weyman Kerkiseck followed and allowed two runs and five hits.

The Crackers kept up with the Indians in a see-saw struggle through the fifth, but thereafter they could hardly get to first base.

PETROSKEY STARS.

Nowak and Mertz divided the first six innings and it was a battle. But when big Mike Petroskey, the former Georgetown ace and once Cracker property, planted his huge frame on the hillcock, Atlanta really bit the dust.

Alf Anderson, suffering from a slightly sore arm, was held out of the game and Roy Smith played short. It finally came to pass that Smith, who at short, Dudley Parker on second and Manager Paul Richards at first.

It was a cold, foggy day and the Cracker defense unlearned again. The Crackers outthit the

Catcher Wants to Work for Gilbert; Crackers Have Big Edge Over Orioles

By JACK TROY.

SAVANNAH, March 21.—Charley (Greek) George, former Oglethorpe athlete and a native of Brunswick, is here and has no intentions of reporting to Montreal if he can help it.

The Greek, a catcher, said today: "I don't like the idea of taking half of the money they offer in Canadian dough. In the second place, I'd rather not play up there."

GILBERT WANTS HIM.

Asked if it were not true that Larry Gilbert is trying to get him for the Nashville club, George replied, with a grin: "You know he's always trying to get me."

George has caught for Gilbert at New Orleans and Nashville. He was sold by Brooklyn to Montreal last season.

The only manager ever to handle George satisfactorily has been Gilbert—and the odds are that he winds up catching for old Larry again.

FAR AWAY.

Montreal is training at Lake Wales, Fla., and the Greek, a far piece away, hopes to be farther away when the Royals return to Canada.

He enjoyed a holdout's holiday today, watching the crackers and Savannah play.

George's home is at Brunswick and he will go there from here to await developments which he

DOROTHY HOLDS FOUR-UP LEAD AFTER 9 HOLES

Helen Outlasts Jean Bauer for One-Up Victory at Augusta.

By DOROTHY KIRBY.
FOREST HILLS, AUGUSTA, March 21.—Again it has happened, meaning that I have defeated Jane Cothran by 5 and 4.

It certainly pays to get off to a good start, for today I won the first two holes and played rather consistently to come to the end of the first nine with a lead of four holes, which is a very comfortable feeling.

My chipping and putting has been in awfully handy all week. I remark that Patty Berg made to me last week has been a big help. Pat said that you naturally couldn't be hitting all of your shots on the nose all the time, so when you were off on some one part of your game to do the best you could with the part that you did have.

HOLDS GOOD.
In other words, make up for the bad side of your game in some other department. That certainly holds good, too, because that is just what I have been doing. As I believe I said yesterday, luck was with me. Well, she held out today and when she is on your side everything is rosy.

The Helen Sigel-Jean Bauer match was a good one. They went to the 18th where Helen won by one up. They were even at the turn. I caught them on the 13th and Jean was two down, but got one back at the 13th then won the 14th also, but lost the 15th to a birdie three. Helen chipped in off the edge of the green. The 16th was halved as was the 17th and 18th, but the halved holes didn't do Jean any good.

DUDLEY WATCHES.
Ed Dudley was in the gallery watching his pupil, Helen, come through. Playing Helen tomorrow will make the second time that we have met. We met together last year at Pinehurst in the North and South. This was a close match, but I won after plenty of trouble on the 17th. She had par on the 18th for a 78 and I had 76.

So my hands will be full from start to finish. Long drives are her best suit so I will just have to be content with short ones just so they are down the middle. It would feel pretty good to successfully defend my title here, but at the moment Miss Sigel is right in the way.

HOGAN'S NAME GETS IN THE BOOK.

Ben Hogan, the 140-pound tournament pro, finally hit his stride. The event which had been predicted for months came off at Pinehurst in the North and South Open.

A year ago golfers were predicting that Hogan would be the new star of the winter circuit. He wasn't. Jimmy Demaret, also of Texas, found his putting touch after all these years. And he ran away with honors.

Still the men who play golf for gold believed in Hogan. Only 10 days ago at the Thomaston open, Horton Smith brought it up.

"Ben has been playing the best golf on the circuit," Horton said. "That is, he has been playing the best not to be winning."

Then at Pinehurst Hogan hit his stride. He could do little wrong. His shots were coming off as he wanted them to. His putts were finding the cups.

It always has been surprising to us, this business of coming close for months and then hitting the groove. Demaret is an example. It took him years to pull the trick. Hogan is another. It took him months.

The Scotch have the answer. A calm people, they do not worry about such happenings. They dismiss the matter with an old saying, "His name was in the book."

In other words, the belief in predestination and fatalism enters the picture. It is an easy way to account for victories. If a favorite loses on one unlucky shot, they apply the same idea.

"His name wasn't in the book," they say then. "He couldn't win. He wasn't supposed to."

It is reassuring to look at golf in that light. Hogan's name must have been at the top of the first page in capital letters.

How it got there is something, else again.

Van Lynch and Darden Hampton, of the Chattanooga Country Club, came to town with glad tidings.

"I don't believe it yet," related the enthusiastic Lynch, "but I saw it happen."

"You know how the ninth green is. It's way above the tee on the 146-yard hole. To the right is the river, and the bank on that side is steep. On the left is a bank up to the road."

"Well, you know how we play that hole most of the time. Try to hook the ball into the green or the bank on the left so it will trickle down by the cup."

"I was playing with Chief Ed Herron, Walt Smith and Bob Hasselle. Hasselle hooked a 5-iron into the bank at the left of the green. It looked good. The ball started rolling down toward the pin. Pop Keyser yelled the ball was in."

"Now wait a minute, that's just half of it."

"Three foursomes later Harry Weber missed the ball rolled into the same spot. The ball rolled into the cup."

"Just a minute."

"Out of the 400 members in that club, by golly, those fellows who had scored their first holes-in-one had lockers side by side."

"Oh, yes, I almost forgot to tell you. I shot right after Hasselle. My ball hit right where his did. But you know that darn thing wouldn't go in. No, it did not go in the river. It stopped on the green."

DOERING, WARD WILL PLAY HERE

the way he was hitting the ball—a natural reaction after such a long lay-off. Art is enthusiastic about the Masters' tourney. He has never competed in the south.

Doering had no sooner finished 18 holes before he headed for the practice tee.

Maybe he decided to get ready for Bud Ward, who, with Yates, Bill Holt, of Syracuse, N. Y., and Doering will form the nucleus of the fastest amateur field the Masters' has boasted.

All of them are expected to tune up here.

Charlie Yates already had a game arranged when Doering came in, so they didn't get to play together.

Charlie paired with Gene Roy, of Norfolk, Va., against Tom Talbot, of New York, and Charles Coleman, of Atlanta. Yates had a 33-34-67.

Talbot and Coleman came up with a couple of deuces on the short eleventh hole. They laid their shots within a foot of the pin for "gimmes."

Florida Big Favorite in S. E. C. Swim Meet Starting Today

CAPTAIN ACOSTA LEADS UNBEATEN 'GATOR MERMEN

Seven Teams Entered in Annual Meet at Tech Gymnasium.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.
It is deemed a certainty that the University of Florida mermen, who reputedly were born with fins, not having lost a meet in over six years, will leave the swimmers of six other colleges in their backwash as they splash to another Southeastern conference championship today and tomorrow afternoons and nights in the Georgia Tech pool.

The lads from the peninsula state are in their element in the water sports, and are figured far too strong even for L. S. U.'s fine team to compete with. Other teams entered, including Tech, Georgia, Auburn, Kentucky and Tennessee, have one or two good performers, who will make the going tough in the individual events.

Captain Chic Acosta, captain of the 'Gators, is perhaps the outstanding swimmer in the school's history. This year he has scored 93 points to bring his three-year total to 228, or an average of over 10 points in the 22 meets in which he has competed. This broke the school record of Walter Liddell, 1939 'Gator captain, who had 222.

MARK BETTERED.
Acosta's conference record time in the 50-yard free-style event, set last year in the conference swim, was bettered here night before last by Robert Percy, L. S. U. speedster, who won in a photo finish over Dick Bates of Tech in a dual meet. The battle between the three, plus Georgia's Bill Walters in the conference event, should prove an exciting spectacle. Acosta also holds the Conference 100-yard free-style record, though likely he will be hard pressed to retain that, too.

All prevailing conference records were set in last year's swim, with Florida grabbing off five of them. Incidentally records are quite likely to fall right and left in the current clash. Should the 'Gators triumph it will be their fourth conference win in seven years. Three years the meet was not held.

A new event, the 1,500-meter swim, will get the meet under way this morning at 11 o'clock. Afternoon sessions both today and tomorrow will start at 2:30, with the night beginnings each day set at 8:30. Trials will be run off each afternoon, with finals being saved for the nights when larger crowds are anticipated.

TWO DIVING EVENTS.
Two diving events are on the card. Only the one-meter event will count in the point total, however, with the three-meter diving being more or less in the form of an exhibition.

Besides Kingfish Acosta, the Floridians boast a galaxy of other stars. Welch, Youngblood and Joe Rood being three of the better ones. This season alone the Florida fishermen have established 23 new pool records and scored 72 out of a possible 81 points in their nine straight triumphs in dual swims.

Among the better tankers to be entered from other colleges are L. S. U.'s brilliant trio, Robert Percy, B. W. Wax and Captain Albert Klempner, the latter two being conference champions.

Amateur Cage Loop Has Great Season

More Than 300 Awards Made at Banquet Last Night; Rache Bell Presides.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.
The Greater Atlanta Amateur Basketball Federation closed its greatest year last night with its first annual banquet with over 200 participants attending. More than 300 individual and two dozen team awards were made for meritorious play during the season in league and tournament play, the annual tourney being consummated night before last.

Rache Bell, president of the association, presided over the evening's festivities, and Morgan Blake, principal speaker of the evening, gave a witty and pertinent discourse on sports which ended with a command rendition of "Casey at the Bat."

Howard Haire, city councilman who is chairman of the committee to investigate the building of a new municipal stadium, promised the new stadium plans would include a basketball court with ample seating facilities to accommodate expected crowds for future tournaments of the nature of the Gold Medal meets.

The association is planning an even greater scope of activities for next year, to be climaxed again by a city-wide tournament to embrace divisions for juniors, boys and girls in classes A, B and C.

American Golf Slow—Ferrier

PINEHURST, N. C., March 21.—(UP)—Jim Ferrier, the Australian national amateur and open champion, who finished far down in the list of the North-South open with a 72-hole total of 305, decided today American golf was too slow—and went out and finished first. Ferrier, who says he usually plays 18 holes in "two hours," has been taking four hours here because the golfers spend so much time sizing up their next shots. While the rest of the field was resting between the two 18-hole final matches, Ferrier took to the virtually deserted fairway and shot a 76.

Indians, 11 to 9, but they didn't match the Indians' errorless play affair.

Dean Evans and DeJohn belted home runs for the Indians. DeJohn also wasted a triple on the biting air.

On the Cracker side, Burge had a perfect day with two doubles and a triple. Connie Ryan, also retired after five innings, hit two singles.

Today's game was the first of a four-day game series. The second game is scheduled tomorrow afternoon. Mack Stewart, former Indian, and Lewis Carpenter are scheduled to pitch.

SCORE IN FIRST.
Maintaining their record for getting off the lead, the Crackers scored in the first inning after two were out. Hafez and Burge hit successive doubles.

Evans hit a terrific home run all the way over the right field stands to tie up the game in the Indians' half of the first.

Aided by a Cracker error, the Indians took a one-run lead in the second. Burge failed to touch first on Hafez's throw of Thompson's grounder. Dobbins walked and Valle's single scored Thompson.

The Crackers evened it up in the third. R. Smith singled to left. He advanced on a passed ball. Mailho flied to right and Smith took third after the catch. Smith scored on Hafez's infield out.

Rose had a horseshoe in his pocket in the Indians' half. He hit a foul which fell on a light wire as Smith poised to catch it. Then Rose hit sharply to right and as Mailho went back for the ball it hit another wire strung over the field and fell for a double, scoring Willett, who singled, and putting the Indians in the lead once more.

SEE-SAW GAME.
The game see-sawed on. The Crackers scored in the fourth when Ryan and L. Smith put singles together and Mertz delivered a wild pitch.

The Indians came up in their half and used a double error to advantage. R. Smith fumbled Valle's grounder and then threw wild at first. Crompton singled through the box and Valle scored. The irrepressible Crackers came right back to tie the score again. Burge led off with his third hit, a triple, in the fifth. He scored on Suydam's infield out.

ANOTHER HOMER.
Savannah made it 5-4 in the sixth, when DeJohn blasted a homer in the right field stands, with two away. Walker tripled, but expired at third. In the seventh Evans singled and went to third when R. Smith missed Kelley's grounder. He scored as the Crackers completed a double-play on Farrar's grounder, R. Smith to Parker to Richards.

Petroskey, once a Cracker, held the noble lads hitless and runless in the last three innings and Savannah finally broke Atlanta's winning streak.

BUFORD BATTLES OGLETHORPE '9' IN OPENING GAME

Petrels Lose Bob McCabe, Regarded as Best Since Luke Appling.

Oglethorpe University's game this afternoon with Buford will have the following lineup as starters, according to Coach Frank Anderson:

Milton, ss; George, 3b; Mathis, cf; Geraci, 1b; Downs, 2b; Barnett, rf; Beacham, lf; Russell and Smith, c; McClanahan and Worthington, p.

Coach Anderson is bear these days about the fact that Oglethorpe baseball club boasts six pitchers—more than ever before.

But he made the following startling statement: "Bob McCabe, the best baseball player on the Oglethorpe campus since the days of Luke Appling, left school day before yesterday." And he didn't say for what, but it was obvious that McCabe left a disappointed coach behind him.

On March 26, Coach Anderson and his players begin a trip to Florida.

Their first game will be at Cordele. On the 27th and 28th they meet the University of Florida at Gainesville, and on the 29th and 30th they close their Florida visit with a game at Winter Park with Rollins.

The Petrels' next game is scheduled Saturday when they meet the Goodyear Mills at Atco, Ga. Pitchers will be Hooks, Whalley and Palmer.

MAGIC CORKS
The puzzle is to change corks from one hand to the other without interlocking them. Two fingers and thumbs grasp the ends of the corks and when the hands are taken apart, the corks come away freely. Hold hands back up. Place right forefinger on top of left hand cork, right thumb on bottom of the cork. Left thumb extends into right palm and presses against bottom of right hand cork, while left forefinger bends around and presses the upper end of right hand cork. In this position (figure 3) the puzzle of whiskey-buying confusion with Sherry-Blended Caravan Whiskey.

A BLEND OF FINE STRAIGHT WHISKIES... 90 PROOF

With so many brands and types of whiskies on the market, it's confusing for the average man to make a choice. So it's gratifying to help the "occasional" whiskey buyer out of his dilemma. Sherry-Blended Caravan is clearing up whiskey-buying confusion for more and more people every day. Sherry-Blended Caravan is a blend of selected, light-bodied, straight whiskies, blended with a dash of rare, imported Sherry. Sounds OK, doesn't it? Better try it.

Cuban Stars Beat Reds, 11 to 7

VANDER MEER ALLOWS HOMER WITH THREE ON

Four Red Sox Hits, Four Card Errors Win for Boston.

HAVANA, March 21.—(AP)—A home run by Alejandro Crespo, with the bases filled in the sixth inning, provided the Cuban All-Stars with an 11-to-7 victory today over the Cincinnati Reds in the first of a three-game exhibition series at Tropical stadium.

More than 10,000 fans wildly cheered Crespo's feat, a tremendous blow off the shoulders of Southpaw Johnny Vander Meer.

Cardinals Make Four Errors

SARASOTA, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Four Red Sox hits and four Cardinal errors resulted in three runs in the eighth inning today as the Boston American League club defeated the St. Louis National League club, 4 to 2.

In a screwy eighth inning, Doc Cramer, the first batter, rolled to Don Guttridge, who threw the ball over Johnny Mize's head, and Doc raced to second. Leo Norenkamp beat out an intended sacrifice and raced to second as Guttridge again threw over Mize's head.

Arketka Homers In Lookout Drill

DELAND, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—The Chattanooga Lookouts staged their first intra-camp game today, a 3-4 affair at six innings, with the regulars impressive despite their inability to silence the Yankees.

Chief Arketka, infielder purchased from Birmingham, blasted a 350-foot homer and added another tally with an infield fly to take offensive honors. The Yans were held hitless in all but one frame by the pitching of Joe Miller and Lefty Swift, rookies here to stay, and Ted Pritchett. Swift yielded a three-run double that did the damage.

Carl Hubbell Canks Tigers

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—It rained the Giant-Tiger baseball game out in the fourth inning today—but all was sunshine in the camp of Bill Terry's men.

For the "meal ticket"—"ing Carl Hubbell—blanked the Tigers, fanning four and allowing only two hits, in the first three innings.

Vol Shortstops Battle for Job

SANFORD, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—One of the liveliest job battles on the Nashville Vols' squad has cropped up in an unexpected place, shortstop.

Dick Culter, the small Carolinian, is being challenged seriously by Tommy Tatum, the Texas redhead signed by Nashville after being made a free agent, with 90 others, in the Detroit case.

Stanford and Vasil Gain A. A. U. Finals

FLORENCE, Ala., March 21.—Atlanta placed two men in the finals of the Southeastern A. A. U. boxing tournament here tonight.

Tommy Stanford, 160-pounder, won from Joe Board, Memphis, and George Vasil, in the 175-pound class, defeated William Davenport, of Leighton, Poland Lee, of Atlanta, lost to Joe Anderson, of Chattanooga.

The championship round starts at 8 o'clock Friday night.

"COME DOWN, 'DUCKY'!"—That's what Branch Rickey, Card vice president, will probably say to the St. Louis star today when the two confer in regard to their salary dispute. Medwick is shown as he arrived in Tampa last night by plane, en route to St. Petersburg for today's conference.

JOE MEDWICK, BRANCH RICKEY CONFER TODAY

Ducky Flies to St. Pete to Discuss Contract Terms.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Joe Medwick, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, arrived here tonight after a hurried plane trip from St. Louis and announced that he and Branch Rickey would meet "sometime tomorrow morning" to try to settle their contract differences.

Medwick has pursued a long holdout campaign, refusing to sign unless the Cards add $2,000 to his 1939 contract figure, reported to be $18,000.

Medwick said he was cut $2,000 in 1939 and thought he deserved the pay cut back in view of the fact the Cardinals made money last year.

Rickey met Medwick upon his arrival here, but Medwick said afterward that they did not discuss the contract. All they did was arrange a rendezvous Friday morning.

GLAMMERGAL, SUZIANNA WIN

NEWNAN, Ga., March 21.—Glammergal and Suzianna were top winners today in the Coweta field trials. A small but select field of dogs competed.

Glammergal, owned by W. F. Floyd, won the puppy stakes following a runover with Georgia Cracker. Oddly enough two strangers handled the winners in the runover. State Senator Walter Sanders, of Newnan, handled Glammergal and Gus Leazar handled Cracker. Ray Carter handled John Halliburton's Cracker on the initial run. Beau Hawk Henson, owned and handled by T. R. Atkinson, took third place in the puppy stake.

Ray Carter handled Dr. H. W. Ridley's Atlanta Suzianna, derby stake winner. Second place went to Vineland Lad owned and handled by H. Leazar. J. H. Goff's Atlanta Bess Dungenel took third place.

Judges were Jack Tway, of Atlanta, and Ralph Harris, of Hogsenville.

A grudge match, just to settle arguments on the relative merits of short and long-haired dogs, featured the meet.

Organization of an "initial gifts committee," to enlist support for special projects in the development of a university center in Atlanta, was begun at a dinner last night.

Principal speaker was Preston S. Arkwright, general chairman of the drive to assure an educational center in Atlanta.

Urging support of the drive to raise funds, Mr. Arkwright declared:

"We have found Atlantans generous at all times, but so far as I am able to recall we have been giving largely if not almost entirely to meet the needs of a moment, of an hour, of a day. We have not been making a permanent investment in our community's welfare."

DAVIDSON EXPLAINS RELIEF FOR NEEDY

Epworth Methodist Leader Says Young People Are Glad To Aid.

By DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

Ed Davidson, a lay member of the Epworth Methodist church, Atlanta, this week briefly related his story of 20 years' work with Atlanta young Methodists in bringing relief to the city's poor, in an address to the weekly Methodist Ministers' Association. According to his story, the work inaugurated by the Epworth young people aided the Community Chest, and has given until now more than 2,000 Methodist young people affiliated with the Methodist Epworth League Union are participating in the special physical and spiritual endeavor.

Ministers were pleased to learn of one feature connected with the matter, namely, that the enterprise makes no drain on the church budget, but rather increases the church's income.

Needly Assisted. Oftentimes, according to Mr. Davidson, young women go into homes and bathe babies that have had no bath for two months. Finding a family of three living in a one-room dirt-floor basement and sleeping under one quilt, the young people appealed to the landlord. Today that family of three have two rooms, upstairs, and the boy has been given a job whereby he supports mother and sister.

Mr. Davidson assured the ministers that young people heartily respond to the opportunity given to promote relief and better citizenship. He offers to visit any church in the city and present a program of instruction that will help any church in its individual community.

Free Office. Through the generosity of an unnamed layman a downtown office, at 217 Arcade building, has been provided for the young people's work. Workers associated with the enterprise do all the work of the office without pay. The one and only expense to which they are put is that of paying postage.

Each Sunday morning from 7 to 7:30 Mr. Davidson and his groups of young people broadcast a radio program, and offer to send leaders for a devotional service to any home that may request it.

MANDARIN McKECHNIE.

TAMPA, Fla., March 20.—Here was the winner of three pennants in three different cities—St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, a world's record—who could still recall the hoarse huzzas of the fickle multitudes—who could recall pink slips after pennant years—who could recall cheers turned into jeers—but one who was still a rather gentle, easy-going, mild-mannered philosopher who, in his job, was fortunate in knowing his baseball stuff and the amazing flip-flops of what Bert Taylor once labeled "the so-called human race." Here was, and is, quite a fellow, taken by, large and all the other ways.

This is merely a prelude towards announcing that no such state of affairs exists in the baseball breast of Bill McKechnie, mandarin of Cincinnati's Reds.

I sat on the Red bench with Mandarins Bill, winner of three pennants in three different cities, and asked him to announce how many games he expects to finish back of the St. Louis Cardinals. The Red mandarin, wind-tanned, sun-baked, a trifle seamy around the frontpiece, smiled gently. There's a seamy side to this game, same as the ball they play it with.

"That's one break I get, anyway," he said. "I'm off the hot spot. Blades is now where I was a year ago. So if we should win again—"

"So you expect to win again?" I asked.

"I didn't quite say that," he replied. "But don't think we are aiming at any second place."

Sizing Up The Reds.

"I know this is March," Bill told me, "and I know October is a long time ahead. A very long time in baseball. BUT let's look at the pleasant side of our situation—"

"First, in place of curling up and losing his spirit after that tough break in the last World Series game, I believe Lombardi will be better than ever. I know he's hustling harder, that he's keener than he ever was to make good. He isn't the quitting, the curling-up type. Just watch him."

"My infield will be about the same; I know I'm shy on replacements. But it isn't the worst infield in baseball. Not for my money."

"I think my outfield will be better than it was. Craft will be in much better physical shape. Young McCormick looks like a real hitter and a good ball player. We'll have a good outfield. We won't be any weaker than we were back of the bat, around the infield or the outfield."

"Now we come to the big spot," nation of rebuke. "Yes, I mean pitching."

"Last spring we had our staff working along pretty smoothly—Walters, Derringer, Moore, Vander Meer, Thompson—we pick up a 12-game lead. Then suddenly we have only two winning pitchers left—Walters and Derringer. They have to carry the load. We stagger through and just make it."

"Now I'll admit no one can ask Bucky and Paul to bring us in 52 winners this season. They might. They are that good. But that's asking a lot. Maybe too much. But I

S. E. C. Swim Coaches Guests of Georgia Tech

Southeastern conference swimming coaches were guests of the Georgia Tech Athletic Association at a buffet supper last night at the Atlanta Athletic Club. The meeting officially opened the annual S. E. C. meet which starts today at the Tech gymnasium.

Coach Bill Alexander served as host for the occasion and welcomed the visiting coaches. After the delightful supper, pairings and heats were drawn up for the meet today. Six schools, Tech, Georgia, Florida, L. S. U., Tennessee and Auburn were represented. Kentucky's team had not arrived in time for the dinner but will be on hand when the meet opens today with the 1,500-meter race at 11 o'clock this morning.

"On behalf of Georgia Tech, I welcome you to Atlanta for your annual meet," Coach Alex said. "I hope you like our new pool and will come again soon."

There were no other speeches and the business meeting started immediately.

WPA HAS ERECTED 529 STRUCTURES IN STATE SINCE '35

Schoolhouses Lead List With 190; Improvements Are Made on 1,700 Old Buildings.

Construction or improvement of an average of 15 public buildings in each county of Georgia by the Work Projects Administration since its inception July 1, 1935, was disclosed yesterday by State Administrator Robert L. MacDougall.

In a report to the government, MacDougall said the Georgia WPA had erected 529 public buildings, improved and remodeled 1,741 others, and made additions to 115. Of all structures built by the WPA, the number of schools was greatest. New schools totaled 190, another 746 were remodeled or improved, and additions were built to 83. Two libraries were built, six improved and an addition made to one.

Others Listed.

Besides schools, MacDougall said, the WPA built 18 auditoriums, 42 gymnasiums, 93 recreation buildings, 22 office and administrative buildings such as city halls and courthouses, three hospitals, 14 penal institutions, four firehouses, 13 public garages, 14 storage buildings, and 114 buildings of other classifications.

Twenty stadia were built, with total seating capacity of 31,330, and improvements made to 10 others with seating of 43,000. Twenty-five school playgrounds were constructed with WPA labor, 11 community playgrounds, 44 athletic fields, four handball courts, 13 horseshoe courts, 143 tennis courts, 12 swimming pools and 13 golf courses.

Sanitary Works.

Water mains, aqueducts, wells, storage tanks and reservoirs were built for municipalities, the administrator said, while in rural areas the agency participated in the fight on malaria by draining 297,995 acres and improving drainage on another 117,129 acres. A total of 102,000 trees were planted in reforestation projects.

"These projects," MacDougall said, "have furnished constant employment to a large number of people, in addition to building better communities. During the year 1939 the average employment on all WPA projects in the state was 50,898 persons."

"These people were unable to find jobs in private industry, but most of them had dependent families. Their WPA jobs preserved their skills, created community wealth, and put their wages into circulation for food, clothing, rent and other necessities."

PRISON TERM UPHOLD.

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—(AP)—The United States circuit court of appeals yesterday affirmed the three-year prison term imposed by a Florida court on Arthur Wagner for mail fraud.

Public Learns Its Greenbacks; Counterfeiters Find Life Tough

By HAROLD MARTIN.

Making money, in the literal sense, is getting tougher every year. The life of the counterfeiter is growing more hazardous day by day as Uncle Sam's sleuths of the Secret Service go about the country educating people into looking more closely at the shillings which come across the counters.

By means of a movie called "Know Your Money," the Secret Service men are teaching anyone who wants to come and see it what a genuine one, five, 10 or 20 looks like so that they can, with one quick glance, spot a phony when it comes into their hands.

The movie, being shown in the Atlanta district under the supervision of John C. Marsh, agent in charge, already has been seen by 1,000,000 people in schools, business organization groups and civic clubs throughout the country. It is being shown to the schools here now, and as soon as they all have seen it, it will be available to any other organization that wants it.

It also shows how the phony bill passer works, even to the neat little cache in the battery space of a flashlight from which he takes his supply when he goes in to pass a spurious note.

Education Stressed.

"We figure that we can do better through education than through prosecution," said R. A. Horton, Secret Service agent here. "If every cashier in every restaurant, bank or other place of business gets wise to how his real money looks, and gets in the habit of looking carefully at it, the counterfeiter will have to go out of business."

The education program, which started about five years ago, already has worked so well that the amount of counterfeit money floating around has been cut down from $500,000 to about $200,000, Mr. Horton said.

The technique to be followed when a man or woman tries to pass a suspicious bill is simple. The cashier should first compare it with a genuine bill to confirm his suspicions that it is spurious. He then, under some pretext or another, probably on the pretext of getting change, should call the Woman Says Library Steals His Affection.

CHICAGO, March 21.—(AP)—Bernard J. Holweg was quite a booklover, his wife, Lillian, told the court during her divorce hearing.

She testified that her husband installed a fine new library in their home while she was in a hospital, and greeted her return with: "I have my books now, so I don't need you any more."

She got the divorce.

AUTO LIBRARY STARTS TOURS FROM DETROIT

DETROIT, March 21.—(UP)—A specially designed "bookmobile" placed in operation recently by the Public Library tours the streets of Detroit bringing books to communities whose libraries were closed during the depression. The rolling library is a truck and a 30-foot trailer, the interior of which is lined with shelves to carry 3,000 books.

Spooks in Springs Silenced by Piece Of Grounded Wire

WICHITA, Kan., March 21.—(AP)—The "Ghost of Ninth Street" has been driven back to its eerie haunts.

It took no incantations or good luck charms to turn the trick—only a bit of copper wire.

For months Mr. and Mrs. William B. Lucas had been troubled by a strumming of their bed-springs and an occasional "rap," "rap." The noises bothered them so much they moved, but the ghostly manifestations followed them.

Then, explained Lucas, "I recalled reading about a set of bed-springs that mysteriously picked up radio broadcasts, and how the man who was troubled ran a wire from the springs to a pipe and grounded it.

"So I tried that out and it worked."

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 22, 1940.

Ham and Eggs Figure In Every Menu Plan

Baked ham will be chosen for many Easter menus, and much there is to be said on the subject of baking hams. In the first place, let me emphasize the fact that there are many kinds of hams and that each kind requires a different method of cooking and a different cooking time. Most of the better hams which come from packing houses nowadays not only need no soaking or parboiling, but some of them require as little as 10 minutes a pound for baking! This is because they are partly cooked in the smoking and curing process. So be sure to read the directions on the covering of the ham which you select and if you choose one of the hams of the special type be sure not to overcook it. Hams, except the special type, require from 20 to 25 minutes a pound for baking.

Easter Baked Ham.

Proceed in this manner to bake your Easter ham: Place ham on a rack in an open roasting pan with the fat side up. Set oven control at 325 to 350 and allow for regular hams, about 20 minutes to the pound. Add no water. About 30 minutes before cooking time is up take ham from oven, remove rind, if any, score the fat, and decorate ham in any way which you may choose—pieces of fruit cut in fancy shapes, etc.—and bake ham with a mixture of brown sugar, honey and spices. Return ham to oven and bake several more times during this last half hour, with the sugar and spice mixture. A little honey may be dripped over the ham, if desired.

The ham platter may be garnished in a number of ways; with broiled fruits, apricots, pears, pineapple or glazed apple rings. This fruit garnish may be served as an accompaniment to the ham.

Now to get on with some ways to serve the eggs, which are an inevitable part of the Easter parade. By all means serve for dinner or supper a Easter egg salad. There are various ways to make them, here are examples:

Easter Egg Salads.

In a little nest of shredded lettuce or cabbage mixed with a little finely chopped green pepper, an egg or two may rest. The egg should be cooked and colored with vegetable coloring which is harmless and tasteless. Very pretty colors in these vegetable food colors are available.

Or cut hard cooked eggs in half crosswise, remove yolk and to part of the yolk add seasonings, tart mayonnaise, deviled ham or minced chives. Make the yolk into tiny balls, resembling eggs, and pile them into the white egg "basket." Make a handle for the basket with a shred of lemon peel or green pepper, and around the edge pipe a fluting of colored mayonnaise.

Eggs in Bacon Rings.
(Suggested for Easter Breakfast)
Butter the inside of ramekins, individual baking dishes or custard cups. Fry bacon or broil, being careful not to let strips get too dry or crisp. Line each cup with a slice of bacon and into the center place an egg. Season with salt and a little pepper and cover with a sprinkling of grated cheese. Set in a warm oven until whites of eggs are set. Remember always to cook eggs at a low temperature; high temperatures toughen them.

Easter Breakfast Eggs.
Consider also an egg dish with a golden sauce for Easter breakfast. Cut hard-cooked eggs in half lengthwise and place two halves on a piece of toast. Add grated cheese to a cream sauce and stir until well mixed and creamy. Serve generous quantities of this sauce of each serving of egg on toast. Serve it all piping hot. For a rich, "cheesy" sauce allow one-half pound cheese to 1 1/2 cups cream sauce.

Quickly cooled eggs peel easily. Let cold water run over eggs to cool them. Or add 1 tablespoon salt to 1 quart water in which eggs are boiled.

Beauty Is Easter Motif

Easter dinner is one of the most important meals of the year, and plans for it now are occupying the thoughts of every housekeeper. It must be good and it must be as beautifully served as the facilities of the household will allow, for hasn't Mother Nature herself set the example for us to follow? Hasn't she produced jonquils in abundance, and hyacinths, and budding pussywillow and winter honeysuckle, and hasn't she set the little bluebirds singing their own cheery version of "It's spring, it's spring" early these mornings?

The color scheme of your Easter table can be of your own choosing. There is no set rule to follow, but yellow and green, colors which are suggestive of the tender early buds and flowers, most often are used. Yellow daffodils or jonquils in a crystal bowl and soft yellow candles in crystal candlesticks are pretty, indeed. Equally pretty are all white flowers and white candles for the table, with the color introduced in the little nests of Easter eggs, which, of course, will find a place in every home, whether the children are old or young.

But let's get along with the subject of food. What shall be the piece de resistance for the dinner on this happy day? Shall it be ham, baked and decorated with fruits that suggest springtime flowers? Or shall we have broiled lamb for breakfast and for dinner bring out a savory roast leg of lamb to be served with mint sauce? You can take your choice because both entrees are quite correct for the Easter dinner table.

Here are some menus which might help you to make up your mind:

Easter Breakfast.

Orange Juice
Prepared Cereal with Sliced Bananas

Eggs in Bacon Rings

Tiny Hot Cross Buns, Butter
Hot Chocolate for Children

Triumphantly holding up an Easter egg which undoubtedly fascinates her baby eyes, is Meredith—while her sister, Pearson, places yellow chicks in her Easter basket. They are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Henry. It looks like the Easter bunny paid an early visit to these tots.

Piece de Resistance of many Easter tables—Baked Ham.

Ideas From a Cook's Notebook

Eye-appeal is important. Garnish fish steaks, broiled fish or baked fish with mashed potato, grapefruit sections and parsley. Fatty fish may be garnished with slices of cucumber or tomato, or with whole stuffed tomatoes. Ripe olives, heated in their own juice, are good with many meats, as well as fish. Roast or fried chicken may be served in a border of celery, with a garnish of parsley or watercress, or with orange cups filled with diced orange. Roast duck is attractive with endive, slices of orange, currant jelly; roast goose with baked apple rings.

Dessert surprise: Orange cottage pie, with brown sugar base, covered with orange sections and juice, topped by rich, slightly sweetened biscuit dough. Serve hot or cold with cream.

Cream of Onion Soup.
Two cups thinly sliced onions, three tablespoons butter, five tablespoons flour, four and one-half cups milk, salt and pepper, six toast rounds, grated American cheese.

Fry the onions in butter over low heat until golden brown, stirring frequently. Add the flour and mix well. Add the milk gradually and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Season with salt and pepper to taste and keep hot in double boiler. Sprinkle the toast rounds with cheese and place under the broiler until the cheese is melted and slightly browned. Serve on the soup. Serves six.

Pork Chops Mexican.
Six pork chops, two onions finely chopped, two green peppers, finely chopped; three tablespoons shortening, one tablespoon flour, two-thirds cup tomato catsup, one cup water, one teaspoon flour, two-thirds cup tomato catsup, one cup water, one teaspoon prepared mustard, one teaspoon horseradish, one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, one teaspoon chili powder, one tablespoon vinegar, salt and pepper, flour for chops.

Rub chops well with salt, pepper, flour, and fry until lightly browned. Add fry until lightly browned. Add fry until lightly browned. Add fry until lightly browned. Let come to boil, reduce Maple Salad Dressing.

Three tablespoons butter, one tablespoon cornstarch, one-fourth cup maple syrup, one tablespoon vinegar, one-half cup heavy cream, whites of three eggs, pinch salt.

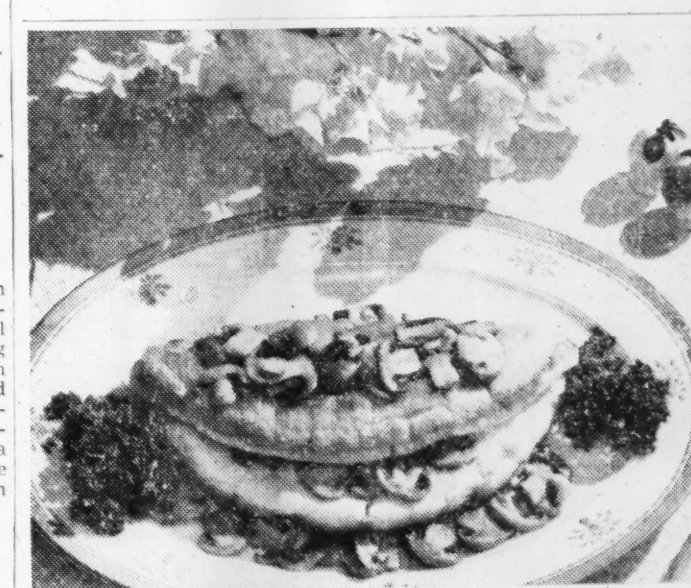

Melt the butter, add cornstarch moistened with vinegar, salt and syrup. Cook until thick and cool. When ready to serve add whites of eggs beaten stiff and cream whipped. Novel and luscious with fruit salad, served as dessert or as afternoon refreshments.

Pineapple cream dressing is just the thing to serve with that fruit salad. It is particularly delicious with a grapefruit-banana combination. One package cream, one-half cup pineapple juice, one-fourth teaspoon each salt and paprika, one-half cup cream, whipped, few drops lemon juice. Work cheese to a smooth paste. Stir in gradually pineapple juice, salt and paprika. Fold in whipped cream. Just before serving beat well and season with a little lemon juice.

Mushroom Omelette makes tasty use of eggs.

Mock duck really is lamb shoulder.

You're Asking Me

Question: How do you make batter for French fried onions?

Cover Batter.

Answer: One cup flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, 1 egg, slightly beaten; 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon fat, melted.
Mix flour and salt, combine egg, milk and fat and add gradually to flour, beating with rotary beater until smooth. Use as cover batter for vegetables and meats; or use for fruits and sprinkle fried product with confectioner's sugar.

Question: Can flour and cornstarch be used interchangeably in recipes, and what amounts are needed when making substitutes?

Answer: In a recipe where the flour or cornstarch is used simply as a thickening agent, they may be used interchangeably, one tablespoon of cornstarch being the approximate equivalent of three tablespoons of flour. The cornstarch looks clearer than flour when cooked and this should be kept in mind if it matters in the finished dish.

Question: What should I serve to make a baked fish dinner complete?

Answer: Suggested menu with baked fish as main dish: Fruit cup, baked fish, creamed potatoes, green beans, frozen cheese salad, whole wheat muffins, mocha refrigerator cake.

Question: Should cakes be put in just warm oven and then set heat control or should oven be pre-heated to required temperature before putting in cake?

Answer: This is a question upon which cooks differ in opinion. I advise an oven pre-heated to the right temperature before putting in the cake—except for angel food and fruit cakes. These may be placed in a cold oven and the temperature control set to maintain a low baking temperature.

Question: When preparing liver for cooking should it be washed in boiling water?

Answer: No. Liver may be rinsed in cold water, or merely wiped with a damp cloth before cooking.

Question: In substituting whole wheat flour for white, what proportion do you use?

Answer: Approximately 3-4 cup whole wheat flour is the equivalent of 1 cup white flour.

Question: What is meant by "compressed" yeast?

Answer: Compressed yeast is moist and reacts quickly in the presence of more moisture and heat. Compressed yeast is of paste-like consistency. It contrasts with dry yeast which is hard and dry.

Prize Winning Recipes For This Week

EASTER SALADS.

Submitted by Mrs. E. M. Lundrum, Rt. 1, Aragon, Ga.
No. 1. Use individual rings of aspic, colored green. Unmold on lettuce leaves and fill center with "eggs" molded from cream cheese and tinted in delicate shades. No. 2. Place a ring of pineapple on a bed of lettuce. Decorate with a lily made of cream cheese, using pastry bag or paper tube for this purpose.

LUSCIOUS CHOCOLATE ICE BOX CAKE.

Submitted by Miss Eunice Bowdoin, Rt. 1, Mansfield, Ga.
4 squares unsweetened chocolate
1-2 cup sugar
Dash of salt
1-4 cup hot water
1 tablespoon cold water
1 teaspoon granulated gelatin
1-2 cup whipped cream
4 egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 egg whites stiffly beaten

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sugar, salt and hot water, stirring until sugar is dissolved and mixture blended. Add cold water to gelatin, soak five minutes then add to hot chocolate mixture and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Cook until mixture is smooth and thickened. Add egg whites one at a time, beating well after each addition, and continue cooking 2 minutes. Add vanilla. Cool. Fold in egg whites and whipped cream. Line bottom and sides of mold with lady fingers, add thin layer of chocolate mixture and continue with alternate layers, topping with chocolate mixture. Chill in refrigerator 12 to 24 hours. Unmold and decorate with whipped cream and walnut meats. Serves 12.

ORANGE LOAF.

Submitted by Mrs. J. G. Adams, Tyrone, Ga.
2 cups cake flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-2 cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
Grated rind of 1 orange
3-4 cup strained orange juice

Sift, then measure flour, then sift three times with baking powder and salt. Cream butter until light, add sugar gradually, beating well. Slowly add egg yolks which have been beaten until thick and creamy. Add orange rind. Alternately add liquid to dry ingredients, mixing well. Turn into a waxed-paper lined pan and bake in moderate oven. Frost with orange-coconut frosting.

Amusing Fowl

Mock duck is an amusing bird created from a lamb shoulder. While the children's downy ducks given by adoring relatives and friends are wobbling about trying to understand the excitement of their new world, this lamb duck can adorn your dinner table. Your retail meat man will have to form it for you, and you cook it as you would any tender roast, in an open pan, without adding water.

Mock Duck.

Have mock duck made from lamb shoulder. Wrap the duck's head in salt pork or bacon to prevent charring. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and place on a rack in an open roasting pan. Turn oven control to 300 and allow about 35 minutes to the pound for roasting. When done, remove bacon from head and make eyes with small pieces of fruit, if desired. It is not difficult to carve. Slice it vertically, beginning at the "tail" end. Duck may be served with mint sauce or jelly or it may be spread with currant jelly just before serving.

Tasty Omelette

For Easter breakfast or supper perhaps you will want an omelette, since eggs are much in the Easter scene. Here is a grand looking one with mushrooms. Try it:

Omelette with Mushrooms.

Prepare omelette as follows: Add 6 tablespoons milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper to 6 egg yolks which have been beaten until light. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in skillet and heat well. Pour omelette mixture into hot skillet and cook over low heat for three to five minutes, then place omelette in moderate oven, 350 and bake approximately 15 minutes. Fold omelette, when done, in half and serve with mushroom sauce, made thus:

Mushrooms: 1-4 cup butter, juice of 1 lemon, salt and pepper, and 1-2 pound fresh mushrooms. Heat butter in skillet, add lemon juice, salt and pepper. Simmer mushrooms until tender, about 10 minutes, in this.

How about a nest of Easter eggs atop your dessert?

Do you know why some cooks give the filled cake tin a few sharp bumps before putting it into the oven? The theory is that this causes the air bubbles to come to the surface and break, which removes one cause of falling, and improves the texture of the cake.

Regal Chocolate Sauce.

2 squares unsweetened chocolate
6 tablespoons water
1-2 cup sugar
Dash of salt
3 tablespoons butter
1-4 teaspoon vanilla
Add chocolate to water and place over low flame, stirring until blended. Add sugar and salt and cook until sugar is dissolved and mixture very slightly thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from fire; add butter and vanilla. Makes about 1 cup sauce.

Potato Pancakes Made With Grated Raw Potatoes.

First of all, scrub and pare about 4 large-sized potatoes and grate them into cold water to keep them from discoloring. (You will want 2 cups of grated potatoes for this recipe.) Drain them well, and add 1 egg well beaten, together with 2 tablespoons of flour and sufficient milk to make a stiff batter. Season to taste with salt and pepper, and you may add onion juice, if desired. Cook in a frying pan with hot fat in the depth of about one-half inch. A large spoonful of batter makes a good-sized cake. Cook until well browned and crisp and serve as a vegetable with meat and gravy. These pancakes are especially good with stew.

RICHMOND, Va., March 21.—(P)—Hjalmar J. Procope, Finnish minister to the United States, told bankers of the fifth Federal Reserve district that his country's treaty with Russia "shall not be a new Munich." YOUNGSTERS WRECK LIGHTS ON AUTOS
MILWAUKEE, March 21.—(AP) Two small boys plus one hammer equaled a lot of headaches for employees who park their automobiles in a parking company lot here. The youngsters, one 4 and the other 7, smashed headlights and tail lights on more than 100 cars before they were caught seeking other targets.

U. S. COURT ADMITS ARNALL AND SMITH

Attorneys Move to Assure Rivers of Counsel Next Month.

Attorney General Ellis Arnall and his assistant, Herschel E. Smith, were admitted to practice in United States court for the northern district of Georgia yesterday. Both men had their certificates forwarded immediately to the United States circuit court of appeals in New Orleans so Governor Rivers would be assured of qualified counsel when the court passes on his argument with Federal Judge Bascom Deaver next month. Smith explained neither he nor Arnall were members of the court of appeals bar and therefore not entitled to practice before the body. A certificate of admittance to a federal district court, plus a fee, however, qualifies a lawyer before the circuit court. Smith said that while he has been admitted to practice in the southern federal district and Arnall in the middle district, they felt there wasn't enough time to send home for their certificates, so applied for permission to practice in the northern district and new certificates. The attorneys were presented by Assistant United States Attorney J. J. Flynt Jr., and were admitted by Judge William H. Barrett, of the southern district, who is presiding during the illness of Judge E. Marvin Underwood.

SINGING IN BARNESVILLE. BARNESVILLE, Ga., March 21. The Southwest Georgia Singing Convention will be held here Sunday, March 24, instead of March 31, as previously announced, R. B. Wilder, of LaGrange, president, said today. The convention meets the fourth Sunday in each month.

MY DAY: Give Children Toy Chicks and Bunnies

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY.—The hunting accident which happened to my daughter-in-law, Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt Jr., yesterday, upset us all considerably. We must be grateful that she was not killed. I suppose one cannot blame the horse, for the ground is still somewhat slippery. To be laid up for some months is going to be very hard for Ethel. I hate to think of the pain and discomfort which she must go through. I suppose it is a great deal to ask, but I wish that all young married people with children would give up hunting. I know how much fun it must be for them and that they never expect any accident to happen, but to an old and timid person like myself to take risks seems unnecessary.

I suppose weeks in bed give us an opportunity for inner growth which nothing else might achieve, and so, perhaps, this is one of the ways in which the Lord educates His children. When I was a child, we had an old nurse who used to say whenever anything particularly unfortunate happened to us, "Whom the Lord loveth, He chasteneth." Perhaps it is comforting to feel that whatever happens to us is probably intended to give us a chance for spiritual development.

I flew to New York city this morning on a very early plane, and the dentist and I have a rendezvous at noon. Easter is drawing near, so I must do some Easter shopping. Among other things, an article in the New York Herald Tribune warns us against buying our children and grandchildren live chicks and bunnies for Easter, and suggests that the toy ones give just as much pleasure. I quite agree and can well understand why the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is fostering a campaign against this habit of giving children poor little defenseless animals at Easter. I never thought it was healthy for either the animals or the children, so I hope this campaign will be very successful. There is just one place where baby chicks and rabbits are permissible and this is on the farm.

Freedom from entertaining these days is really most refreshing. I spent the whole of yesterday doing extremely routine things, such as having my hair done and going to tea with a friend. It seemed almost unheard of to have time for anything as leisurely and peaceful as that and we actually drove home through Rock Creek park. Just because the air is warmer does not mean that the trees have begun to bud. I can't say that I saw many signs of spring.

New Bolero Outfit

By Lillian Mae.

Clever fashion collaborators—this slim little dress topped off by a bright bolero! Lillian Mae has planned Pattern 4415 to give the maximum wearing pleasure for the minimum sewing effort. The princess lines of the frock are quick to stitch and very becoming. And novelty is brought to the foreground in the skirt by tucks at the waistline that release soft fullness below. More tucks at the back waist give extra walking freedom. The notched neckline is a dashing touch, and you might add big pockets—an important new fashion note! The bolero looks stunning with contrasting lapels to match the gay dress.

Pattern 4415 is available in misses and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16, entire ensemble, takes 4 1-4 yards 35-inch fabric and 1 3-8 yards contrast.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Have a Lily Pool In Your Own Yard

What if your back yard is no bigger than a pocket handkerchief? It's still big enough for this sparkling lily pool and this gaily blooming rock garden.

You can transform your yard into such an enchanting spot, easily and expensively.

Your lily pool may be a tub, or any water-tight container, sunk slightly below soil level. Half fill with garden loam and add 1-2 inch or more of clean sand. Then fill with water to the tub's edge—which you've hidden with flagstones or sod.

For your little pool you will need only one pigmy lily, which will give you a hundred dazzlingly lovely blooms—in waxen white, red or yellow.

For companion pieces, plant in the pool an exotic umbrella fern, parrot's feather, for baby goldfish to hide in. Leave some open water to reflect sky and clouds. Then, to complete your picture, plant forget-me-nots and marsh-marigolds in the crevices between the flags about the pool's edge.

As for your rock garden, if it's sunny, choose hardy candytuft with blossoms of white or lavender, and blue-flowered gentians for late summer. And charming is the campanula caroliniana with its stately light blue flowers peeping shyly above the stones.

How to make your rock garden? Or build a slope for it if you haven't a natural one? Our 40-page booklet, "Gardening Made Easy," gives complete directions, simple diagrams for making rock gardens and lily pools. Tells also how to plant roses, gourds, herbs, trees, lawns. Gives advice on border, boundary planting, growing flowers for cutting, propagating plants. Has instructions for vegetable gardens, window and roof gardens.

Send 15 cents in coins for our booklet, GARDENING MADE EASY, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Poke at Demon Rum.

Golden Rule Of Hygiene Is Good One

By Dr. William Brady.

A layman, as he modestly calls himself, by the name of Van Winkle, who, as will appear, is no relation of old Rip's, says a talk in this column recently has given him an idea. As Layman Van Winkle unfolds his idea the germ of it gives me an idea. So let's hold a little round table discussion and propagate our ideas in the popular mind.

"If cri germs are transmitted in the visible and invisibly fine droplets of moisture spray given off from mouth and nose during conversation (as well as by sneezing and coughing), which spray the victim inhales if he happens to be within range of the scoundrel who has the cri or is coming down with it, wouldn't a person be likely to swallow some of the germs while dining with the scoundrel?"

Layman Van Winkle didn't call the blighter a scoundrel, but I so designate any one who peddles the cri, just to keep the picture clear. It is conceivable, of course, that some germs of virus carried in conversational spray may be swallowed, but the usual route of infection is via inhalation.

A partition of some kind high enough to shut out the cough, sneeze or conversational spray of your neighbor is precisely the protection used in the finest hospitals to guard against spread of respiratory infection from one patient to another nearby—the cubicle system instead of the open ward.

A partition of glass should be universally used by bank clerks, ticket sellers and others whose duty involves being within conversational spray range of countless people throughout working hours.

Only ten or twelve years ago it was difficult or impossible to tell the truth about respiratory infection in public. I was actually forbidden to do so by the people who controlled one of the great radio chains. I lived when I described this mode of infection. They feared it would be unpleasant for listeners.

Of course no one cares to go about with a screen or umbrella to guard against the common respiratory infections. Few are willing even to wear suitable masks except in circumstances of grave alarm.

But a sensible application of and a conscientious compliance with the golden rule of hygiene will prevent a great deal of the illness which keeps physicians from starving these days. That rule is simply to remain isolated when you have the cri, when you are coming down with it, or else wear a suitable mask to protect any one unfortunate enough to come within your conversational spray range, which, for ordinary quiet conversation, is not more than five feet.

I have been studying this subject for many years, and it has been my observation that even people intelligent enough to understand how respiratory infection occurs are not at all honest or conscientious.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Belly Breathing.

Twelve years ago became ill, lost much weight (went down from 175 to 145 pounds in three months). I could find no cause, no effective treatment. Four years ago began doing your belly breathing exercise. Had little faith in it, but in a few days stepped on scales and found weight increased a pound or two. Kept on with the B. B. and in three months again weighed 175 pounds. I weigh the same, have fine health.

(W. A. M.)

Answer—The Belly Breathing did no harm, probably helped improve general nutrition, but we had better give the credit chiefly to our good friend A. J. Coincidence. I am glad to send any one, on request, instructions for Belly Breathing exercise. It is as helpful for men with pelvic troubles as it is for women with pelvic troubles. Remember, you pay the freight—inclose stamped envelope bearing your address. If you fail to do so you'll have to go breathing the best you can for all of me.

One Thank Is Plenty.

Thanks a million for the wheat germ information. I eat it every day and it has done me a world of good. I have diabetes, and of course try to diet, but since I began taking wheat germ I feel fine, am regular, not tired all the time, and now enjoy taking exercise every day.

Answer—It is not often that readers trouble to report their experience, unless they want additional advice. Wheat germ is the richest food source of vitamin B complex. Of course it contains approximately the same amount of starch as ordinary flour. Vitamin B is an important food accessory for every diabetes patient—the restricted diet is usually poor in vitamin B. Optimal daily intake of vitamin B, preferably in the natural form of B-complex, enables many diabetes patients to thrive on a reduced daily dosage of insulin. For this reason I call vitamin B-complex "poor man's insulin." If you have diabetes I'll be glad to give you further particulars I can, but remember, I have a cypoclopedia.

Today's Charm Tip.

If a hat makes you feel what we choose to call "hat-ty," self-conscious in other words, it is not the hat that will show you off at your poised best.

A Bird In a Gilded Cage Is Novel Perfume Package

By Lillian Mae

Let the Birds in a Gilded Cage say your "Happy Easter" for you this happy season.

Of course you want to look lovely beneath your Easter bonnet. Well, here's your best chance to really look lovely—and it's all beneath your Easter bonnet, for one of our cosmetic friends has put everything necessary there!

In a striped hat there's a diminutive wide-brimmed straw bonnet which, when lifted, reveals cleansing cream, skin lotion, special astringent, nourishing cream, cream mask, two shades of powder and an almond-scented bath mit. Don't you think you could turn a bright new face to spring with this Easter bonnet—the bonnet laden with just the grandest line of essentials to a lovely complexion? This for only $5.

EASTER BIRD CAGE.

A white box bound with ribbons in a variety of pastel shades—all tied at the peak into a festoon of flowers, to resemble a bird cage about which flit bright metallic birds.

Nestled within this bird cage-shaped box are three of the perfume's favorite scents, harmonizing in a melody of loveliness.

This is destined to be one of the catchiest gifts of the season, I believe, even though it was inspired by romantic notions and lush sentiments.

The base of the cage is a muted pink, and the wire scrollings are in gold-tone.

WINGED GREETINGS.

A sky-blue-pink bird with a rose bud and greeting card in its mouth perches on June geranium soap. In blue cellophane like a shiny blue nest in a rosy-hued box, the soap comes in two sizes—either the round bath soap size or a generous loaf-size lump. Both packages are bright-winged couriers of the springest of greetings.

Don't forget to do right by her for Easter. Let your gift convey your real sentiments. Phone me, and I'll tell you the name of these packages—the Easter Bonnet, the Bird in the Gilded Cage, and the Winged Greeting—and where they may be purchased.

A Mother Should Merit Her Daughter's Confidence

By Caroline Chatfield.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I'm 18; don't go to school but help my folks. Since I was 16 I have had plenty of boy friends. The very first one I loved, but gave him up because mother didn't like him, said it wouldn't do to have a husband of different nationality and different religion. Really, I think she is quite old-fashioned. Well, now I have found the real one, but burnt child dreading the fire I haven't told mother anything about him or let her know how very well. He's Italian and Catholic, I'm English and Protestant. His family is crazy about me and I'm crazy about his family. He isn't making enough yet to support a wife, but when he gets ahead we are going to get married. Don't you think I have just cause for keeping the facts from my mother since she broke up another love affair for the same reason: difference in nationality and religion?

HELENE.

ANSWER: No, I don't; and your conscience is hurting you or you wouldn't be asking me to tell you you are doing right. I think any 18-year-old girl should confide in her mother about her love affairs, and nine times out of ten she regrets it when she doesn't. Mother's fault when she is secretive, some say. Maybe so, but this doesn't alter the fact that mother often knows best what is good for daughter and what isn't. When daughter bulges ahead and has surreptitious love affairs on the side and plans to be married without telling mother, she pays for it with bitter tears.

So take your mother into your confidence and assure her you aren't going to do anything rash but will wait until you have reached your majority before you march to the altar. If this doesn't satisfy her it will pacify her and give you time to think your way through the subject, which is more than you have done so far.

Plenty of Protestants and Catholics are married and live like cooing doves. Usually their chances of harmony and happiness are increased by getting together in one church. For some inexplicable reason the average church person wants to go to Heaven by his own particular route and only the broad-minded are willing to admit there is any route but the one they are following. Consequently it's a rare pair of parents who are willing for their children to change churches.

Nevertheless, this is a decision which young couples have a right to make without family interference, provided they are old enough to understand what they are doing and why.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

THE WOMAN'S QUIZ

Q. How can I remove perspiration stains from a dress?

A. Light stains can be removed by sponging with warm water. If the color of the material is changed, hold the stain over the fumes of a bottle containing ammonia.

Q. Why are enameled-lined cans used in canning certain foods?

A. To preserve the appearance of foods that discolor in plain tin, or prevent excessive darkening or corrosion of the cans.

Q. How many times should clothes be rinsed and in what temperature water?

A. Two rinses or more will tend to make the clothes whiter. The first rinse should be hot or warm and the succeeding rinses may be warm or cold.

Q. How soon should a baby begin to wear shoes?

A. As soon as he tries to stand and before he learns to walk he should wear shoes that fasten around the ankle and that have soles firm enough to permit his feet to take their natural position. The shoes should be long enough so that the toes are not crowded and will have complete freedom of motion.

Q. Is cancer a single disease?

A. The American Society for the Control of Cancer says that the term "cancer" includes all forms of malignant growth, of which very many varieties are known. They all have certain

Garbo Resorts To Yogi Cult

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, March 21.—Garbo, who recently returned from her Florida wanderings with Doc Hauser, is the latest film follower of the Yogi cult. As part of the latter system, Greta has to sit cross-legged (like an old-fashioned tailor) for something like an hour a day. In confidence, the lady requires extra large chairs to accommodate her. Garbo is completely off the Hauser diet of nuts and carrot juice, eats meat twice a day, but dissipates possible fat by exercising violently for an hour and a half every morning. By the way, the Swedish actress suffers with insomnia, or rather awakens at a very early hour, and so retires to bed at 10 o'clock, no matter what the party or companions. About her much-touted romance with Hauser, disinterested observers do not believe that it will end at the altar.

That Errol Flynn-Orson Welles feud has taken a new and unexpected turn. It seems that Errol is a tiny bit jealous of Orson's producer-director-writer-acting contract, and is planning a similar deal with his Warner bosses whereby Errol will produce, direct, write and act in a full-length feature film to be financed and released by Warners. The epic will be of the 100 per cent he-man variety, with Errol as a sort of stream-lined jungle Tarzan.

Humphrey Bogart complains: "People think I go to sleep with a couple of cats in my hands." Humphrey has played more screen gangsters than any other actor in Hollywood. "I used to be the hero before I did 'Petrified Forest,'" says Bogart. "But that play petrified me into a heavy." He is now playing his umpteenth gangster in "Brother Orchid." By a strange coincidence, Bogart is one of the few film stars with a bona-fide college education. Screen Moron Nat Pendleton is another.

Nice to be married to William Powell. Bill wanted to go away for the week-end, so he telephoned Metro studios on Friday and asked his wife's boss to excuse her from work that afternoon, and, furthermore, he would appreciate it if she were not called for Monday. The schedule of the "Andy Hardy" picture was rearranged accordingly. Which is nice for Diana personally. But I have a hunch that Mrs. Powell's career is of secondary importance to her role of wife. Which is as it should be.

A male friend of mine recently played tennis with Myrna Loy and had this to say after the experience: "She is the nicest person in the world, but the worst tennis player." I am told on good authority that the reason George Cukor closed the set of "Susan and God" for several days last week was to keep Joan Crawford in a mood of "spiritual exaltation." She loves the mood after talking to visitors (and this includes columnists). . . . Hedy Lamarr's new short haircut has already resulted in a general trimming of Hollywood locks. I got my first view of it lurching at the Metro commissary when Hedy entered the room. She looked slowly around—and exited.

Health notes: Clark Gable's flu is holding up the start of "boom town." Mrs. Gable is down with the same ailment. And their house currently resembles a hospital. . . . Rosalind Russell has been very much under the weather lately—digestion trouble, the result of a too-fancy diet. . . . And, talking about diets, Madeleine Carroll tells me that her recent added poundage was not the result of over-eating, but because "for the last six months I have been in a state of lethargy, and every time I get into that silly state I gain weight." She is out of it now and has lost that double chin.

A writer friend of mine wanted Michael Curtiz to read a story he had authored. "I'm busy," said Mike. My friend wore him down. "All right," said Mike, reluctantly. "I'll read it with an open mind, but I tell you right now, I won't like it."

characteristics in common, such as uncontrolled growth, tendency to spread widely in the body, and fatal termination if not treated early and adequately. They differ in certain other characteristics, such as location in the body, microscopic appearance, and response to treatment. Their histories of development may be quite dissimilar and it is probable that the conditions which may precede them also differ greatly.

Q. What is the origin of coloring Easter eggs?

A. The custom appears to be very poor. Evidence of it is found in early Jewish history, also in the early history of Persia, Italy and Spain. The original purpose in coloring the eggs was to imitate the new colors of the earth, induced by the coming of spring and the blossoming of the flowers. When the custom was first taken over by the Christian church, the eggs were decorated principally in red, to denote the blood of Christ.

Keeping in trim is good for anyone, and in Hollywood it's a necessity. Here is Anne Gwynne, a trim lassie from Texas, showing how she keeps that lovely figure.

What the Average Woman Needs Is More Exercise

By Ida Jean Kain.

Thank goodness for friends who get around! One of them tipped us off about Diosa Costello, the fiery Puerto Rican whose energetic dancing is the eighth wonder of Manhattan. Said he, logically: "Anyone who can keep up that pace is bound to have a schedule for healthful living that should make the average woman open her eyes."

Our acquaintance with Miss Costello made us open our eyes! She has enough vivacity and persistence for three women! It would be understatement to say that she radiates vitality. She scintillates with it! And apparently she does not know the meaning of "tired." She makes eight appearances a week in a Broadway show—and after the night performance she hurries over to the supper club where she has another dancing engagement.

She looks so fresh and beautiful that nobody would ever suspect she had just finished a hard day's work. And she puts so much energy into her dancing that every now and then some hopeful manufacturer of vitamin products is struck by the idea that she must have been taking them by the carton, and sends a scout around to inquire into her food habits.

Her platform on calories is perfectly clear. Says she: "We Latins like three big meals a day, with a little something about 4 o'clock, after the siesta, and again in the evening after dinner. Most Latin meals are fattening. No matter what else we have to eat, the meal is incomplete without beans and rice. We have both at the same meal and eat like North Americans eat meat."

For breakfast, our exponent of energy usually orders three raw eggs. Sometimes four. She admits that "I don't really like raw eggs, but they supply energy—and I need it." She doesn't like vegetables, either, but she eats them in large quantities "because they are full of vitamins and minerals and those things are very good for one." That shows the lengths to which a career girl will go when serious about her career.

Sleep she does like and regularly gets 10 hours a night and often more. She says she loves to sleep but that "at the same time I hate to do it! I'm always afraid I might be missing something!"

Figure-Flattering

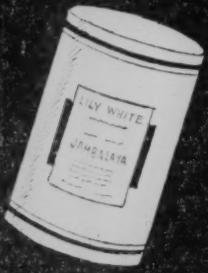

By Barbara Bell.

You can't just wear any old slip and expect your small-waisted frocks to have the smooth, suave, round-bosomed line they should have. Here's a design (1892-B) especially planned to do its part toward figure-flattery, and to fit as only a slip you make to your measure can fit. The top has bosom gathers to give you little extra fullness. The waistline is dart-fitted so that it melts into your middle just beautifully.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1892-B is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34) requires 2 3-8 yards of 39-inch material without nap for built-up shoulders; 2 1-4 yards for strap style; 11 yards of shirred lace. Price of pattern 15 cents, book 15 cents. MAKETH THE
ONION
PINEAPPLE

LIE DOWN TOGETHER

Make this test. Drop a slice of onion and a slice of pineapple into a frying pan of hot SESSIONS PEANUT OIL. AT THE SAME TIME. Let them stay until the onion is tender. Remove from the fat and taste each to see if it absorbed the flavor of the other. . . smell each to see if they contracted the odor of each other, and then smell the SESSIONS PEANUT OIL in your frying pan. You'll find it odorless and ready for use again.

That's the economical thing about SESSIONS PEANUT OIL. IT WILL NOT ABSORB FOOD ODORS OR TASTES, and, therefore, can be used over and over again.

Ask for it at your grocer's today.

RED CROSS DRIVE CARRIED TO HOMES

Financial Division Leads in Annual Roll Call; Brewer Issues Plea.

Volunteers will continue their trick from door-to-door today, seeking members for the American Red Cross, in order that no request made during an emergency will not be met, it was announced yesterday.

More than $7,000 has been reported so far in memberships and contributions.

The financial division, with L.
L. Gellerstedt as chairman, is leading all divisions with yesterday's contributions. Other divisions, in the order of standing yesterday, were: Special memberships, small business, Henry Robinson; government, John Slaton; automotive, Martin Johnson; Fulton county, office buildings, large business.

Group leaders are urged to complete their reports as soon as possible.

Chy Brewer, roll call chairman, stated: "I am confident all my colonels and captains will continue their good work and will not let this roll call for membership fail.
More than ever we need every member if the Atlanta, Fulton and DeKalb county chapters are to continue their local work in the 13 field of service. I do hope we will have reports exceeding last year's total before the drive closes on April 4."

DR. BEELER TELLS OF MALNUTRITION

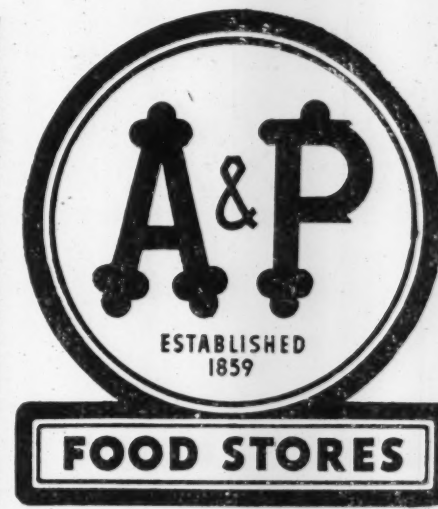

Children Underfed, Grady
Superintendent Says.

Of the more than 1,200 children who were patients in Grady hospital last year, 32 per cent suffered from malnutrition and 37 per cent returned to the hospital a second time, Dr. J. M. Beeler, hospital superintendent, told members of the Child Welfare Association at their monthly meeting recently.

Beeler spoke of the crowded conditions at the hospital, the dangerous condition of the old buildings, stated that 20,203 children visited Grady clinics during the year, and announced that the hospital "will be as good as the people of Atlanta want it to be."

FADING RAIL SLANG

GLOSSARY COMPILED
NEW YORK, March 21.—(UP)—Railroad men were "on the spot" a long time before gangsters appropriated the phrase for a different situation, according to a glossary of fading railroad terms. The list of 569 picturesque words and phrases was compiled by Freeman H. Hubbard, editor of Railroad Magazine, in an effort to save some of them for posterity. They are dying out, he said, because the men who perpetuated them—the boomers who worked from railroad to railroad—are no more.

"On the spot" to a railroad man meant a chance to sleep or rest on company time, Hubbard said.

State Patrolman Violates Rules, Quickly 'Run In'

DUBLIN, Ga., March 21.—The school patrol at the Dublin schools is so well trained it turns the "heat" on its instructors, it was learned today.
State patrolmen visited a local school Monday to give instruction to the boys enlisted in the school patrol. One of the state patrolmen inadvertently walked on the left of the hallway as he entered. No less than two of the school patrol pounced upon him with direction that pedestrians—in school halls at least—must follow the rules of the road, and keep to the right.
